"WELCOME" TO THE CLASS OF 1946!

President Marts Welcomes 100th Anniversary Class

Largest Freshmen Group In Schools History Has

16 STATES MAKE UP
INCOMING CLASS

Approximately 400 Bucknell University freshmen met in assembly in the Literature Building Auditorium Wednesday night as President A. C. Marts and other members of the School's administration welcomed the Class of 1946.

President Marts mentioned that the class of 1946 would be the 100th anniversary class of the University and that during its senior year, the members probably would be very busy conducting the centennial program.

Because of war-time conditions, President Marts continued, the students would have to work harder and that more would be expected of them during the war.

He told the freshmen that they are now becoming part of the Bucknell family consisting of more than 12,000 persons, including alumni and undergraduates.

Since the class of 1946 is the 100th anniversary class, President Marts stated that he did not know what nickname the group would acquire, but most likely would be something such as "centipedes."

He also told the freshmen that he would like to become acquainted with each one of them personally before the end of the school year, and he further stressed that if he could help any student at anytime, he would be more than glad to do it.

In closing his message to the freshmen, President Marts said that a characteristic of his speech-making was not necessarily quality, but brevity.

Dean R. H. Rivenburg opened the Assembly of the class of 1946. Following the singing of "America", the Melrose Quartette rendered a selection. Dean Rivenburg then extended a greeting to the new class and said that the class of 1946 was the largest freshman class in the history of Bucknell. Enrolled in the class are students representing 16 states and two foreign countries, Brazil and India.

At the conclusion of his talk, he introduced President Marts, who spoke to the class. Miss Treva Poling, '43, sang a solo followed by short talks from Dean Shimer, Dean Dyer, and Dean Page. Miss Poling rendered another soprano solo, and Professor Bond closed the session with a brief talk.

Dr. Daniel Poling Will Speak At Convocation

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Minister of the Grace Baptist Church in Philadelphia, will be the principle speaker at the Convocation exercises held next Thursday morning. Dr. Poling, who has been heard several times before at Bucknell, will give the Convocation address on: "What Jesus Christ Has to Say."

In the evening, Dr. Poling will speak again. His topic at this time will be: "A Preacher Looks at War."

IDENTIFICATION FOR GAME

Dr. R. W. Griffith, director of athletics, announced this morning that freshmen and transfer students will be admitted to the Bucknell-Lebanon Valley grid opened this afternoon upon presentation of their badges and permit cards.

Sophomores, juniors, and seniors will not need any budget cards but professors will be at the gates to identify them as Bucknell students and thereupon they will be admitted without charge.

BOOSTER CLUB OPENS

Organization's Aim Is To Promote School Spirit At Games

The Bucknell Booster Club, under the direction of its president, Paul Winter, '43, officially opened the membership drive for the coming year.

The aim of the Booster Club is to encourage school spirit by providing activities for and at the various athletic contests throughout the year. The club has arranged for pep rallies and sponsored buses for important away football games in the past.

This year it is again attempting to supply transportation for its members, but because of restrictions by the government difficulties have arisen.

The membership drive, which started yesterday afternoon, will be continued this afternoon before the opening of the Lebanon Valley football game at 2:00 P. M. in the Christy Mathewson Memorial Stadium.

The Board of Directors of the Booster Club is composed of nine seniors, six juniors, three sophomores, and two freshmen. The freshmen members will be elected by the present directors at the first meeting of the fall term.

The committee helping Winter with the membership drive is the other of the central executive committee: Thomas Walker, '44, treasurer; Jean Shaker, '43, secretary; and Walter N. W. M. M., secretary of administration.

Wildcats or Wolves?

Bisons Named For Buffalo Valley

"Bucknell Timberwolves to Clash with Temple Owls" might now be the headline on any metropolitan sports sheet, had the name applied to Bucknell athletic teams of 30 years ago, when the sport writers first started identifying college teams with wild beasts, such.

Back when the town barber was the self-styled dictator of Bucknell athletic policies, as well as "correspondent" for the big city dailies, Bucknell athletes were often described as "Timberwolves" and "Wildcats."

Town sentiment favored the fierce flavor of the former, although neither of the two were appropriate.

Dr. Bartol suggests "Bisons."

As the pressure for a final choice was brought to bear, Dr. William C. Bartol, formerly Professor of Mathematics and Astronomy, offered the name "Bisons" as one more suitable from all angles, not the least of which is its alliterative sound when combined with Bucknell. Proofs of its suitability are nearby Buffalo Creek, Buffalo Mountain, Buffalo Crossroads, and east Buffalo Township in or near which Bucknell is situated.

Until 1890, when the last Bison was killed at Buffalo Crossroads, the valley well deserved its name. It is estimated that at one time at least 10,000 bison roamed Buffalo Valley. As late as 1709 more than 300 were reported. That same year a large herd trampled an entire family in this vicinity and were subsequently rounded up and shot.

Each year these herds would migrate to Georgia in the fall and return to this valley in the spring. Definite routes were followed, many of which can still be traced. Professor Lewis E. Theiss, former Professor of Journalism, has located several authentic Buffalo wallows within a few miles of the campus, of which photographic records have been obtained.

"Bison" becomes permanent.

Webster's "best" describes these pre-rifle inhabitants as large, gregarious, shaggy humped quadrupeds, with shaggy manes and short black horns. Modern griffin herds are not listed, but similarities can be noted.

The Bucknellian, seeing the possibilities of "Bison", informed students and townspeople that henceforth the Bucknell Warriors would be referred to, when necessary, as Bisons. The idea was attractive to all. Excerpts from the article were reprinted in the Philadelphia Inquirer and shortly "Bucknell Bisons" supplanted its predecessors on the sports pages.

President Marts Talks
At Student Church

Sunday evening, September 27, at 8:45 o'clock, President A. C. Marts will address the Bucknell Student Church in Hunt Hall living room. Mr. Marts' address will deal with college life as concerned with the war and the war effort.

Greeks Plan New Rushing Program

Raffle System To Do Away
With Confusion; Oct. 7
To Be Opening Date

Inaugurating a new system that promises to do away with the confusion and muddle of the rushing weeks in the past, the Inter-Fraternity Council plans to use the "Raffle" principle of rushing.

This system, used with noteworthy success in various other schools does away with the gathering of fraternity men before the freshmen rooms far before the appointed time. This rule, as stated in the Inter-Fraternity rules on rushing, is as follows:

1. Raffle must begin at 6:45 A. M. on the date set.

2. The eldest man present is responsible for the running of the raffle.

3. Numbers equal to the number of men present at 6:45 will be written on individual slips and placed in a hat.

4. Numbers drawn indicates the order of entrance (the individual running the raffle must take the remaining number).

5. At 7:00 A. M. the men holding number 1 enters the room.

(Important):

1. Other preferences are signed in the manner used in previous years.

2. A man may participate in only one raffle.

Greek rushing this year will start at seven o'clock on the morning of October 7, 1942 and end at ten o'clock on Oct. 13. The rules established by the Inter-Fraternity Council will be in effect for the entire rushing period. In place of the meal date schedule that has been previously printed on the back of the Rushing Handbook the council has presented a "Fraternity Date Schedule" to each freshman before the beginning of the rushing week. Using this in lieu of the old form, the freshmen will write their meal dates in this new form to keep the confusion of the rushing program to a minimum.

Sorority rushing that usually begins in the middle of October, has been postponed until the end of November. Monday, November 30, has been set as the opening date and the rushing period is slated to end on the sixth of December.

Coeds Will Lead
Cheers Today

Girl cheerleaders will be a feature of the Bucknell home football games this season, for the first time since 1939.

The girls were discontinued in 1939 because it was believed to be too great a strain on the girls who became sensitive under the pressure of a critical crowd.

College cheerleading, in which very few girls partake, is vastly different from high school cheerleading where the majority of cheerleaders are feminine. The college cheerleader faces an older group, a group which is, on the whole, less responsive than high school groups, where a vigorous spirit of loyalty is rampant. The college student or the spectator at a college game, as an individual, cheers less and yet expects more in the way of general spirit from the crowd. These are some of the factors which make college cheerleading more difficult for the cheerleader and thus it was generally inadvisable to have girls serving in that capacity.

Last winter, however, an interest in girl cheerleaders again arose, and under the direction of Walt Noll, '44, a squad of girls was trained and put

Civilian, Military Problems To Be Discussed In Monday Meeting

A discussion of the Civilian Defense Corps and the military problem will replace the Bucknell Counseling Program originally scheduled for Monday evening, September 28th, in the Vaughan Literature Auditorium.

Forrest Brown, General Secretary of the Bucknell Christian Association, will give a general explanation of the courses for Civilian Defense Corps. Mrs. Dorothy Dyer, Dean of the Women's College, will give an explanation of the Red Cross courses offered at Bucknell.

Professor Ralph E. Page, Dean of Men, will discuss the Army, Navy, and Marine Reserve Corps, together with their respective Reserve Air Corps. Following his address, Dean Page will answer all questions concerned with these Reserve Corps and the draft.

Dr. John Rice, faculty leader of the Bucknell Student Board of Health and Professor of Bacteriology, will give a brief outline of the immunization program on campus last year. Dr. Rice will explain the necessity of such a program and its continuation throughout the new school year.

Organization Heads
Speak At Banquet

Walt Field, '43, president of the Student Faculty Congress explained the functions and the purpose of the organization at the annual freshmen banquet held last evening in the Women's College Dining Room. Marilyn Epley, president of the Women's Student Government Association, discussed the functions of the women's governing organization.

Other student speakers of the evening were Virginia McCabe, '43 and Robert Walker, '43, president of the Pan-Hellenic organization and Inter-Fraternity Council, respectively. The regulations governing sororities and fraternities were outlined for the class of '46.

After the banquet, the Bucknell movie, "Life at Bucknell" was shown in the dining room. An informal social hour of dancing in Hunt Hall Rec Room followed the movie. At nine-thirty, the first pre-game pep rally was held on the Women's Quadrangle. Speakers at the rally were: the Co-Captains of the football teams, William Anderson and Stephen Sokol, and Varsity Football Coach, Albert Humphreys.

Five From Class of '46
Receive Scholarships

Five members of the Class of 1946 received scholarships as a result of competitive scholarship examinations held on this campus last spring.

The three students awarded one thousand dollar scholarships were: John L. Denny, Greensburg, Pa.; Dorothy L. Huffman, Mt. Lebanon, Pa.; and Edward H. Reading, Clearfield, Pa.

The two winners of four hundred dollar scholarships were: Dorothy A. Steiner, Latrobe, Pa.; and William Sheppard, Collingswood, N. J.

STADIUM CONCESSIONS

There will be three refreshment stands at the football game on Saturday. These stands, located at the front and back of the east stand, and at the front of the west stand, are sponsored by the Bucknell Athletic Association.

Five Lettermen To Start
In Bison Forward Wall; Reserves Untested

PODD AND MAGAGNA ONLY VETERANS IN BACKFIELD

By Sy Berger

This afternoon at 2:30 P. M., Coach Al Humphreys will unveil the 1942 edition of the streamlined Bucknell grid machine, when he sends the Thundering Herd against Lebanon Valley's Flying Dutchmen in the inaugural tussle of the season at Memorial Stadium.

Led by Co-Captains Bill Anderson and Steve Sokol, the Orange and Blue will field a starting team of seven lettermen who have experienced previous tussles in Bucknell uniforms. But, once again the usual Bucknell nemesis—lack of experienced reserves—crips up as the Bisons foremost obstacle. The Bucknell mentor will have to resort to using "green" sophomores and freshmen to replace the wearied first-stringers.

From all indications, Coach "Jerry" Frock's crew will take the field on the short end of the odds, but this is no assurance of the final outcome, as Bucknell fans will remember how the underdogs forced the highly favored 1941 Bison crew to come from behind to avert an embarrassing 12-7 victory. The Lebanon Valley tutor is known to always put a scrappy team on the striped turf and all reports give assurance of this characteristic for the 1942 Lebanon eleven.

Bison Line Has Five Lettermen

The first string Bison forward wall will be made up of five experienced griders as its nucleus in the bulk of Anderson, Sokol, Walt Scott, Tom Rodgers and Len Miller. The other two line berths will be filled by "Gene" Matthews, who saw varsity action in the latter part of the '41 season, and Denton Brown, a recruit from last year's freshmen front line.

When the opening kickoff sails through the air this afternoon, the picket posts will be filled by Len Miller, a coal, play-deepening stalwart, and "Gene" Matthews, who fought his way up to a starting role. The tackle slots will be stanchioned by burly Tommy Rodgers and bone-crushing Walt Scott, a seasoned pair of hand-charging bruisers who expect to spend many an afternoon in the enemy backfield. "Tank-like" Dent Brown and Co-Captain Bill Anderson are slated for the inner flank positions to aid Co-Captain Steve Sokol, who's stationed at the pivot slot, bolster the mid-section of the line.

The field-generalship appointment will go to Clint Podd, a converted fullback, who will handle the pigskin close to the line in the newly adopted T-formation. Al Magagna will assume the greater part of the ball-carrying duties from his right-half-back position and either "Mickey" Mc-

Welcome Freshmen!

In this, the first editorial of "The Bucknellian," as you are reading we really would like to have had the chance to have made it appear in a more cheerful and optimistic vein than that which you are now about to read. We would like to have been able to say, "Welcome to Bucknell University, 300 acres set apart." We then would like to have been able to add, "You young men and women are about to embark upon the four happiest and most joyous years of your lives!" There's also a lot more material along these same lines which has been written in past years in this newspaper. Material which we, too, would like to have had the opportunity to elaborate upon. But, if it is true, and we believe that it is, that the first day of a college newspaper is to reflect the trend of thought of the student body, then it would be nothing short of absurd to write an opening editorial similar in theme to the opening editorials of a few years ago, or even of one year ago.

There is really only one message which we should like to impart to all of you new members of the Bucknell community. The message is simple. It is, merely, that Bucknell, unlike far too many other American colleges, is a "war-conscious" university. We here feel that there is nothing so tragic as a college which refuses to acknowledge the tremendous responsibility it possesses for its students as well as for itself as regards America's war effort.

In selecting Bucknell as your university you may be sure that in these days of uncertainty and unrest you have made a wise choice. In coming to Bucknell, you are not coming to a school that has made the mistake of so many other colleges that have adopted a passive and "shell-crawling" attitude toward the war situation. You will soon find that this University has adopted an extremely positive policy regarding its role in the war effort. If you can digest the one fact that this is a "war-conscious" school, and if you are prepared to sacrifice many of the pleasures and niceties long associated with college life, then there isn't anything that can prevent you from making your tenure at Bucknell a successful one.

ON THE CAMPUS

The Bucknell family is growing—by leaps and bounds, as they say in South Orange, N. J.—and as the folks on this side of the Delaware rectify it—the more the merrier!

We don't care to go soft, become philosophical, or hand out the stogie advice; rather, we'd like to remark how delightful it was to observe such a large assembly of snappy youths trodding out campus this week.

Happiness and the Bucknell Way of Life go hand in hand. So, as we start up the hill, winding about pathways in the shadows of the sturdy elms, we feel that the smiling faces of the Class of 1946 will form a definite part of campus life.

All that happiness we'd like to grasp tightly—yes, and never let go. *****

Perhaps for the first time in the history of Bucknell, the freshmen will have an opportunity to taste the full flavor of campus life before the classrooms beckon. For a complete sample there should be a football game—and this afternoon holds the treat, Bucknell meeting Lebanon Valley at Memorial Stadium at 2:30 o'clock.

What's more the freshmen representation will be "all-out" for nearly a dozen members of the class of '46 are part of the Orange and Blue varsity squad.

Zounds, they're losing little time! *****

Here and there we've been keeping an eye on the newcomers. "Okey Weaver's bent towards movie life, caught our attention as he pointed to a recent arrival, Robert Taylor. Then later in the day we met another Bob Taylor, and, as you can imagine, we thought the tables had been reversed and we were being taken for a ride. However, there are two Robert Taylors in the freshman class.

And fellows, please don't get discouraged. We unearthed a Miss Jean Tierney, who came all the way from Connecticut to matriculate at Bucknell. Then there's Johnny Warder from Harrisburg whose dad left Bucknell during the dim days of 1917 for France to battle with the famous "Bucknell Battalion."

13 JUNIOR CO-EDS TO COUNSEL FROSH; ARE SHORTER THAN PREDECESSORS

While the average American girl continues to grow in stature each year, Bucknell's girl counselors are becoming shorter a check-up of the heights and weights of 13 newly appointed coeds who will serve as advisers to the freshmen was revealed today.

This coming semester will mark the first time a girl's counseling staff has been composed entirely of girls from the junior class.

The "average" Bucknell girl counselor will measure a little more than five feet, three inches from head to toe and will tip the scales at 125½ pounds. Last year's "average" was: Height—five feet, six inches; Weight—132 pounds.

Cushing, Kankakee, Ill.; Martha Lloyd, Munhall; Kay Marshall, Kew Gardens, N. Y.; Phyllis Waide, Scottsdale; Mary Louise Tripp, Orange, N. J.; Jean Richards, Westfield, N. J.

Joe Reno, Boxing Coach, Leaves B.U.

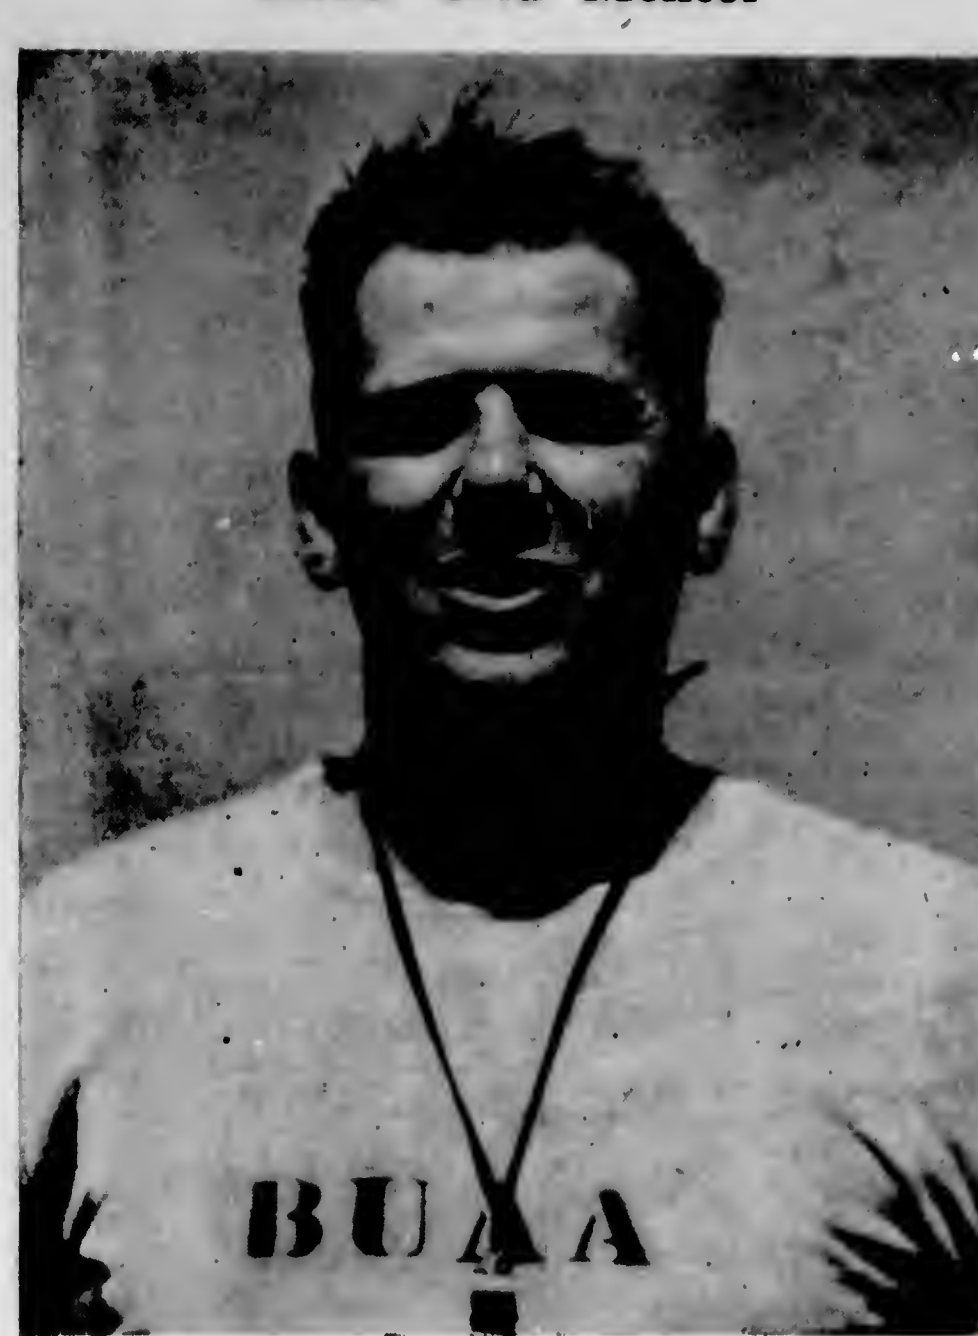

After spending eleven years as a member of the Bucknell Athletic staff, Joe Reno, the popular Bison ring tutor, left the campus to aid the cause of the country by taking a job in a defense plant near Trenton.

Joe came to the Bucknell campus in 1931 after climbing a fairly successful professional boxing career in which he lost a split decision for the World Middleweight Boxing crown. For the next six years he tutored the Bison soccermen and coached the boxing team. Under his tutelage, the Bucknell mittmen annexed the Eastern Intercollegiate Championship in 1937, 1939 and 1940.

Among his other duties, Joe was trainer for the football team. His vacancy was filled by Hank Peters. As yet, no one has been selected to replace Reno at the helm of the boxing team.

Bison Grid Mentor

Al Humphreys Keeps Producing As Varsity Tutor Despite The Looming Obstacles Facing Him

The stadium rafters vibrate from the cheers of the frenzied mob when a back streaks down the sidelines for a long gain. The lineman who crashes through a human wall to spill an enemy ball-carrier becomes a Saturday afternoon hero. But, few are the cheers for the man whose patience, ingenuity and fundamental teaching is responsible for placing the high geared grid machine on the field—the coach.

Albert Edward Humphreys, varsity mentor of the Thundering Herd, is no exception to the rule. The popular Bison coach, starting his sixth season as tutor of the Orange and Blue gridsters, came up the ladder the hard way and accepts all his loadings and criticisms in his typical good-natured manner, but goes on working and scheming to give Bucknell a winning eleven. In his five years on the Lewisburg campus, Al has been battling the obstacles of "de-emphasis" and big nose fogs, and has done a real good job despite the handicaps.

The Humphreys-coached outfit has turned in 21 victories against 16 defeats and four ties, trouncing a vaunted State eleven 14-0 in 1938 and tying Miami and Temple, 17-17, in '37.

In half a decade, only one team under his wing fell below the 500 mark and that crew lost some heart-rending thrillers by slight margin.

Welcome!

By this time all you new Bucknellians must have heads dazedly whirling with "Welcome." All you've been hearing is "Welcome to Bucknell, Welcome to the Dorm, Welcome to the Dining Room, Welcome Welcome, Welcome—"

To you, both men and women, Bucknell offers athletic programs that will satisfy your fondest desires of enjoyment, exercise, sport or competition. Whatever you look for in athletics and sports, Bucknell has it. The programs instituted are pleasing to all from the vigorous, fiery personality to the slow, easy going, self-satisfied day-dreamer.

Cornell, a swivel-hipped speed merchant or Don Nesselbush, a 160-pound seat-back, will get the call at the halfback berth. Rounding out the backfield quartet at fullback will be "Red" Johnson, whose talented place-kicking toe might prove invaluable. Undoubtedly, the heavy backfield duty will fall on the shoulders of Podd and Magana until McConnell, Nesselbush and Johnson, all sophomores, garner the much-needed experience of varsity play.

Bisons Hold 9 to 1 Edge In L.V. Duels

Series Started In 1903; Last Year's 12-7 Win Closest Herd Margin

This afternoon's contest marks the eleventh meeting of Bucknell and Lebanon Valley on the gridiron. In the previous ten encounters, the Bisons walked off with the glory laurels on nine occasions, Lebanon Valley winning but once in 1915 by the score of 8-0. The series started back in 1903 with the Herd annexing the tussle 47-6, and continued through 1905. It was resumed again from 1913 through 1916, the teams failing to meet only in 1914.

There was a lapse of 17 years in the football relationships between the two schools until 1933 when the B. U. Bisons whipped the Dutchmen, 34-0 in "Hooker" Mylin's last season as coach of the Lebanon eleven. Since "Jerry" Froek took over the reins in 1934,

I-M Program Large For Summer Term

Musser and Peters Direct Successful Physical Fitness Routine

Uncle Sam's demand for manpower and the physical betterment of that decisive weapon was the cue for Bucknell University's physical education to jump into high gear the past summer with an extensive physical education program designed to build better bodies at Bucknell.

More than 400 Bucknell men took part in the "all-out" program which consisted of a far-reaching schedule of intramural activities in addition to regular calisthenics and gym drills.

There was an increased emphasis on physical training, climaxed with the introduction of "summer camps" which gave the program its militaristic touch.

Capt. Malcolm Musser and Henry Peters directed the entire program which was highlighted by intramural competition. Individual competition as well as team battles were included in the large-scale arrangement which continued through both semesters.

During the second semester "military tournaments" were held to encourage a wider participation in athletic endeavors by those men unfamiliar with sports.

Swimmer winners—tennis, William Strunk; golf, William Bell; handball, Sy Herger; badminton, Joe O'Brien.

Throughout this year you will be given numerous opportunities to perform your constructive share of the work in the war effort. How well you respond to the various calls put forth by the college and military authorities, that will be your opportunity of demonstrating the extent of your "war-consciousness."

They Answered The Call

We're all aware of the fact that these are distressing times. Every moment is one of uncertainty. We never know what mishap the next moment will bring. Yet we just sit up and smile and make the best of the present. That is just what Bucknell is doing. There isn't much use to taking out a large towel and spilling tears over a situation that could be better under ordinary circumstances. Bucknell like other schools was hit by Uncle Sam's call to the youth of the nation. Some schools suffered less than others as far as the grid sport was concerned, but Bucknell sacrificed a big share.

In surveying the football situation it's obvious that we need more experienced linemen. We had them, but there's always a call far louder and far dearer than the call of alma mater. Tommy Kiernan, now stationed at the North Carolina Training Station, was slated to move into a first string guard berth, where he left off last season, but Tom is gone and all we can say is "If" (Tom was here). Jack Speer also a guard with some varsity experience left the gridiron for a starting position in Uncle Sam's Army Air Corps, while "Porky" Reichert withdrew his bid for a center berth to join the Navy. The lack of an efficient passing attack this year may be harmful to the Herd's won and lost record, but Bucknell bid adieu with a warm feeling to its outstanding power, Al Kazy, who is Army-bound. Another outstanding Bison back, Frank DeAngelis, whose shiftness and piston legs reeled off many a long gain for the '41 varsity was headed toward Annapolis last. From the fresh crew, Andy Wolfrum, Andy Sember and Bob Forrest, all linemen, left for the service. To sum it up, Bucknell lost and Uncle Sam got three almost certain starters with varsity experience and five strong replacements for the line. But, we can't afford to shed tears or say "If", for "If" they, and fellows like them, weren't in the service we wouldn't get a chance to say "If" about football. All we can do is wish them good luck and success and hope that they can luck the Axis line without any trouble.

Humphreys...

The Humphrey system is composed of a basic single-wingback with a variation of the T formation. Al learned the single-wingback system from the renowned Bob Zupke, for whom he played three years of varsity ball at the guard position in the Illinois forward wall. In an attempt to open up the usually conservative Herd offense, the Bucknell coach expects to make great use of the popular T-formation and points it out as one of the coming surprises of the season.

Speaking of the coming season, which gets under way at Memorial Stadium this afternoon, brings up the issue of the freshmen ruling, and prospects. With regard to the freshmen, Al is opposed to it as he says, "It is too great an adjustment for the freshmen athlete to make, and it certainly won't do his studies justice. It is best that freshmen acclimate themselves during their first year to the college life, and they will undoubtedly be in a better position for varsity competition the following years."

Concerning the season's prospects, Al is aware of the tough schedule, but hopes to fare well as his line should be one of the strongest yet and he has two promising sophomores in Tyler and Johnson to round out the backfield at the fullback slot. Of course the loss of Tom Kiernan and Al Kazy to the armed forces are disheartening, but it's merely another headache added on to a long string, and Al is quite used to them by now.

Freshmen Hold Annual Reception

Thursday evening at eight o'clock, the annual reception for the freshmen was held in Hunt Hall living room. The purpose of the gathering was to give the newest members of the student body an opportunity to meet the administrative leaders of the University, as well as to become acquainted with each other.

Marilyn Eppley, president of the Women's Student Government Association, and Walter Held, president of the Student Faculty Congress, received the freshmen and introduced them to President Marts, Dean Dyer, Dean Rosenburg, Dean Page, Dr. Shiner, and to the departmental heads of the University.

After the formal reception, the freshmen introduced themselves to each other and collected the autographs of their classmates. Refreshments were served and a social hour concluded the reception.

Thirty new short courses in fields considered essential by the government are being offered by the University of Texas.

Military Officers To Inform Students Of Reserve Status

Government Men Will Talk And Interview Bucknell Males On Oct. 29

EXAMINERS WILL BE HERE ON NOV. 15

Opportunities to obtain complete information regarding any of five different reserve corps will be granted to Bucknell male students when on October 29 officers of the Army, Army Air Corps, Naval Air Corps, Marine Corps, and Merchant Marine Corps will visit the campus.

Following the general meeting, at which one member from each of these respective reserve corps will completely outline the opportunities offered and the qualifications necessary to enlistment in his particular corps, each student will be afforded the chance to have a personal interview with any of the five officers. At these individual meetings, further questions regarding the person's particular status will be answered.

Given Two Weeks To Decide. In the interim from October 29 to November 15 each student desiring to enlist in any of these corps will be expected to make known his final choice to Dean Page. When the student has made his selection he will, through Dean Page's office, gain the necessary credentials preliminary to his taking the physical and mental examinations.

On or about November 15, each of these five reserve corps will send a staff of examiners to the campus at which time each desiring male student will be afforded the opportunity to submit to the official military examinations. Those students who successfully pass these examinations will be immediately sworn into the respective reserve corps which they have selected.

Arrangements For Drafts. Special provisions are being made by Dean Page for those students who are desirous of enlisting in a reserve corps, but who expect to be called by their local draft boards before November 15. Dr. Page informed a group of students of this situation at a meeting held in the Literature Auditorium last night.

8. Freshmen are to wear cardboard signs on their backs with their names and college addresses written in large legible letters on them from 8:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. during rushing week.

9. All the preceding rules will be enforced by the Bucknell Senior Tribunal, in any way it may see fit. This body will meet every Monday night. All freshmen are expected to be in their rooms at 9:00 p. m. every Monday night, and are not to leave their respective dormitories until the following morning.

Faculty Loses Three To War Positions

Derr, Biscoe, and Oliver Leave For Important Government Jobs

In the past two months three members of Bucknell University's faculty have been granted leaves of absence in order to assume important government posts. These three persons are Dr. Alvin Biscoe, Dr. Robert Oliver, and Miss Sylvia Derr.

Dr. Alvin Biscoe, associate professor of Economics, is the most recent member of the Bucknell teaching body to be "drafted" for government work. He will depart for Washington this Saturday where a position with the important War Labor Relations Board is awaiting him.

Dr. Biscoe has been a popular member of Bucknell's Commerce and Finance department since his arrival here in 1931. He has attended Dickinson College, Duke, and the U. of Virginia. A few years ago he played a very prominent role in revising the state of Virginia's complicated taxation system.

Oliver To Organize Speakers Group. Dr. Oliver, associate professor of public speaking, was called to Washington in the latter part of August to fill an important post in the Office of War Information. He is at present serving as first assistant to the director of the National Speakers Division which will fall the task of organizing 100,000 victory speakers throughout the country.

Miss Derr, director of physical education for women at Bucknell, was

Dinks, Ties, Socks, To Be Worn By All Men Of Class of '46

The regimentation of tradition will fall upon the male members of the class of '46 Monday morning at 8:00 a. m. when this year's freshmen rules go into effect, and the frosh don black ties, socks of the same hue with dinks to "cap" the climax.

The following list of rules pertaining to the dress and conduct of freshman men will go into effect this Monday, October 5.

1. All freshmen men are to wear dinks, black ties, and black socks. (This rule goes out of effect every Saturday night at 6:00 p. m. and does not become active again until the following Monday morning at 8:00 a. m.)

2. Freshmen men are expected to know all the verses of Bucknell's alma mater, and be ready to sing them upon request.

3. Freshmen are never to cut campus, but must stay on the regular college paths.

4. No freshmen will walk on the Senior path. (This is the path which starts at Taylor Hall and extends to the Vaughn Literature Building).

5. Freshmen men must not date to any varsity contest, but must sit as a compact body and serve as a nucleus for the cheering section.

6. Freshmen are to wear cardboard signs on their backs with their names and college addresses written in large legible letters on them from 8:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. during rushing week.

7. The manners and etiquette of freshmen will be very scrupulously noted and checked by upperclassmen during the next month.

8. Freshmen are to wear cardboard signs on their backs with their names and college addresses written in large legible letters on them from 8:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. during rushing week.

9. All the preceding rules will be enforced by the Bucknell Senior Tribunal, in any way it may see fit. This body will meet every Monday night. All freshmen are expected to be in their rooms at 9:00 p. m. every Monday night, and are not to leave their respective dormitories until the following morning.

Chilean Journalist On Campus Sunday

Senior Ernesto Montenegro, Chilean journalist, author, and authority on Latin American affairs, will visit the Bucknell campus Sunday and Monday to deliver a series of addresses before the student body.

The first talk, "Youth and the War," will be presented at the weekly student church program at 6:45 p. m. Sunday in the Baptist Church. Senior Montenegro has a son serving in the armed forces of the United Nations.

"Intellectual Life in Spanish America: The Teacher, the Writer and the Artist," will be the topic of his second address at 10 a. m. Monday in the auditorium of the Literature Building.

Senior Montenegro will close his program here when he speaks on "The March of Democracy in Latin America" at 8 p. m. Monday in the Literature Building auditorium. The South American scholar will visit the campus under the auspices of the Bucknell Christian Association.

Born in Chile in 1883, Senior Montenegro began his journalistic career in Brazil; Dr. Aristides A. Mall, with El Mercurio, a daily in Valparaiso, Chile. In 1915 he visited the United States for the first time as a traveling correspondent to the Pan-American Exposition. He has written for the New York Times, Current History, the Nation, and the American

To Lead Gridmen Against State

Bisons Face Nittany Lions In Thirty-Second Annual Grid Tussle This Saturday

A grim and determined Bison grid crew will take the field at State College this Saturday to lock horns with their ancient Nittany Lion rivals in the thirty-second annual tussle between the two schools. The Humphreys will be out to upset the "dope" and come through with their twelfth victory since the series began.

Although the State eleven is on the long end of the odds, Bob Higgins, State coach, realizes that this Saturday's tussle will not be an "opening game" "breather" for his club by stating, "For some unexplainable reason Bucknell always comes to State College loaded for bear, or more correctly lion." Statistics substantiate the State men's statement, as in the last twelve meetings of the perennial central Pennsylvania rivalry, Bucknell has upset the Lions seven times, most of them on occasions when the Higginsmen were highly favored.

Coach Al Humphreys expects to throw the same starting eleven, that answered the opening whistle against Lebanon Valley, to face the neighbors. Well satisfied with their second half play against their opening game opposition, but sorely disappointed by their lack of scoring power, Coach Al Humphreys has been driving the Herd with the hope of instilling them with that much-needed touchdown drive.

The starting backfield will find Pold handling the signal calling and blocking assignments. Al Magnaga running from his right halfback slot and "Mickey" McConnell handling the other halfback duties. At fullback, "Red" Johnson will probably receive

Fraternities Begin Rushing Wednesday

New "Raffle" Regulation To Be In Effect; I-F Council Will Conduct Program

Fraternity rushing of freshmen male students will begin this Wednesday, October 7, at 7 o'clock in the morning, and will extend until 10:50 p. m. of Tuesday, October 13.

Various important innovations have been made by the Inter-Fraternity Council for this year's rushing program. In an attempt to avoid the confusion so common in rushing weeks of past years, the I-F Council has devised a system of "raffles" for this year's rushing week.

The system, used with noteworthy success in many other schools, does away with the gathering of fraternity men before the freshmen rooms far before the appointed time.

No. 1 Man Enters Room First. According to the rules as stated by the Inter-Fraternity Council, no fraternity man is permitted to be in front of a freshman's room before 6:45 a. m. on Wednesday morning. If more than one fraternity is represented before the door of any one freshman a raffle is to be conducted by the oldest man present. Numbers equal to the number of men present will be written on individual slips and drawn out of a hat. Numbers drawn indicates the order of entrance. At 7:00 a. m. the man holding No. 1 may enter the room. Other performances are signed in the manner used in previous years. A man may participate in only one raffle.

The rules established by the I-F Council will be in effect for the entire rushing period. In place of the freshmen and fraternity men must abide by the following:

1. There will be a period of silence from Saturday midnight to 7 o'clock Monday morning.

2. The rushing period will be every night at 10 o'clock except on Friday and Saturday evenings.

3. Freshmen are not permitted to sign up for more than two meal dates at any one fraternity.

4. Freshmen are to be reminded that though they have a meal date at a fraternity on Saturday evening they are not required to remain for the "smoker" at that particular House.

Mr. Stimson, Please Make Up Your Mind!

The college men of the United States, at a time when they are in dire need of straightforward, hard-hitting leadership and advice, are being given a disgustingly equivocal and evasive answer by the Army authorities in Washington.

There is absolutely no excuse for the confusing mess which college men find themselves confronted by today in regard to their reserve status. The faculty list with nobody but the Secretary of War and other higher-ups of the War Department. It is up to Mr. Stimson and his aides to extricate us from this befuddlement and confusion in which he has placed us as a result of the numerous contradictory statements emanating from his office within the past few months.

Because we are college students we are not asking that the authorities grant us any special dispensations. If Mr. Stimson feels that we should serve the nation's war effort as members of the armed forces, we ask that he make this known to us and we shall willingly and immediately comply with his desires. If, on the other hand, he feels that we are best able to do our part in the effort by remaining in school and completing our curriculum, we ask that he immediately make a positive statement to this effect so that we shall be able to pursue our studies with free and clear minds, untroubled by the uncertainty of our reserve status. We are not asking that Mr. Stimson make a decision on our behalf, but we demand of him that he come to some immediate and clear-cut decision either one way or the other.

We are demanding of Mr. Stimson that he stop uttering statements about us which are in direct contradiction to each other.

On Sept. 11, with no forwarding whatsoever either to college authorities or to college men, the Secretary of War in a public statement said, "College students who are members of the Army Enlisted Reserve will all, or for the most part, be called to active duty at the end of the term now beginning, and thereafter, as they reach Selective Service age." Needless to say the uproar created by these words was immense. Of course, there were some who hailed forth with cries of "double-cross," "traitor," and other similar expressions of disapproval. But for the great majority of college students, this seemed to mean that the War Department had finally come to some set and definite policy concerning the status of college men. Though it meant a postponement of their service, it was a positive idea as to where they stood in this whole set-up.

However, on Sept. 17, less than one week following the above statement, either because something arose demanding a reconsideration of his original statement, or because of some outside pressure brought to bear upon him, Mr. Stimson issued another statement which almost completely reversed what he had to say in his first declaration.

In reading the entire context of this second statement of Mr. Stimson's, we can't help but feel that he now believes that he was somewhat too hasty in the declaration reached in his first utterance, and now seems quite anxious to "back-pedal" his way

By Bob Finkernagel

Well, looks like things are really starting to run smoothly again on campus after two days of confusion. Seems sort of silly to keep looking at your registration card to see where to go next and still wind up behind the proverbial ball every time. But it's happening folks, it's happening..... and not only to freshmen.

After four months of vacation (A. B.'s, God bless 'em) the campus seems remarkably different to our eyes. Gone are the familiar paths worn by the tread of little feet through the grass (not recommended for frosh). Gone are the good old days of the "natural" program (remember that fellow?). Gone too are the carefree (?) days of yore. This year, at Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, promises to be one of hard work—real work. More will be expected of us and more will be given to us. Of course it's the American tradition to grouse and yell a bit about everything that does not entirely agree with us (i. e. gas rationing, I, but if I know Bucknell students, and I think I do, they'll all pile in and keep the midnight oil (not needed for war purposes) burning brightly.

I couldn't overlook the opportunity to remark about last week's football game. In a ball-season last week, we rehashed the game play-by-play, fumble-by-fumble, and touchdown-by-touchdown. The Herd did everything but take tickets on Saturday past. The "old hands" played like pros, well, semi-pros, the freshmen came through, but that last white line seemed to be flanked by a brick wall.

But these are not the times for the traditional statements and "back-pedaling." The college men of today are demanding to know just what their status is concerning the army. Some definite decisions concerning the non must be reached, and the sooner it is done, regardless of the consequences, the deeper will be the appreciation of every college man in the nation.

C. A. Notes

Freshman Supper Club sponsored by the Christian Association will open a series of six meetings Tuesday, October 6, when it gathers at Forrest Brown's home in college park.

Meeting round the fireplace, the group will hear Dr. Lewis E. Theiss, Bucknell Centennial Historian, who will speak on Bucknell History and Tradition. The club comprises 50 freshmen, 25 men and 25 women. No speaking will be held during rushing week.

Beginning next Sunday at 9:30 a. m., the first of a school-year long series of Sunday School classes will be held in the Presidents' House, using as its theme until Christmas vacation, "How We Got This Way Religiously."

Wickey Takes Job As Resident Artist

Noted Sculptor Will Advise Bucknell Art Students Starting Nov. 1

Harry Wickey, noted sculptor and etcher, has accepted an invitation to become Bucknell University's first artist-in-residence. Mr. Wickey will spend six months of each year on the campus for the next two years. He will arrive here on November 1 and remain until May 1.

The appointment was made possible by the Carnegie Corporation of New York and by gifts from various Lewisburg residents interested in the project. Dr. Mary R. Harris headed the local committee. A number of townspeople have already sent to the Treasurer of the University contributions ranging from ten to a hundred dollars.

Mr. Wickey will have a studio in the University's art department, where it will be possible for students and other persons interested in art to observe him at work.

The artist will bring to the campus an etching press, a lithographic press, and auxiliary equipment. While at Bucknell he plans to work primarily in ceramics, terra-cotta casting, miniatures, and sculpture.

Weekend meditation services will be conducted during the 1942-43 school year at 7:30 a. m. every Tuesday in the President's House, with the first service being held next Tuesday.

Mary Orso, '43, will be in charge of the first service, which will be over in time for those present to attend their 8 o'clock classes.

FRESHMEN TO ELECT
Election for officers of the freshman class will be held this Tuesday evening. The freshmen male students will cast their ballots in Roberts Hall, while the freshmen women may vote in Larison Hall.

When Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt recently received a doctor of law degree from Washington College, Chesapeake, Md., it was the first time the college ever had awarded an honorary degree to a woman.

It Happened This Summer

With 538 students, or approximately half of the undergraduate body in attendance, Bucknell's past summer term had the largest summer registration in the history of the school.

The summer session found Bucknell serving as headquarters for flight training for 29 naval aviators who had been assigned to the campus by the C. P. T.

As was expected, George Haines' intramural basketball team rode roughshod over all opponents, and finished the season with a 10-0 record.

The Federal Communications System authorized the establishment of a radio transmitter at Bucknell to cover the campus and the town.

"Bucknell At War", a radio drama, meeting the challenge of total war, was the theme of the University's second important war broadcast. The Art Kleindienst, and Cy Trearlin.

Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of the University, visited the University of Pennsylvania, where it will be possible for students and other persons interested in art to observe him at work.

Two former Bucknell religion instructors, the Rev. Ward Gage and the Rev. Thomas R. Richards, received annual summer session commutation certificates from the U. S. Army and are now attending the U. S. Army and are now attending the U. S. Army.

Honor Students To Attend Post-War Planning Seminar

Class Will Cut Across Departmental Boundaries; Miss Georg Supervises

Bucknell University will organize the talents of the college's various departments in presenting during the fall term an honor seminar devoted to the general subject of Principles and Problems of Post-War Planning. It was announced today by Dr. William A. Shimer, dean of the faculty.

Supervised by Miss Martha Georg of the Bucknell department of economics, the seminar will attempt a new type of uniting course which will cut across departmental boundaries and avoid the superficiality of the usual survey course by having each student's main study and research done under the direction of one department.

Planned to evaluate suggestions and plans for the development of a satisfactory post-war world, the seminar will not be restricted to students of a single department but instead will associate the honor students in several departments doing related work in planning for the future.

Professors from the education, political science, philosophy, psychology, economics, religion, and sociology departments will invite honor students from their respective classes to become members of the seminar which will have a maximum enrollment of 20 students.

As outlined by Dr. Shimer, the course will provide outstanding students an opportunity to meet with departmental heads and classmates once a week for a discussion of the various aspects of post-war planning. From a bibliography furnished them, they will be expected to do some common reading which is expected to give pattern to the seminar procedure.

Each seminar member will be expected to write a paper on some phase of post-war planning related to his field of major interest, in which he will attempt to develop constructive suggestions for the development of a satisfactory post-war world. Material to be included will cover both internal and international affairs. These papers will be presented at the seminar meetings for general discussion and criticism with the sponsoring professor for each student directing the forum.

PROFESSOR McCROSSEN TO TEACH ITALIAN

Course To Be Held In Literature Auditorium Beginning Tonight At 7

In accordance with its plan of extending instruction in languages particularly valuable for the war emergency and for the post-war reconstruction period Bucknell University will introduce an evening course in Italian this semester.

Italian is the second language to be added by Bucknell since the beginning of the war. A similar class was begun in Russian last February and is being continued today by Dr. William A. Shimer, dean of the faculty.

Dr. Vincent A. McCrossen will teach the course in Italian which will begin with the initial class meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Vaughan Literature Building.

Persons trained in Italian are needed for translation work of all kinds, intelligence work, radio listening post assignments, various communications work, and for teaching. In the reconstruction period after the war, Italian will be one of the several most important languages.

In addition to its utilitarian importance, Italian is generally recognized as being culturally the most important Romance language after French. Its literature is one of the most beautiful and significant in the world, having exercised great influence on English, French, and German literatures.

The course at Bucknell will carry regular language credit and is open to students to teachers in service, and to all properly accredited persons, and Italian will be one of the several most important languages.

As outlined by Dr. Shimer, the course will provide outstanding students an opportunity to meet with departmental heads and classmates once a week for a discussion of the various aspects of post-war planning. From a bibliography furnished them, they will be expected to do some common reading which is expected to give pattern to the seminar procedure.

With such hopefuls as George Haines, last year's winner, King Snyder, Jim Ham, Hank Farwald and Carl Moore, the cross-country race should provide everyone with plenty of thrills.

Kappa Sigma last year's champions in the track and field meet are gazing longingly at the coveted cup above their fireplace, while the Sammies, Sigma Chi's, and Phi Psi's are bound to offer stiff competition. As usual there will be the regular trial runs, in such events as the 220, 100 yard dashes, and hurdle events on the first day of the meet, probably the last Friday of October. The finals in these events and the other races will be held the following day.

An unpublished manuscript of Lord Byron, in which he presents his impressions of Madame de Stael, has been presented to the University of Texas library.

The Bucknell Civilian Defense Council will hold a special meeting this afternoon, at 4:30 p. m., in the Vaughan Literature Auditorium. President Marts, head of the Civilian Defense Council of Pennsylvania, will speak on the development of civilian defense nationally and locally. This will be the first official meeting of the council this semester, and it is open to anyone interested who wishes to attend.

As for class dances, it was decided that a Senior Ball, Junior Prom, and Soph Cotillion will be held this year. The question as to whether these dances will feature "big-name" orchestras will be further discussed at another meeting next Thursday.

Because a large percentage of the present Senior class will graduate in January, it was decided that the Senior Ball will be held sometime before Christmas, with the weekend of December 14th set as a tentative date. It was also decided that a Fraternity may hold an unlimited number of "open-houses" throughout the year, but all affairs of this sort must end at 11 o'clock.

Houseparty weekend will be on April 30, and May 1.

Other points decided upon at this meeting were that a budget slip must be handed into the University's social committee one week before all orchestra dances, in fraternity is to have an orchestra dance the night of Homecoming weekend, or the weekend of Nov. 21, which is the evening of a Cap and Dagger production.

Miss Anne Brown, sensational soprano, will be the first guest of Bucknell Artists Course Series. She will appear on Tuesday, November 3, at 8:15 p. m. at Davis Gymnasium.

Miss Brown has had as a second organist, and has appeared with many of the leading symphony orchestras in the East, including two engagements with Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony. Miss Brown starred in the original Porgie and Bess, the role of Bess having been taken for her by George Gershwin.

Plans are also being completed to secure the services of the duo-pianists, Fray and Braggiotti for some late date.

Season tickets will be available for members of the faculty and their friends.

Miss Brown is expected to appear at Penn State College the week before her appearance here, and then she may sing with the Philadelphia Symphony-orchestra.

In a recent survey made by the Bucknell Christian Association, it was found that the number of Bucknell men serving in Uncle Sam's armed forces is close to 500.

There are 207 Bucknellians in the army. Sixty-four of the army men are learning to patrol, or already are patrolling the skies. The rest of the soldiers comprise Infantry, Artillery, Headquarters Division, Medical Military Police, and Signal Corps.

Of the 103 Bucknell men in the Navy, 20 are fliers, and the remainder are in the Naval Reserve.

Twenty-two sons of Bucknell are in the United States Marines and Coast Guard. Fifteen of the 22 are members of the leatherneck crew.

At the present time there are 17 Bucknellians with the address: c/o Postmaster San Francisco, California; 26 with the address: c/o Postmaster, New York City, New York; and 92 mandar, and 1 Admiral.

In the Naval Air Corp, there are 29 Bucknell men without officers rating, and 14 with officers rating. There are 24 Ensigns, 15 Lieutenants (junior grade), 11 Lieutenants (senior grade), 2 Lieutenant Commanders, 1 Commander, and 1 Admiral.

Upperclass Coeds, Agitated By Antics of Frosh, Warn Day of Reckoning Will Come

By Nancy E. Patterson

This war has been doing funny things to people and has been getting blamed for a multitude of sins and sufferings. Could it be the war that has affected the current crop of Freshman girls? Maybe so, maybe not, but in the female members of the class of '46, Bucknell definitely has something new in the way of manners, mores, and departure from Freshman tradition.

Bucknell upperclassmen have in the past years become accustomed to, and mildly tolerant of, the avarice and respectful glances of inexperienced and timid Freshmen. This year, however, upperclass girls became increasingly surprised and astounded to find a bevy of glamorous newcomers (a few complete with Veronica Lake hair styles) completely in charge of themselves and their surroundings. They found the new arrivals had a habit of brushing unceremoniously past them, almost knocking them over, and that some were being utterly unethical in addressing the waiters and waitresses. There was no awe, no timidity, and, sad to relate, very little respect.

Imagine the bewildered and puzzled expression of one of our Sophomores who, sitting at dinner with a group of Freshmen, heard the dazzling young creature at the head of the table say in a bored, weary voice, "Well, girls, shall we breeze?" "Aaa," cried the Sophomore, "what things come to pass here?" Then, in Ward House a few days ago, a youthful Frosh was overheard addressing an upperclassman in this manner: "I certainly hope you Sophomores don't decide to do anything drastic this year. We don't want any trouble. Surely someone has informed these young ladies that a day of reckoning is bound to come, that a period of time called Hell Week at Bucknell is inevitable, like death and taxes. Why, Hell Week gives the Sophomores a chance to test the worth and to discover the finer qualties hidden beneath the exotic and sophisticated exterior of their young friends, to "iron out" the little difficulties and rash impulses of the Freshmen, so to speak.

We don't wish to imply, however, that all the new girls have managed to forget their humble position; far from that. Some have come forth with a few of those appealing Freshman faux pas. Some have already experienced those minor little embarrassing moments they must live through before they are finally acclimated. On hearing that a W. S. G. A. meeting was to be held, one girl, eager to start college life right, anxiously inquired whether "anyone could go or just those who belonged?" And another young lady diligently took notes of the entire proceedings.

In the lit. building two young hopefuls at last gave up trying to find their way out and approached a professor to ask, "How do we get back to where we came from?" The professor must have been amazed at the question as at the question. In Professor Drum's algebra class the first day, a Freshman girl looked anxiously around her, breathed a sigh of relief, and remarked to the girl sitting next to her, "Guess there aren't any sophomores in this class. Lucky for us." Then, to make conversation, "I'm going to like this class. I enjoyed Professor Drum's speech during Freshman Week so much, didn't you?" "Why, I didn't hear him. I wasn't here Freshman Week," replied the girl. "Oh," was the stricken exclamation of the Sophomore, "what things come to pass here?"

RADIO WORKSHOP HOLDS TRYOUTS SATURDAY

Organization Offers Students Practical Experience In Radio Work

Tryouts for the Bucknell Radio Workshop, which is about to enter its fourth season of Sunday broadcasting, will be held on Saturday, October 10 from 2 to 5 p. m. at the workshop studio.

This year's programs will include such entertainment as Handel's "Messiah", news of the campus, Professor Quiz programs, and various dramatic productions.

The workshop is composed entirely of Bucknellians, and is organized for the purpose of giving those individuals interested in the field of radio some practical experience. Students are strongly urged to attend tryouts since there will be many jobs offered this year that were not available formerly.

The workshop has been granted permission from the Federal Communications Commission to install a "wireless" radio transmitter as an addition to the present equipment. However, due to priorities on necessary materials, these plans may be delayed for some time.

B. U. Symphony Begins Fourth Year Tonight
The fourth season of the Bucknell University Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Professor Charles F. Stickney will open this evening, when members, both upperclassmen and freshmen, begin rehearsal at 7 p. m. As in past years, the policy of the Orchestra will be one of major contribution to the musical life of Bucknell. In addition to at least one formal concert during the year, the group will furnish the orchestral accompaniment for the Christmas presentation of the "Messiah" by the Mixed Chorus. Also, a group of musicians from the orchestra will cooperate with the Girls' Glee Club in their presentation of Pergolesi's "Stabat Mater."

Cheering Squad Is Complete Until End of Grid Season
For all those who have been wondering if there are vacancies on the cheering squad, it has been announced that the squad, composed of both boys and girls veterans is complete at the present and will continue its activities throughout the football season. Walter, head of the cheering squad, is planning a big pep rally for the Friday evening of Homecoming weekend. Those who are interested in trying out for the squad may do so at the end of the football season in November when tryouts will be held. The most promising will be selected for next season's squad.

Sixty Fring Girls To Sing In Women's Chorus

The results of the musical tryouts which were completed last Friday afternoon, will allow approximately 60 Freshman girls to participate in the largest mixed chorus in the history of the Bucknell School of Music.

From this chorus, consisting of 225 voices, selected members will be eligible for the Women's Glee Club, and of these students, those passing the required tests will be chosen for membership in the selected secular and sacred choirs.

"The Messiah", by Handel, will be the first oratorio presented by the department. It is scheduled for 8 p. m. in the Men's Gymnasium, the Sunday before Christmas vacation. Other oratorios will be presented throughout the remainder of the year.

This Nonsense Of Requiring Freshmen To Pledge An Entire Year Must Be Discarded

In these days of accelerated college programs, we feel that there is one phase of college life in which Bucknell University lags far behind the great majority of other American Universities. This concerns the matter of requiring freshmen to pledge a fraternity for an entire school year, from October to May, before the University will consider them eligible for initiation.

In the best interests of all concerned, the University, the fraternities, the actives of the fraternities, and the pledges, we feel that a revision of the administration's rules should be made, whereby freshmen may become eligible for initiation into fraternities at the close of the first semester, in the early part of February.

It seems to us, that in revising the curriculum of the school to meet the new demands of the war effort, there was a great oversight on the part of the Administrative Council in their failure to make some provision for the shortening of the pledge period of this year's freshmen, who have just this week been pledged to the various fraternities on campus.

The University rule on the eligibility of freshmen for initiation into fraternities, for the benefit of those who are not aware of it, states to the effect that, to be initiated a man must be a student in school for one year and have earned twenty-five quality credits during the year, or have maintained a C average in all of his work in one of the two semesters of the school year. There is an exception to this statement, that being, that if a man earns twenty-five quality credits during the first semester, he may join a fraternity at any time after March 15. But the effect of this latter condition has been very negligible.

The proposal which we should like to offer to replace the present University rule on this vital matter is to make eligible for initiation into fraternities in February those freshmen pledges, who, at the end of their first semester's work, have attained 15 quality credits. Those pledges that don't attain this amount of Q. C.'s in their first semester's work will be considered eligible for initiation when they attain 25 quality credits or a C average in one semester's work.

The reasons are so obviously and so overwhelmingly in favor of a measure of this sort that we can't possibly understand why it has not been brought to the attention of the Council long before this—and now, under present day conditions, we consider it an absolute necessity that this situation be rectified.

We have herewith drawn up five of the reasons which we consider to be the most important in attempting to illustrate the sagacity of making a revision to this effect. They are as follows:

(First), and most important, the fraternities, in general, are in favor of a ruling of this sort or something very similar to it.

(Second), as a result of the accelerated program, many of the freshmen who have entered Bucknell this year have so planned their courses that they shall only be here for three years (in the case of engineers, only two years and eight months). Doesn't it seem quite foolish and out of the sense of proportions to require a man to pledge for one whole school year, and thus limit him to but two years of the enjoyments to be derived from being a fraternity man? We certainly believe that merely out of fairness to those freshmen they should be given the chance to become actives in the fraternities as soon as possible, and thereby get as much as they can out of what has been left for them of fraternity life.

(Third), it will be a great time-saver in the second semester to both the actives and pledges of the fraternities if the majority of freshmen are initiated at the close of the first semester. The mental pressure and pre-occupation of mind connected with a pledge-active relationship will be greatly reduced, thereby allowing both parties more time and ease of mind with which to concentrate on their accelerated work.

(Fourth), as another result of the accelerated program, there shall be more than one hundred seniors graduating at the close of the first semester of this year. The great majority of these graduating men are fraternity men, and their leaving shall no doubt put a considerable dent in the active personnel of almost every House on campus. The only possible manner in which to take up the slack of this manpower deficit, and thus avoid the loss of active men in the House back to its normal number.

The (fifth) and final reason which we hold as valid cause for changing the University rule on the eligibility of freshmen for initiation into fraternities, is merely the fact that practically every other college throughout the country has seen fit to make provisions for freshmen to be initiated after one semester of work. Surely, it seems to be in the interests of all concerned if so many schools have converted to this system.

Now the question is, are we at Bucknell to lag behind in this one very important phase of the accelerated college program? The answer must be a definite "No," and we hope that this article will set the ball rolling in the right direction immediately.

SOCIETY NEWS

By Connie Campbell

Back again after a short absence, this column is being revived by popular request. However, it must be restricted in length in proportion to the reduction in size of the Bucknellian. Let's see what news the Sen received. The waitresses at the Sen received an interesting invitation this week. In a letter from Aloysius Casper Smith, who was a waiter in the dining room last year, and is now in ground school at Kessler Field, Miss. The waitresses are asked to enter a beauty contest to be sponsored by his squadron. To the winner will be a miniature pair of silver wings. The girls are asked to send a photo of themselves with the following information: name, address, height, weight, color of hair, and eyes, etc. These air corp men will choose from our feminine tray-toters the girl to wear the wings.

Kappa Delta held Second Degree ceremonies last Thursday for three girls. They were Louise Magill, Patsy Mofford, and Jimmie Sutorio and they will be initiated next week. Frank Olsen, '44, went to the Engineers' Ball at Lehigh last weekend.

Tri Delta Norene Bond, '43, Billy Poling, '43, and Ann Louise Benson, '42, attended the wedding of Bernice Olsen, '44, and Betty East Sunday. Lennie Dorsey entertained two guests from Penn State over last weekend.

Ruthie Cooper, ex-'44, an Alpha Chi, visited the campus last weekend. She is now in nurses training at the Presbyterian Hospital in Philadelphia.

Bonnie Green, '42, president of Alpha Chi, was visited by her fiancé, Bill Byrnes, '42, a Sigma Chi.

Phi Phi had several guests last weekend. Jane Gundy Stephenson, Ruth Titman and Harriet Morris Mason, all of '40, visited here. Peggy Gundy, ex-'42, and a friend, Eleanor Wood, were guests here also. Jean Salisbury, '42, was another weekend visitor. Doran Smith, '43, went to New York to see Bud Vanderbilt, '42, who is in Naval Reserve officers training there. Janie Thompson, '42, spent the weekend at Quakertown, Pa., with her fiancé, L. Gil Unruh, '42.

Bucknell's chapter won the national award presented by Phi Beta Phi Fraternity for achieving the highest recognition as a chapter in scholarship. This weekend was important for several Phi Mus. Eleanor Pyle, '42, was an attendant at a wedding in Catsville, Pa. Betty Baldwin, '44, entertained her fiancé, Fred Brook, '44, of Penn State. Janet Roy Stone, '41, and her husband Bob Stone, '41, an S. A. E., visited the campus.

Janie Felmy, '45, was bridesmaid at the wedding of her brother Lloyd Felmy, Ensign U. S. N. R., at Williamsburg, Va., last Saturday. Mildred Nixon, '41, announced her engagement to Harvey Seavey, '40, of Penn State.

Delta Delta added another active to their chapter last Saturday when they initiated Ben Jay Walter, '45.

FROSH GIRLS TO BE HAZED NEXT WEEK

Girls of '46 Will Be Carbed In Ridiculous Clothing; No Cosmetics Allowed

Once again the freshmen coeds go through the trials of Hell Week. Monday morning will find the campus stalked by creatures garbed in brown, ribbed, lyle stockings rolled below the knees, odd shoes (one sneaker and one sport shoe), and coats worn backward tied with large green sashes. To aid in baffling people as to what direction they are traveling, they will wear name placards on their fronts as well as backs. When these lively specimens remove their coats, their attire will be just as attractive, long sweaters tucked inside skirts.

Three things will be denied these lovelies. No jewelry is to be worn, no fingernail polish and, most drastic of all, no make-up. Their tresses shall be made into no less than eight pigtails to be tied with string. Books (Continued on page 4.)

Off The Campus

From the Grove City publication, "The Collegian":

A salesman applied at the local recruiting office to enlist. "I suppose you want a commission," said the officer.

"No thanks," was the reply. "I'm such a poor shot that I'd rather work on a straight salary."

"The Notre Dame Scholastic" continues this antidote: Prof.: What's the formula for water?

Frosh: ClH₂O.

"The Daily Athenaeum" gets credit for this bit of wit: "English literature" gets credit for this bit of wit: "Are you smoking today, Mr. Spratt?"

Mr. Spratt: "No sir, that's just the fog I'm in."

Definition from "The Collegian" of Grove City: College being composed of a vast of dough, plenty of crust, and a bunch of crumbs gathered around for a good loaf.

Here's a corker from the St. Bonaventure College paper: They were sitting alone in the moonlight. Not a word broke the silence for half an hour; then— "If you had the money," she whispered, "what would you do?"

"Well," he paused to think and then answered, "I'd travel."

He felt her hand slide up into his. When he looked up she was gone. In his hand was a nickel.

of Sunday morning services having as their general theme, "How Did We Get This Way Religiously?" Coffee and Doughnuts will be served at 9:15 o'clock.

All Bucknell students are invited to attend weekly meditation services at 7:30 a. m. next Tuesday in the President's House.

RAMBLING!

WITH FINKERNAGEL

FRATERNITY..... Rushing is in over. Gone are the days of "king freshman". Now, if never before, the new pledge will realize that even he has his peers. But it is up to him to appreciate the fact that around him the fraternity is built. For he will be the fraternity man of tomorrow. After some of the actives, officers, etc., of the respective houses have graduated or are drafted, it will be up to HIM to take the responsibility and initiative to keep the house going. For soon he will be an active, an officer. Now is the time to make the house a fraternity in the pledges' eyes. Up to the older boys to imbue the spirit of fraternity in these new men. There is a great deal of difference 'tween a banding house and a fraternity, and only under proper guidance will this be an established idea to the "grooks" of the future. So, whether active or pledge, in this period of war, to insure a secure future for the house, every man should, and must, work for each other.

HEADACHES..... First of all, and rightly so, the greatest headache (to a select few) will be that necessity of all freshmen—the Senior Tribunal. Out to administer the wrongs done the fine traditions of 'B. U., they promise to fulfill all obligations to the frosh. And what I have seen of the freshmen's bare heads, I heartily endorse the proper action to be taken. On your toes freshmen.....or on your nose.

Probably a second headache, but one not so well known, is Bob Marks, who takes the pigskin for Rutgers. Bob and I come from the same town and from what I can gather, he has a personal interest in the Rutgers clash. This incentive, coupled with his sterling prowess on the gridiron, should make him a threat in any language or dialect. (Further information may be found in any football magazine. Marks scouted the Bucknell-Lebanon Valley game and carried away some good dope on our lads. Keep your eyes open boys!!!!)

OFF THE DEEP END..... Soccer starts Friday and the way things shape up now, it looks like a great season for the groek booters. In the respective leagues the competition will be strong, but to this writer, the winners are already in the records. From this corner, it looks like the E. C. A. boys, and the Samnies should come out on top in their own league. But then—I bet on the Dodgers.....

SI, SI, SENIOR!..... With the tempo of the come, sambo, and runba echoing around the campus, Bucknell will be hosts to students of all the Americas of the Western Hemisphere on the weekend of October 22-25. Topping off this program will be a fiesta dance in the gym on Saturday night (How do you say "Let's all this one out" in Spanish). Our gorgeous (paid advertisement) coeds will bedeck themselves out in true fiesta colors, and samboes and sashis will be the order of the day for the seniors. Sponsored by the I.P. and Pan-Hell Councils, this dance promises to be a "must" for everybody. P. S.—an admission ticket will have no effect on the Spanish professor's opinion of your possibilities in that language.

DEBATE SQUAD MEETING..... Meeting of the entire Debate Squad on Monday night, October 19th, at 7:15 in room 209 of the L.I. Building. Everyone interested is urged to attend.

Herd Battles Owls To 7-7 Standstill Under Philly Arcs

Paar Tallies Lone Bison Touchdown On 16-Yard Run In Final Stanza

By Sy Berger

Bisons Play In Own League

With those two over-sized bulldozers, Penn State and Temple pushed off the Bison schedule road until next year, that unerring, gnawing, deft and pessimistic feel is a thing of the past. It wasn't any tea-herds would pull a few tricks out of the bag and overwhelm their mighty foes. Nevertheless, the only pessimism was turned into rather jubilant surprise after each six-minute brawl. The disappointment didn't sink the Bucknell fans into the depths of despair, after State's Lions managed to get out a spectacular one touchdown margin, and the optimistic nature of season's hopes once again came to the fore. But, the mention of Temple cast a deep shadow over this optimistic display, and everyone sat around with their fingers crossed and hoping. Their hoping Orange and Blue crew walked off the field, they had made a somewhat hopeless upset, a reality. They outgained and outscored an overweighed Temple team in a 7-4 debacle.

Now, the Bisons are in a fix to normal, in the respect that once again they'll be playing ball in the gridiron class. That means, feeling prevails no longer. The outsize, the gridiron face in the forthcoming fray don't short any publicized All-Americans or any 210-lb. lines. They don't have a yard in 25 yards on the B. consistently or passers who hit bulls-inspired with the rah-rah alpha male spirit, they're well-coached outsize, the dear old institution, instead of the weekly pay-check. Some eleven may be stronger than the Herd, at least weaker, but it's a certainty that there won't be any one-sided risk, for their material is all of the same caliber, and their checkbooks aren't at the disposal of Saturday afternoon gridiron heroes.

From here on, think Al Humphrey's lads have an excellent chance of making up one of the best records since the Bison mentor took over the Bucknell coaching chair. From all indications, they're a well-drilled, well-groomed, clean playing and hard fighting outfit, laden with plenty of talent. The rest of the schedule won't be a breather by any means, but I will go out on the limb and say the Bisons will better last year's record and surprise the football world, which looked at Bucknell's gridsters with a sympathetic eye.

Rutger's Illnesses T Formation

Last Saturday, Maryland eleven took the Rutgers gridiron into tow quite decisively by a 27-13 score. The newspapers described Rutgers' defeat as the result of a very potent weapon, which they could not cope with. That big gun was Clark Shaugnessy's T-formation. This new really brings hope and light to the eyes, for the Bisons are well-equipped with the same weapon and "deceptive" single-wing back formation to

Debating Team To Begin Season Soon

"Federal Union" Is Subject For This Year's Debate; Robinson To Coach

"Resolved that the United Nations should establish a permanent Federal Union with the power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes, and to enforce such settlements, and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the Union." This is the question for debate for the coming season, which was chosen at the conference of the Debate Association of Pennsylvania Colleges this week in Harrisburg.

Mr. Robinson, the new debate coach, announced that the schedule for the coming year is not yet complete but that it will include Lehigh, Franklin and Marshall, Penn State and other local colleges as well as several of the tournaments which are scheduled as follows: Dec. 12, at Westminster College; Feb. 20th, at Shippensburg State Teachers; Penn State on March 19th and 20th; and a tournament is being planned for the very near future at Lock Haven State Teachers.

Due to the increasing interest in public discussions and forums more emphasis will be placed on this phase of the program. "What kind of an organization should be adopted in the post-war world?" and "What are the problems of the peace?" are two of the questions which will form the basis for discussion work. Penn State is planning a series of symposia based on the latter question for the Fall and early Winter.

The first open meeting of the debate squad, to which all new members and those interested in debating, are urged to come, will be held Thursday night, October 16th, at 7:30 in room 205 of the Lit. Building. In the meantime Mr. Robinson extends an invitation to anyone interested in discussing plans with him to drop in at his office, 227 Lit. Building.

Heads-Up Football

earned the distinction of being the second frosh back to score a touchdown. But, orphans of the night must go to the heads-up play of Red Johnson who pulled off the most exciting play of the evening, when he scooped up a bad snap and raved across for the extra point giving the Bisons the tying tally.

Johnson really carried out his assignment, as he was in there to get that seventh point for Bucknell and when things went awry, the sup fullback really showed heads-up play and did get the heads-up seventh point.

Another bright spot of the game was the showing made by freshman Johnny Paer. He carried out his wingback running assignments with poise, and his passing and kicking brought cheers from the ardent spectators. The frosh back is due for plenty of action and will probably help relieve Chet Podd of his passing and kicking burdens to some extent.

Booster Club Appoints Two Frosh To Board

Two freshmen will be elected to the Booster Club board of directors at the meeting to be held tonight in Hunt Hall. A few vice-presidents will also be elected to fill vacancies left by those who failed to return to school this fall. Thanks for the club activities during Homecoming weekend, including a pep rally, will also be discussed at this meeting.

The board of directors of the Booster Club is comprised of a group of twenty students, elected by the directors themselves, whose duty it is to manage the activities of the club. The membership drive, which has been in progress now reports 200 new members, and the drive is still continuing under Tom Walker, chairman of the membership committee, with the aim of eventually connecting everyone on campus.

Sixteen $18.75 Bonds will pay for one PARACHUTE. Thousands of American airmen will live by its again, thanks to parachute paid for by those at home through War Bonds and Stamps.

Liberal Arts, C and F Decrease Technical Courses Are Favored In '42

A comparison of the enrollment figures of the first semester of the 1941-42 school year and the present semester shows a shift from the less technical to the more technical courses. Contrary to popular belief among the students, the number of women now attending the University has not greatly increased. There are 549 women enrolled now and there were 522 enrolled a year ago. The number of men enrolled has gone from 817 of last year to the present figure of 765. There has been a decrease in the enrollment in the liberal arts course and commerce and finance. There are 490 persons now enrolled in the A. B. course in comparison with 537 of last September. The number of enrollees

Honorary To Seek National Status

Beta Epsilon Sigma, honorary engineering fraternity, is continuing its effort to remain as one of the most exclusive honoraries on Bucknell campus. Its goal is to become a national organization—becoming to the engineers what Phi Beta Kappa is to A. B. students.

Fostering the principles of scholarship, character, and the ability of engineering students, several technical research papers were presented this summer by its members at their meetings. "Priorities in Wartime," by Stanley Marshall; "Ballast," by Lynn Diffeenderfer; and "Fluorescent Light Tubes," by Arnold King were some of the papers read.

Four engineers of the class of '43 were initiated into fraternity during the summer. These men were: Blaine Lewis, Ken Baserman, George Baines, and Joseph Calanan.

The fraternity will meet during November at which time one-eighth of the number of Junior Engineers will be initiated.

"Praise Allah" uttered by a sophomore crew will bring freshmen girls to their subjection. The answer from these bowed creatures will be "Haw mercy upon us, oh high and mighty Sophomores." At usual they will be expected to sing and cheer upon request and hold open doors as well as remain standing in the women's dining room until all upperclassmen are seated.

Hell Week will be in effect through Friday. From then until Thanksgiving the freshmen women should expect high green hair ribbons, no jewelry and no make-up.

The University of Missouri was located in Boone county because that county offered the largest cash inducement in 1820.

ATTENTION, S. C. C.
There will be an important business meeting of all S. C. C. members next Tuesday night, 7:15 p. m., in Hunt Hall "Ree Room".

C. A. A. Course Is Closed For Duration

The Civil Aeronautics Association has been closed to Bucknell students due to the duration, according to Dr. Ralph E. Page, dean of men.

The CAA student flight training program was first started here in 1941 as an extra-curricular activity. It was open to all students who had completed at least one year of college work.

Under the present emergency and the consequent increasing demand for planes for the U. S. States armed forces it is not necessary to turn over the University facilities to the training of groups of naval cadets which have been sent here by the government.

TOMLINSON TO LECTURE ON WORLD AFFAIRS

Prominent News Analyst Will Talk on "The Americas At War" Next Friday

Mr. Edward Tomlinson, who has earned the reputation of America's foremost interpreter of New World affairs, will deliver an address in Davis Gym next Friday evening at 8:00 p. m.

Mr. Tomlinson will be the first of the year's Lecture Course speakers, and his address will concern "The Americas At War". His talk is expected to be one of the highlights of the Inter-American Conference to be held on the campus next weekend.

Edward Tomlinson made his first trip to South America in 1922. From that day to this, all of his professional activities have been dictated by his desire to interpret the Southern Republics to the United States. He has been a special correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune and its nation-wide syndicate and for other American papers for years, a radio commentator, writer and lecturer on Inter-American affairs, and he visits the South American continent and sometimes twice a year to keep his fingers on the very latest developments and events.

He is at present NBC's analyst on Latin American events, and it is expected that he will have many interesting items to tell his audience next week, for he has just returned from an extended trip through South America.

The price of admission to the general public will be 40 cents and for high school students 25 cents. Bucknell students and faculty will be admitted free of charge.

Bucknell Men To Hear Talks On Reserves

Army, Navy, Marine Corps Will Explain Programs Next Thursday

Bucknell men will have an opportunity to obtain complete information on the Army, Navy, and Marine Reserves next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the Vaughan Literature Auditorium.

Following the general meeting at 10 o'clock at which time officers of the various reserve corps will outline the particular qualifications necessary to enlistment in the Reserve Corps, these officers will be on hand to answer any questions that individuals may have concerning any phase of these reserves.

These questions will be answered by the reserve officers in separate conference rooms to which any student may attend.

The purpose of this joint Procurement Board in coming to the Bucknell campus is not to enlist any students next week, but merely to explain the set-up and the systems whereby the various Reserves operate.

Two weeks later, on or about November 15, the Army, Navy, and the Marine Reserve Corps will send special examining officers to the campus at which time students will have the opportunity to enlist in any branch of the Reserve Corps for which they have the qualifications.

BUDGET CARDS
All students will be able to obtain their 1942-43 Budget Cards this Friday afternoon from 1:35 to 5:00 p. m. Freshmen will receive their cards in Room 110 of West Wing, and upperclassmen may get their cards in the basement of Roberts Hall. It is necessary that all students get their cards at this time, for no one will be admitted to next week's Homecoming game without a Budget Card.

Anne Brown Appears Nov. 3 Soprano To Sing On Artist Program

Anne Brown, brilliant American soprano who electrified New York last season as the star in George Gershwin's opera, "Porgy and Bess", will appear at Davis Gymnasium on Tuesday, November 3, at 8:15 p. m.

Last summer, Miss Brown refused a two-year twenty-five thousand dollar contract offered by producers of the Broadway success in order to return to her home in New York. Miss Brown obtained her role of Bess in Gershwin's play by writing a note to Mr. Gershwin asking for an audition. This occurred in the spring of 1934 while she was in the graduating class of the Institute of Musical Art at the Juilliard School. She intended to apply for a minor part, but after hearing her sing Mr. Gershwin immediately chose her for the leading role, subsequently changing the original title of "Porgy" to "Porgy and Bess."

First Love—Concert Stage
Although she has an unbounded affection for the Gershwin opera, Miss Brown's first love is the concert stage. She hopes eventually to appear in other operas, but in the meantime her major attention is to be given to concert activities.

Already to her credit are a number of brilliant performances as soloist with the NYC Symphony Orchestra, under Leopold Stokowski, with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony at Lewisohn Stadium, at the Robin Hood Dell Festival, in the Hollywood Bowl, in the Major Concert Series, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and in concerts throughout principal cities of the country.

Editorial

A Chance To Learn Something About Our Neighbors

The Christian Association and the entire Administrative body of the University deserve a warm word of praise for the very complete and timely Inter-American Conference which they have arranged to hold on the campus this weekend.

The Conference, which is to be attended by college student representatives from almost every nation in the Western Hemisphere, is the first of its kind ever to be held in this country. We at Bucknell may well feel proud that our University has made this initial effort in the collegiate world at arriving at a more complete understanding of the problems which we share with our South American, Central American, and Canadian neighbors.

The fact that this Conference is being viewed with great respect and much interest by the outside world is verified by the attention being shown it by Pan-American officials and organizations in Washington. Four of the most important and most influential bodies connected with Latin-American affairs in the nation's capital have volunteered their services and aid in a concerted effort to make this weekend conference a significant milestone in Inter-American relations.

Unlike other conferences held on college campuses, there has not been any great effort made to have large numbers of students from other universities in this country attend this conference, for it is the feeling of those who have arranged for this conference that the emphasis should be laid upon what the foreign representatives to these meetings have to offer. Because of this situation, every Bucknell student will hear the responsibility of attending the various group conferences scheduled for this Saturday. It will be up to us undergraduates here to set forth what the ideas are of the average college student in the U. S. A. concerning the solution of Inter-American problems. This duty may be assumed by us Bucknell men and women so that our foreign friends will be able to carry back to their native countries something tangible and concrete for which their fellow students may set their minds towards attaining.

Action To Be Taken On One Semester Pledging Plan

Here's some good news for all Bucknell fraternity men—it seems as though the editorial which appeared in "The Bucknellian" last week concerning the making of freshmen eligible for initiation into fraternities at the end of the first semester instead of having them pledge for an entire school year, as at present, has aroused the interest of a great many persons on campus.

At the next Inter-Frat Council meeting, to be held in about two weeks, a resolution stating that the University, in view of the trend toward the acceleration of the college curriculum, should revise its ruling which requires freshmen to be in school for an entire year before they may become eligible for initiation into a fraternity. Many of the same reasons used in the editorial which appeared here last week, in addition to others which the Council will suggest, will be attached to the resolution which will be passed on to the University's Administrative Council for their approval.

We can't possibly see what objections the Council could possibly offer to the far-reaching advantages which this new rule holds for the men at Bucknell, and we do hope that when this resolution comes up for their approval they will show the same progressive attitude toward it as they have shown in all other phases of the accelerated program which they have thus far rendered decisions upon.

Glee Club Men Receive Pins From Fred Waring

Fred Waring, orchestra leader, through Professor LeMay, awarded pins to all members of the Bucknell Glee Club in recognition of their excellent showing in the contest which he sponsored last year. In this district, including 48 colleges, Bucknell placed second. The University of Rochester, which placed first, was the national winner.

Each man also received a copy of 6 special arrangements by Fred Waring, including the "Marines Hymn."

C. A. Notes

"A Search for Order in a Day of Chaos Creates the Roman Catholic Church" will be the topic of Dr. Vincent's talk being "That We Are As We Think".

The theme of the talk dealt with the belief that "if a man thinks positive thoughts he will live in a positive universe". Dr. Peale stated that he believes a man can think his way to happiness and to successful living.

The fourth in the series of classes will be in charge of Alex Webb, '44. Coffee and doughnuts will be served at 9:15 a. m.

Take time out from the worries and studies of the day for a few minutes quiet meditation at 7:00 p. m. next Tuesday in the President's House. Every student is welcome to attend. The program will be over in time for students to attend their 8 o'clock classes.

KENNEY'S BAND TO PLAY AT HOMECOMING DANCE

Annual Affair Will Feature Unusual Vocal Renditions; Tickets Cost $1.65

Jack Kenney and his orchestra, featuring the vocals of lovely Bonnie King, will supply the music for this year's annual Homecoming Dance at Davis Gymnasium on Saturday, October 31, from 8:30-12:00.

As leader of this aggregation Kenney believes that dance bands should play music that is beautiful as well as rhythmic, and consequently has his library arranged with full chords and ensemble work that gives depth to the band. His music is distinctive and yet the style of the orchestra reminds

By Connie Campbell

Fraternity open-houses composed social calendar of last weekend as the campus finally begins to show some symptoms of social life. The new Delta Sigma house on the hill was crowded with couples Saturday night anxious to see the new dwelling of the Demies. Refreshments were served to their visitors.

Mortar Board also sponsored an "open-house" in Hunt rec room, last Saturday evening, for the ensigns in training here at Bucknell.

Pi Beta Phi entertained their province president for a few days of this week. Weekend guests of the chapter were Alice Zindel, '42, M. Osterle, '42, and Martha Rice, '41.

The K. D.'s treated themselves to a party last Saturday in Hunt rec room. They roasted winners and toasted marshmallows between games of bridge and plus pong and enjoyed a round of the Virginia Reel. Ding Clark, '43, returned to school this week after an apprenticeship which prevented him from returning last weekend.

The Tri Delta admitted five new members last Saturday when Phyllis Adams, Win Bode, Tootsie Kloss, Muriel Hansen, and Anne Kloss were initiated. Betty Truelson, ex-'44, and Mary Gallagher, '42, were guests here last weekend. Betty Evans and Mary Shreve attended a dance given for the ensigns at Penn State last Friday night.

The Alpha Chi Omega celebrated its fifty-fifth anniversary of its founding last Thursday. A program commemorating Founders' Day was held that evening in the suite at which time a letter from one of its founders, Mrs. Olive Burnett Clark, was read.

This fraternity was founded on October 15, 1887, in the music department of DePauw University in Indiana, and Eta chapter of Alpha Chi Omega was installed on the Bucknell campus in 1898, the seventh chapter of the fraternity.

Phi Mu Hope Wismar, '44, recently obtained her pilot's license. She took her ground school training here at Bucknell last spring and her flight

RAMBLING!

WITH FINKERNAGEL

THAT'S THE SPIRIT!!!

Yesterday I was confronted by the counselor of third floor, East College. He told me that his boys had bought a War Bond and were going to give it to President Marts at chapel today.

Well, I thought to myself, "Okay, I'll bring along with the bond," so I said, "Well, Perks, what's the story?" and here it is.

It seems that these above mentioned boys decided that they would like to do something for the war effort. They finally concluded that a War Bond would suit the bill. Now, who to give it to? The unanimous choice, of course, was our dear proxy.

Without further ado, they purchased the bond and Henry (Perks) Parkin presented it to President Marts this morning before chapel.

Another interesting sidelight on this matter is the following plan of these boys. They are going to send the serial number of the bond to the North American Aircraft Plant in California. This organization will, as soon as they can, name one of their bombers "The Bucknell Bison." Now, not only will we have fighting BOMBS in this struggle, but will also have a plane from old B. U.

In behalf of the fourth estate at B. U., wish to take this opportunity to thank the counselor and the boys of third-East for this splendid show of patriotism. It truly personifies the "Bucknell Way Of Life."

Is this Bucknell? Where are the beautiful coeds? (This should bring the wrath of the Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors down on this column—). Wandering around the campus this week, one is "amazed and astounded" by the arrival of a group of quote-girls-quotes. This year the freshmen REALLY have HELL WEEK. You can fully realize that "fifty thousand Frenchmen could be wrong" when you see these girls "sane" make-up.

I guess the only thing to do is to hold up in bachelor quarters for the "duration."

.....GRAND OLD GRADS

Next weekend begins the traditional rainy season. In other words Homecoming. Nevertheless, the homecomings in the past have been great successes. Why? The weather.....No. The parade.....Certainly not. It has been the spirit of friendliness, and fellowship that has made these events what they are. This year will be doubly difficult to handle. With the coming of war since homecoming last, fewer grads will be on the campus. In this struggle, but will also have a plane from old B. U.

The weather.....No. The parade.....Certainly not. It has been the spirit of friendliness, and fellowship that has made these events what they are. This year will be doubly difficult to handle. With the coming of war since homecoming last, fewer grads will be on the campus. In this struggle, but will also have a plane from old B. U.

It is in behalf of the fourth estate at B. U., wish to take this opportunity to thank the counselor and the boys of third-East for this splendid show of patriotism. It truly personifies the "Bucknell Way Of Life."

Is this Bucknell? Where are the beautiful coeds? (This should bring the wrath of the Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors down on this column—). Wandering around the campus this week, one is "amazed and astounded" by the arrival of a group of quote-girls-quotes. This year the freshmen REALLY have HELL WEEK. You can fully realize that "fifty thousand Frenchmen could be wrong" when you see these girls "sane" make-up.

I guess the only thing to do is to hold up in bachelor quarters for the "duration."

Gridmen Invade 'Beantown' Saturday To Tackle Boston University In Yearly Tilt

Falling in their last three attempts to ring up their second win of the current season, Coach Humphreys' Bisons will try again, this time at the expense of Boston University's Terriers at Boston, this Saturday. Afternoon. The contest will mark the second meeting between the two outfits, Bucknell having won the opening battle of the series 6 to 0 last year.

The New Englanders will enter the fray with a record of two victories over American International and Tufts, and losses to Syracuse U. and Western Maryland. The B. U. Bisons claim only one victory thus far, that being over Lebanon Valley. They dropped two games to Penn State and Rutgers and sport a 7-7 tie against Temple.

Bisons Not At Full Strength

Coach Humphreys' gridsmen came out none too good physically after their tussle with Rutgers last week, and it is doubtful that they will take the field against their Saturday foe at full strength. The line may be hampered by the possible loss of Captain Bill Anderson, who received a head injury, while Felix Siega, the freshman ace, may be lost to the running attack due to a bad ankle, which forced him out of last week's game.

In the early minutes of play, however, there is a chance that both had may see action on the Boston turf.

Despite the disappointing second half performance at New Brunswick, the Bison mentor still seems set on the starting lineup that he has used in the four previous encounters. Ray Miller and Gene Matthews will assume their duties at the flank posts, and Tom Rodgers and Walt Scott will fill up the tackle gaps. The guard berths will be occupied by Bert Brown and Chet Dunaway. If Bill Anderson isn't fit for action, the Bison co-captain is in playing condition, he will open the game at center.

The pivot position now will probably go to sophomore Bob Merrill, who gave a fine account of his ability against Rutgers.

Chet Peck, will receive the bid to start at the quarterback position, and Red Johnson will carry the Bucknell colors from his fullback slot. Al Magagna will open the game at wingback berth, and freshman Johnny Paar will receive the call to run from the tailback, if Siega's ankle fails to respond to treatment.

Rutgers touchdown came as a result of Paar's fumble on the Bison 19-yard line after receiving Reiger's punt. Connor made four off tackle runs on the Bison 14. Reiger advanced the ball to the 11 on a plunge and Connor again went off to be hailed by the crowd before being stopped. The same play then netted a touchdown for the New Brunswick eleven. Hal Heritage's perfect placement dead-kicked the game at 7-7.

After being pushed back to their own 1-yard line late in the last period, the Bisons elected to kick, but the over-driving Scarlet line broke through and the safety that resulted proved to be the margin of victory for Rutgers.

Quarterback

Spent your allowances for Defense Savings Stamps.

The reserve strength of the Bison remains intact, and Coach Humphreys can call Bill Brader, Ernie Querio, Fred Drexler and Frank Carrol to fill in at the wing positions. Bob Hammarberg and Wilbur Forsythe are likely tackle replacements, and Felix Cristofora will be a guard reserve. Cliff Spielman may be appointed to relieve Merrill at center. Ed McGowan will see relief duty at the field-goal-kicking position, and Micky McConnell will be drafted as a halfback replacement. The fullback reserve situation will be solved by Ray Tyler and Carroll Murray.

Terriers Start Seven Veterans

Boston University seems well equipped in the running and passing departments under their new coach, Walt Holmer, and are apt to perplex the Bisons with their mystifying single and double wingback variations. The brunt of their ground attack rest with their fullback, Pete LaManna, and two freshmen, Sybil Cella and Larry Kirkman. The Terrier's aerial thrusts have Bob Carroll on the pitching end and Captain Ray Whelan and Cella doing most of the receiving. The Carroll to Cella combination clicked for a 72-yard touchdown, which beat Tufts 7-0 last week. The Beantown lads also possess a rather tight pass defense, which is quite characteristic of Boston University eleven.

THE Thundering Herd seemed to forget to thunder during the first game of the supposedly normal part of their schedule, and as a result received another black mark in the loss column. Somehow, Al Humphreys' crew hit a soft-shoulder in the road and skidded miserably into an awful disappointing defeat at the hands of Rutgers' weaker but far more spirited eleven. There wasn't any doubt about Rutgers being in the ball game once the second half got under way. The Bisons certainly proved they weren't water buffaloes, but they also failed to prove that they're the well-drilled, hard-fighting gridsmen, which I'm absolutely certain they are, provided they care to be.

Film Presents Construction Of
Falls As Feature

Construction of one of the most recent international links, joining the United States and Canada, will be featured in the presentation of the film, entitled "The Construction of the Rainbow Bridge, Niagara Falls," which is being shown this Thursday evening, October 22, at eight o'clock in the Literature Auditorium under the auspices of the Bucknell Student Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

This film was prepared by Mr. E. Leland Durkin, Resident Engineer of the Bethlehem Steel Company and chief engineer in charge of construction of the bridge, and it has been through his permission that Bucknell's Civil Engineers have been able to obtain use of the film. Many Bucknell engineers became acquainted with Mr. Durkin at the time of his visit to the campus last April, in connection with the Civil Engineers' Regional Student Chapter Convention.

His first presentation of these motion pictures was made at the Annual Convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers at New York in January. This showing of the film on the Bucknell campus will be one of the first on any college campus.

All members and friends of the Bucknell faculty and student body are invited to see the pictures and to join in the technical discussion, for the construction of this bridge was not only of engineering importance but also of historical interest, as it replaced the well-known Honeymoon Bridge, which was swept down the Niagara gorge in the ice jam of 1905.

Freshmen Dorm Gossip

Frosh Girls Are Socially Active

By Nancy E. Patterson

Getting into the swing of a college career isn't proving to be such a task as some of the Freshmen girls might have thought. If they can manage for a time to forget the long week days and nights when they may not date and have to hit those mammoth textbooks, they even begin to find college a pleasure. Ah, these weekend days! You heard it said that a crowd from the five days following to rest up, hasn't she?

The girls of Hallett House held open house on Sunday, October 19, for all Freshmen girls and any guests they cared to bring. Since the general movement on foot at present is to see that Frosh get acquainted with themselves and anyone and everyone else, the open house achieved its end—Margaret Harry gave a monologue, the Cassie Castleman sang, Betty Cleckner and Ronnie Horst, '44, of Kappa Sigma, played for group singing.

The Bucknell weather of last week played havoc with many a plan for an outing, but it couldn't dampen the spirits of Freshmen fellows and girls determined to have themselves a time. About 60 Freshmen with their counselors Kay Marshall, Margie Strauss, Henry Parkins, and Ed Bonnett met in Hunt room Friday night, October 16, for food, fun, and dancing. I hear that the general purpose was to get Freshmen men and women acquainted.

ENGINEERING DRAWING COURSES TO BE GIVEN

Bucknell University is now offering two new free-education courses in Engineering Drawing. This will make a total of 30 special courses given by Bucknell since the emergency engineering training program was initiated.

The new courses, Engineering Drawing I and Engineering Drawing II, will be held Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 10:00 o'clock for 16 weeks.

Engineering Drawing I is a course for beginners who should be high school graduates with at least two years of mathematics or the equivalent in industrial experience. This course is designed to train for drafting and daily newspapers in that country.

Engineering Drawing II deals with more advanced work, carrying on from the end of the beginning course. Only those who have taken Engineering Drawing I or who have had equivalent training in engineering drawing are eligible for the more advanced course, which includes work in descriptive geometry.

Applications for entrance to these courses may be secured by writing to:

Publications Board ELECTS EISLEY HEAD

Miss Tremie Easley has been elected to the position of chairman of the Board of Publications, Morton B. Silberman, '43, is the newly-elected secretary of this Board, and Robert E. Streeter, '43, was elected to the position of faculty representative of this Board to the Student-Faculty Conference.

Miss Easley, who is faculty adviser of the yearbook L'Agenda and Director of the University's Publicity Office, succeeds Dr. Lewis E. Theiss as chairman of the Board.

Silberman is editor of "The Bucknellian," and Streeter is faculty adviser to the university's weekly publication.

The Publications Board consists of the editor, business manager, and faculty adviser of "The Bucknellian," L'Agenda, and the Handbook, and also Dean Page and Mr. Holter, the university's Registrar.

Now it can be said that the girls of '46 are taking Hell Week in the proper spirit. Several of the girls have had real trouble in conforming to the rules, but if you chance at the young lady of 6th Street, House who has a feather cut and who in some way has had to conform up eight pig-tails, you'll understand the difficulty. Perhaps the Freshmen will be encouraged to learn they have a champion and a sympathizer in Tommy Walker, who thinks the Sophomores are being much too cruel to the Freshmen girls. Well, this special Week happens only once in a lifetime, so it has to be thought to be remembered—and I think everyone is agreed that the Freshmen will never forget it.

Student Board of Health Will Expand Membership

The Student Board of Health held its first meeting of the year last week, at which every fraternity and society was represented. They voted for the continuance of last year's Immunization Program. The Board will also expand its membership by including all people interested in student health.

Bucknell Budget Is Sliced $1342 For This Year

Organizations Voluntarily Accept Large Reductions In Expenditures TO BRING SUPERIOR TALENT TO CAMPUS

Bucknell this year is functioning on a wartime budget. All student organizations on the campus have voluntarily accepted large cuts in expenditures and as a result the whole of Bucknell's budget is reduced $1342 from that of 1941-1942.

The objective of several appropriations in this year's budget is to bring superior talent to the campus. With rationing of tires and gas, transportation facilities have been greatly affected. As a result of this condition many organizations have given up annual trips. So the aim this year is to bring the talent "to" the campus.

The 1942-43 budget presented by Professor Clyde Barger was discussed and adopted by Student Faculty Conference Wednesday, October 21. This present action is subject to change in an emergency situation.

At present the budget stands as follows: Artist Course, $1,500; Band, $500; "Bucknellian," $820; the Christian Association, $1,254; Cinema, $300; Class Dues and Memorial Reserves, $1,600; Debating, $250; Girls' Club, $300; Men's Intramural, $625; Orchestra, $325; Radio Work Shop, $100; Student Faculty Conference, $150; Supervision and Reserves, $2,151; and Women's Athletic Association, $375.

This year the amount allotted to supervision and reserve is larger than previous years due to the uncertainty of conditions at the present time.

Allocation of Money This is the manner in which the $25.00 activity fee which each student pays is allocated. Twelve dollars goes to the athletic department. The remaining $13.00 is distributed by the (Continued on page 8.)

Versatile Anne Brown Sings Tuesday

Versatile is the word for Anne Brown, the thrilling American soprano who will sing at Davis Gymnasium this Tuesday, November 3, at 8:15 p. m.

A strikingly beautiful, slender, blue-eyed young woman in her twenties, she is a graduate of Morgan College, Baltimore, has attended Teachers College at Columbia University, and has received three diplomas from the Juillard School of Music. She is a talented painter, has studied costume design in New York, designs her own clothes, and is very interested in interior decorating. Underlying all these talents is a vivid sense of color and a feeling for dramatics, so important a part of the opera and concert artist's career.

Probably no song is more associated with Miss Brown than is George Gershwin's "Summertime," a song especially loved by both Miss Brown and Mr. Gershwin. This program is included in Miss Brown's number for Tuesday night.

Will Deliver "Pep Talks" In the midst of the chanting of the Bucknell songs and cheers led by the U. S. cheerleaders, "Pep talks" will be given by Coach A. L. Humphreys, Captain Bill Anderson, John Plant, and by President Marts, if his work enables him to be on hand for this annual occasion.

Versatile Anne Brown Sings Tuesday

Versatile is the word for Anne Brown, the thrilling American soprano who will sing at Davis Gymnasium this Tuesday, November 3, at 8:15 p. m.

A strikingly beautiful, slender, blue-eyed young woman in her twenties, she is a graduate of Morgan College, Baltimore, has attended Teachers College at Columbia University, and has received three diplomas from the Juillard School of Music. She is a talented painter, has studied costume design in New York, designs her own clothes, and is very interested in interior decorating. Underlying all these talents is a vivid sense of color and a feeling for dramatics, so important a part of the opera and concert artist's career.

Probably no song is more associated with Miss Brown than is George Gershwin's "Summertime," a song especially loved by both Miss Brown and Mr. Gershwin. This program is included in Miss Brown's number for Tuesday night.

Will Deliver "Pep Talks" In the midst of the chanting of the Bucknell songs and cheers led by the U. S. cheerleaders, "Pep talks" will be given by Coach A. L. Humphreys, Captain Bill Anderson, John Plant, and by President Marts, if his work enables him to be on hand for this annual occasion.

Glee Club To Sing With Philharmonic

Rochestra Orchestra Will Appear In Musical Fete With Bucknell Men

One of the outstanding musical events of the season, of interest not only to music lovers, but to the entire campus, will be the appearance of the Men's Glee Club with the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra in a combined musical festival on December 12 in the Davis Gym at 8:15.

The Glee Club will be under the direction of Prof. Melvin LeMon, and Gus Frazer Harrison will lead the orchestra. Mr. Harrison, who is a familiar figure in the music world, has done an outstanding job in making the Rochester Philharmonic a well known organization since its founding in 1925.

Applying with the upperclassmen in the Glee Club will be several freshmen, who were accepted for the first time in several years. Of the club as a whole, Prof. LeMon enthusiastically says, "This is the best group we've had for a long time."

The thirty glee men made their first appearance two weeks ago at the Education Conference. They sang "The Shadow March," "Evening Pastoral," and special arrangements of the "Marines Hymn" and "This is My Country," which were sent to Prof. LeMon by Fred Waring.

SEM HOLDS GALA HOLLOWE'EN PARTY

The Sem celebrated Halloween this year three days in advance of the actual date of the holiday. This was made necessary because Halloween falls on that date. At dinner yesterday the coeds and also the faculty who dine at the Women's Dining Hall arrived dressed in Halloween costumes to eat a holiday meal. Prior to the dinner a cider cocktail was served in Larison living room. The living room and dining hall room were decorated with cornstalks and pumpkins and on the tables were candles, the only illumination in the hall. The costumes were judged and prizes given for the prettiest, the most original, and the funniest individual outfit and for the two best groups of more than six persons as well as one for the cleverest small group of from two to five persons.

FRESHMEN GIRLS GIVE SERENADE FOR SOPHS

Frosh Co-eds Thank Sophs For Excusing Them From Hell Week Regulations

The sophomore coeds had a special serenade one evening last week. The freshmen of Larison and Bucknell Cottage congregated on the women's quad heartily singing the Alma Mater, much to the amazement of the rest of the Sem.

Following this they sang the following words known as the Sophomore Serenade to the tune of "Thanks For the Memories" composed by the girls in Larison:

Thanks for the Thursday
Without pigtail and braids
And with cosmetic aids,
For sweaters out
Of all the Freshman maids.
We thank you Sophomores.

Thanks from the heart of us,
You're really awfully swell
All through this week of hell.
We all agree
A Freshman at Bucknell.

So thank you so much.
This was their way of thanking the sophomores for excusing them from the trials of Hell Week last Thursday morning in order that they could go to chapel looking respectable.

Delta Zeta Sorority Marks Founder's Day

Delta Zeta sorority celebrated the fourth anniversary of its founding last Saturday. A ceremony was held in the suite that night at which time a telegram was read from the President Director, Miss Zoe McGadden, Dorothy Naugle, president of Bucknell's chapter, conducted the annual Founders' Day ceremony which was followed by a song in the suite.

Delta Zeta was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and was incorporated October 24, 1902.

At the National Pan Hellenic Congress in 1935, Delta Zeta was elected to the presidency of this class this afternoon. Male members of the Soph class may cast their votes in Roberts Hall and women members in Larison Hall. The two candidates are Tom Williams and Louise Stead.

Miss Derr Arrives Safely Overseas

A telegram from "somebody overseas" has been received by President Marts from Miss Sylvia Derr, who until this past Spring was director of physical education for women at Bucknell.

The message stated, "Greetings. All well and safe. Best wishes and good health." Signed, Sylvia Derr.

Though the exact nature of her work is not known, until a few months ago she was serving on the American Red Cross staff as an assistant project director to plan entertainment for soldiers visiting the various service clubs conducted by the organization in foreign countries in which U. S. boys are serving.

When last heard from, about three months ago, she was expecting an overseas assignment and it now seems as though her expectations were well-founded as evidenced by the telegram received by President Marts from her this past week.

Kappa Delta Celebrates 45th Anniversary

The forty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Kappa Delta sorority was celebrated last Friday. Founded at Virginia State Normal, Farmville, Va., in 1897, this sorority established Phi Tau chapter here at Bucknell in 1915.

As is tradition, the members of Kappa Delta each wore a white rose of K. D. on Founders' Day. A service was conducted by their president, Ruth Chamberlin, early Friday morning in the suite.

In 1912 Kappa Delta was admitted to the National Pan Hellenic Congress in its first petition. It's total roll of 68 chapters and a membership of approximately 10,000 makes it the fifth ranking sorority in size.

War Situation Will Not Dampen Social Spirit Of Homecoming

Although the war situation has placed many restrictions on this year's Homecoming weekend, it is nevertheless, expected to be quite a spirited social affair.

Practically every fraternity on campus has planned an open house dance for this Friday night following the pep rally.

Sigma Alpha Mu will feature a war stamp dance and all persons attending the dance will be required to purchase a $25 war stamp per couple at the door of the chapter house.

Kappa Sigma will feature a flower show at their open house presented by members of the house. Ted Armstrong will serve as master of ceremonies.

Phi Gamma Delta opens its social season on Homecoming with an open house on Friday night and a buffet supper after the game on Saturday.

The Sig Eps are planning an open house with all the holiday trimmings. The message stated, "Greetings. All well and safe. Best wishes and good health." Signed, Sylvia Derr.

Other open houses on campus tomorrow night will be held at the Sigma Chi chapter, the Phi Psi house, and the S. A. E. house.

In addition to their open house, on Saturday afternoon all Sigma Chi activities and pledges will be the guests of Mr. Rush Kress, '00, at a buffet luncheon to be given at the chapter house. Kappa Sigma chapter is giving a buffet luncheon for its alumni and guests.

Hallowe'en Decorations Will Brighten Davis Gym Saturday Night

The annual Homecoming Dance for Bucknell's students and alumni will be from 8:30-12:00 p.m. this Saturday evening in Davis Gym. The price of admission will be $1.65 per couple.

Jack Kenney and his orchestra, featuring his vocalist, Ronnie King, will play for the dance. Ronnie King, who just recently joined his band, and Kenney, although a master of the trumpet, features his vocal renditions which are the hit of his program.

Combining the occasion and the holiday upon which it falls, the decorations of the gym will deliver a welcome to alumni and also produce a Hallowe'en atmosphere. The C. A. will sell refreshments at the dance.

The Homecoming Dance is the largest dance of the year. Twenty-four hundred people attended last October. When Davis Gym was opened for use in 1938, this dance was the first to be given in it. Prior to the building of the gym, the Homecoming Dance was held in the women's dining hall after the banquet, much confusion being caused at this time by having to remove the tables from the hall.

This year, however, the banquet will be staged in the Women's Dining Hall at 6 o'clock, and from there the crowd will adjourn for the dance at the gym.

Dr. Clarence D. Cranford, Pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Washington, D. C., will be the speaker for Chapel next Thursday, November 5. Dr. Cranford delivered the Baccalaureate Address to the seniors at the Commencement last May. At that time he was awarded an Honorary Degree by Bucknell in recognition for his achievements in the field of religion. He was one of the youngest vice presidents of the Northern Baptist Convention. His pastorate is in the East. Dr. Cranford is also the author of two books.

While in Lewisburg, Dr. Cranford will speak at a Young People's Rally held in the Baptist Church under the direction of the Lewisburg Federation of Churches. Dr. Cranford will also speak at the Freshman Supper Club on Thursday evening.

Merle Evans, for 24 years circus band director for Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey, has been chosen leader of the Hardin Simmons University cowboy band.

Emeritus Professor Will Visit Campus From Nov. 18-22

Edwin Mims Of Association American Colleges Gives Lectures, Hold Seminars

Among the distinguished scholars in this country are those who have earned the title "Emeritus Professor." Many of these men have lived full, rich lives in the interests of liberal culture and are well known for the work they have done.

Their release from the pressing demands of college teaching offers an opportunity for more extensive work among college students, under a plan for extended visits.

Dr. Edwin Mims, who has been selected by the Association of American Colleges to carry out this organization's first experiment in visits by Emeritus Professors, will be on the Bucknell campus from Wednesday evening, November 18 until Sunday, November 22.

Dr. Mims will make his first appearance on the campus on Thursday morning, November 19, where he will be the principal speaker in the weekly chapel program.

For the remainder of that day and throughout Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Dr. Mims will be available for class room visits, informal talks, group discussions, and for attendance at certain organization meetings, such as the Student Church on Sunday, November 22.

Has Rich Cultural Background
Dr. Edwin Mims has a rich cultural background, a thorough knowledge of our American civilization, and a mature and penetrating mind. A graduate of Vanderbilt University, with a most timely, rhythmic, balance of form and color functioning as a unit.

Dr. Mims began his career as a teacher, writer, and editor in 1904 when he became Professor of English at Trinity College in North Carolina. He went next to the University of North Carolina as Professor of English (1909-1912) and then returned to his alma mater as Head of the English Department, a position which he held until his retirement this year.

Dr. Mims visit may be centered around one or more of the following subjects: "American Cultural and Civilization," "The South: Past and Present," "Culture and Religion," "The Contemporary Value of English Literature," or "The Humanities in Education." He will outline the theme in a formal lecture to be presented early in the visit.

He is a very interesting and talented speaker and will probably be in great demand by many campus groups when he arrives here. The program for his activities is being arranged by Dr. Shimer, dean of the faculty.

CRANFORD TO SPEAK AT NOV. 5 CHAPEL

Dr. Clarence D. Cranford, Pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Washington, D. C., will be the speaker for Chapel next Thursday, November 5. Wickey Believes All Who Do Things Well Are True Artists; To Be B. U. Resident Artist

By Nancy E. Patterson

Mr. Wickey arrived on campus October 20 after a month's stay at his home in Ohio. He has his studio at Cornell-on-Hudson in New York. The artist taught privately for ten years and four years at the Art Students' League in New York City. He held the Guggenheim Fellowship for two years as a sculptor. He has also studied in Detroit, Chicago, and in New York under Robert Henri and George Bellows.

Speaking as a sculptor, Mr. Wickey says, "Market Street in Lewisburg is a piece of sculpture. Each side of the streets presents a base-relief of buildings that is most beautiful. I have a profound respect for the artist responsible for the original design and also for the present day artists who are tenants of these masterpieces and are preserving their beauty so that all of us may share it."

Mr. Wickey believes that people in general will lose their apologetic and inferior feeling about their lack of knowledge of what is generally termed art when they finally realize that if a thing is well done the product is a work of art.

For six months this year and six months next year Mr. Wickey will continue his work here in lithography, ceramics, and sculpture, so it will be possible for students and anyone interested to watch him at work and to question him. He has brought with him over 250 original works of art and will arrange a series of exhibitions of his own works, the works of top-ranking contemporary artists, and prints of old masters.

"Plans will be worked out very soon," says Mr. Wickey, "as to the most efficient way in which I can cooperate with the student body and an announcement will be made at that time. I am very happy to be in your midst and I would like to take this opportunity for saying 'Hello'."

FIRST ROUND OF I-M DEBATE BEGINS NOV. 13

Topic Is "Resolved That United Nations Establish Federal Union After War"

The first round of the Intramural Debate Tournament for the possession of the L. Frances Lybarger Jr. Cup will be held on Friday the 13th of November.

The topic for debate will be "Resolved That the United Nations should establish a permanent Federal Union with the power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes, and to enforce such settlements, and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the Union." This is the same topic being used by the Varist in an attempt to find new talent for the squad.

President when anything unusual or important occurs. Professor Gold will serve as adviser of the club.

Forty University of Pittsburgh students from Johnstown, Pa., are expected to arrive on Monday evening, October 26, and formed a club. Robert Paxson was chosen president, and Arno King, secretary. Due to the southern conditions, the previously made plans to study the noon were abandoned.

Meetings will be called by the club. Meetings when anything unusual or important occurs. Professor Gold will serve as adviser of the club.

Only 184 student and faculty cars have been registered at the University from 2-5 o'clock this year as against 255 last year.

WORDS FROM B. U. MEN IN THE SERVICE

Each week the Service Council of the Christian Association sends a copy of the Bucknellian to the 500 soldiers, sailors and marines from Bucknell. During Summer School, the Summer Session News and a complete list of the names and addresses of all Bucknellians in the armed forces were forwarded to each one. At various times boxes of cookies and candy are sent to them.

Numerous expressions of gratitude have been heard by the Service Council from these Bucknellians from letters sent them from the service men. Printed below are two of the letters recently received by the Christian Association office.

I just received my copy of "The Bucknellian" and I wish to thank the Service Council for its great work in keeping Service men in touch with their Alma Mater. It does one good to hear the campus news.

I received my appointment as a Midshipman about a week and a half ago. At the present time I am "up to my neck" in studies. At this point I may pass a word on to those fellows enlisted in V-7—it's a great life, fellows, but awfully tough! Regardless, however, you'll never regret your decision to enter the Naval Reserve through V-7. If any of the fellows at school wish to write and ask questions about the course, I'd be more than glad to help them out if I can.

Torch and Scroll Sets Fine Example

In having decided to cancel the annual Homecoming Parade this year, we believe that Torch and Scroll has set an example of "war-consciousness" and real patriotic spirit which may prove to be just the thing that Bucknell men and women have needed to rouse them out of the lethargic attitude which they have held up to the present concerning the nation's war effort.

Here, at last, has come an organization with enough foresight and strength of conviction to render a decision which, though it might considerably reduce the pageantry and enjoyment of the Homecoming celebration this weekend, nevertheless portrays an expression of desire to do something in a positive way for the war effort.

Certainly the amount of gas and rubber and expense and the amount of time which will be conserved by the cancellation of the parade is not going to make a really appreciable difference as to whether we are going to win or lose this war. The amount saved is going to be negligible in light of the whole war effort, but what makes this decision so important is the fact that it represents a new and healthy attitude on the part of the student body toward the real seriousness of the war.

For the first time since the outbreak of the war Bucknell men and women have been called upon to sacrifice one phase of the pleasures which they had become accustomed to in years gone by. We know that this tradition-breaking decision will be accepted in the proper spirit by all Bucknellians, however, we fervently hope that this will not merely be an isolated example of the fact that we are conscious of our position in the war, but rather shall prove to be the initial impetus for the placing of our minds in a unanimity of belief that, as President Marts recently stated, "Victory must not be a secondary love."

All Organizations Voluntarily 'Cut' Budgets

The figures presented in this year's annual budget which was adopted by the Student-Faculty Congress reveal a fine cooperative attitude on the part of every Bucknell organization on campus.

There was not a single group on campus whose annual allotment was not sliced heavily, and yet this year's budget was passed and accepted by everyone of these groups with less complaint and less "griping" than at any time in past years.

What this means is that Bucknell men and women are finally waking up to the realization that they have a definite part to play in our nation's war effort, and by "cutting down" on such things as long trips, elaborate publications, expensive equipment, etc., they are showing their willingness to do their part in their own small way.

We realize that because of this reduction in the budgets of many of the leading campus groups, Bucknell students will be forsaking some of the pleasures and high class entertainment which they had been used to in past years. But it is a wholesome attitude which they are taking toward this perilous situation which our country finds itself in at the present time, and we know that as a result of these "sacrifices" everyone of us will feel in our hearts that we are finally arriving at a truer conception of what a real American should be today.

Bucknell Enhances "Good Neighbor Policy"

In more than one respect the Inter-American Conference held on the campus last week may safely be termed a great success.

It is very unlikely that out of this weekend conference there will arise any panacea for the misunderstandings which may exist between the United States and her Latin-American neighbors. Though many interesting points may have been drawn from the numerous conferences which were attended by student representatives from every nation in the Western Hemisphere, it seems to us that the real value derived from a conference of this sort comes from a more intangible source.

The real value attained from the past weekend's activities comes in the form of the greater understanding and fellowship which was created through the informal contacts which the Bucknell students and their guests were able to enjoy with each other for three days.

We know that as a result of the exchange of ideas and opinions expressed in fraternity and dormitory "bull sessions" with our Latin-American visitors of the past weekend there are many

A WAR MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT MARTS TO ALL BUCKNELL STUDENTS

(Ed. Note: Here is a message from President Marts to every Bucknell man and woman. It is a keen, sincere analysis of the duty which we as college students must fulfill in one of the greatest moments history has ever known. It should be read by every student who desires to know the role which he must play in our nation's tremendous all-out war effort.)

It is my ambition for Bucknell that when the history of these eventful days shall be written, it shall be said of Bucknell, "That college was a powerhouse of spirit during the war."

In his magnificent address before the British Parliament last week, General Smuts called this war "a war of the spirit." There must be a spirit in all our people—not just in the men in uniform, for they cannot maintain such a spirit indefinitely if there is not a spirit to match it back home.

Recently a young air officer on furlough from service in the Pacific was asked to speak at a luncheon club in the States. Before he was introduced the members of the club spent considerable time in the discussion of their annual picnic. When he arose, he said, "I want you to know there is no picnic where I have been. I'm ashamed of myself for being here. I wish to heaven I were out there with my outfit!"

I am hopeful that Bucknell students will develop a spirit this year in harmony with the spirit of the war; that our mood will be one of fellowship with the 565 Bucknellians in service, matching them in our faithfulness toward our work and in our patriotic devotion.

We show this spirit best in rather prosaic ways. We can comply eagerly and enthusiastically, for instance, with the restrictions which are imposed on us as to sugar, gasoline, rubber, unnecessary travel, luxurious spending and so on. Nearly any "smart" person can evade these new rules, if he prefers to be selfish. But that is the trouble with America today. That is exactly why our great nation is still acting like a weakling in this war; Bucknellians can join the "war of the spirit" by obeying these new war rules wholeheartedly.

For another practical instance, we can join in this "war of the spirit" on the Bucknell campus by keeping our social affairs simple and inexpensive, both as to money and time. I am hoping that this year Bucknell students will take pride in the amount of genuine enjoyment they can get from simple social affairs, rather than endeavoring to sponsor showy affairs "as usual." The money saved should go into war bonds; the travel saved may provide extra gas and rubber for boys "out there"; and the time saved can be well spent on our books. Bucknell has the opportunity to set a new war-time standard for American colleges in this regard.

There are many other practical illustrations of the war-time spirit which might be mentioned. Perhaps I should refer to one more. Some of our men students may develop a mood of "we'll soon be in the Army, so let's have a good time now." This is similar to the expression of thought: "Let us eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die!" That is a fallacious mood which is not true as to its premise, and which is false also in its conclusion. We are not going to die! We are going to take part in the most thrilling game of our whole lives, and we are going to win that game. Then we are going to rebuild a new world. And that latter job will require keen minds, tough wills, and great spirits. We can't prepare ourselves for such great living by the selfish, reckless mood of "let's have fun now!"

This is a time for greatness. This is a war of the spirit. May the spirit on the Bucknell campus this year rise to greatness. May it match the hour in which our beloved Republic fights a desperate war for its very life; risks its existence in the defense of freedom for all mankind.

It is my hope that every visitor to our campus this year will feel the presence of such a spirit, will say "Bucknell is a powerhouse in the war of the spirit!"

I am sure I can count on each of you to do your part; you can count on me to do my part to this end.

Bucknell men and women today who have an entirely changed conception and outlook on some of the misunderstandings which may have previously been in their minds concerning our southern neighbors.

The many organizations who had a hand in staging this conference may feel certain that their work has not been in vain, for we believe that they have done much to further our vital "good-neighbor policy" and at the same time further the possibilities of our living in a world which will be far better than the one which led us into this present bloody conflict.

ANCHORS AWEIGH

Last Tuesday gave everyone a chance to pay tribute to the men that "go to sea in ships." For Tuesday was Navy Day. Navy Day this year is one stripped of its usual trappings and fanfares, for the navy has a bigger job to do than parade in its traditional style—a job bigger than any it has undertaken so far.

From the time of John Paul Jones and Deatur, the navy has had an enviable record. From that time on, this same navy has grown from one consisting of a few gunboats and frigates to a navy that travels not only on the surface of the water but above and below it as well.

Since the Washington Conference, with, by the way, Japan and Great Britain, our navy has expanded in official style. Faced for the first time by the problem of a two, or more, ocean war, they rose to the occasion and the Battle of Midway and the Coral Sea plainly show the results.

American youth have always been interested in the navy, interested to the extent that naval drafting has not been enforced. Bucknellians are no exception to this statement. Alumni and underclassmen alike have served in this war in both Navy and Coast Guard. Literally hundreds more are and will enlist in the reserve. These men are to be admired for they prove that the Bucknell Way Of Life and true American tradition go hand in hand.

So to these men of the Navy, from Bucknell and elsewhere we tip our hats and extend a hearty slap on the back for their splendid showing.

COLLECTOR

VINCENT J. SCHAEFER, of the G-E Research Laboratory, used to collect snowflakes, and because of his holly metallurgists now have a simple method of observing details of metal structures far too fine to be seen with an ordinary microscope.

The young scientist's method of "casting" snowflakes in a film of Formvar has solved the problem of how to get a metal specimen thin enough to be examined in the electron microscope. (This device uses electrons instead of light to form the magnified images, and the electrons must pass through the specimen.)

A thin film of resin, stripped from the specimen and retaining all the details of the metal surface, can be placed in the microscope and be magnified as much as 100,000 diameters. Thus metallurgists can learn more about the structure of metals vital to the war effort.

But Joe does a good job of teaching you how not to strike the arc and how not to control the metal in the molten pool. His hunches, plus close-ups of the arc in action, make this full-color film "one of the most helpful training aids ever made available to the welding industry."

The movie is in six parts. Each part (16 mm.) is complete in itself—a 10-minute sound production covering one particular phase of arc welding in full detail.

Organized groups may borrow the films with no charge other than transportation costs; schools and industry may buy single reels at cost—$25 each—for use in training welders. Write Campus News, General Electric, Schenectady, N. Y.

Herd Opposes Lafayette In Annual Homecoming Battle

By Sy Berger

Four Quarters In A Game

According to the Football Rule Book, a regulation football game consists of four fifteen minute quarters not including time out. It seems that Al Humphrey's Bison weren't schooled in a system where four quarters make up a half game, but seem to think that a grid battle consists merely of but two scanzas. This is rather evident by their play against Penn State, Rutgers and Boston University. The Herd would start stampeding the minute the opening whistle blew and kept charging for thirty minutes dominating the pigskin fracas. Then, when the second half rolled around, the big Bisons appeared to be nothing more than pet lambs to their foes.

Against Penn State, the Humphrey tutored gridmen rushed out and bunched up a 7-0 lead in the opening frame and protected it quite precisely until the dying minutes of the half. They looked like overbearing brutes stealing the limelight from the Nittany Lions. But, that second half had to come, and the Herd just wasn't the same outfit that left the field a few minutes before. When the gun sounded, State had another touchdown to give them a victory, and the Bisons had experienced a miserable second-half mauling.

The Rutgers story is quite similar, only this time the Herd didn't give the Scarlet clad Jerseys a chance to smell the pigskin in the first two cantos. When the half ended the scoreboard read Bucknell 7, Rutgers 0. All seemed wonderful. Victory was in the air. But, up came the second half, and the same stereotyped tale. Rutgers started mauling, Bucknell started succumbing, and the Bisons came out on the short end, 5-7. Last week before a handful of Beantown folks, the Bisons lunched the first half drive until the opening minutes of the third quarter and ran up 13 tallies, which was enough to give them their second win of the current season. But after Matthews scored the second touchdown, the Herd got moody again, crawled into its shell and watched the untalented Terriers whip through them for a score and keep them in hot water throughout the remaining two cantos.

Its pathetic to think of the outcome of this Saturday's tussle with Lafayette if Al Humphrey's charges can't find that much-needed second half drive. Bucknell's Leopards are in a class far above Boston University and are well equipped with talent to make the Homecoming battle an embarrassing failure. Then again, Mylin's teams are outdistanced for their great second half drive, and will certainly have it this Saturday, as Mr. Mylin will have a wonderful feature in his cap if his Eastern outfit ships the Bisons. After all, there's nothing finer to a coach to come back to the stadium which was his own stamping grounds and whip his pupils off the teams he once had his allegiance with. Lafayette has shown plenty of second half punch, coming from behind against Cornell and running up 16 markers only to be tossed out 20-16. Even last week against Virginia, the Leopards showed that same drive. Virginia led at halftime 6-0, but the Mylinians came back roaring and punched out 13 points to gain a lead, which was soon deadlocked. But, the Lafayette lads forgot the word "tie" and drove across another touchdown to win 19-13. They were still selling when the gun went off, too, holding the ball on Virginia's 34 yard line.

We know that the Herd can thunder in the last half, because we've seen them do it. We've seen them trample all over Lebanon Valley only to fall to score in 38 minutes. But, with a humiliating tie staring them in the face, the Bisons drive and drive hard in chalk up a victory. We saw Temple's mighty Owls punch them all over the Temple stadium terrain. We saw them lead a charging Temple offense to 7 points despite overwhelming odds. And we saw a comparatively small Bucknell team fight back brilliantly to check a last minute drive that netted them seven big points and a supposedly impossible deadlock. We know that the Bisons can drive in the last half. We've seen them do it, even under overwhelming odds. They can do it, and they must do it, for football games are won on four quarters of play, not two-thirds, and Bucknell wants victory for we know that our boys can give it to us.

Intramurals Climbed High

Recently, John Plant, Director of Physical Education, issued a report to President Marts, on intramural participation, which is a credit to the men of Bucknell and a definite credit to Mr. Plant, the grand old man of Bucknell athletics, and his aids, Mal Musser, Hank Peters and Joe Ben. who left the campus. Despite the changing program due to the world turmoil, Plant did not give an inch and continued its intensive intramural program and continued bettering the physical condition of its youths. Of the 769 males on the campus last year, 432 of them, about 56 percent took part in some sort of intramural sports.

The sport that attracted the greatest number was soccer in which 196 boys matched their abilities and stamina. The football season was the second most popular event with 175 Bucknell lads taking part, while competition in the track and field met drew 120 entries. Fourth in line was basketball with 117 participants and volleyball ranked fifth with 110 men. All but track and field were team sports which stressed group competition. In the individual competitions, wrestling had 60, cross-country 46, boxing 45, tennis 19, handball 13, shuffleboard 11, horseback 10, golf 9, and the septathlon 7.

Our hats are off to our fellow Bucknellians who made last year a banner year in intramural sports and a round of applause are in order to John Plant and his associates, who conducted the competition with unbiased judgement while instilling the great spirit of competitive sportsmanship in the men of Bucknell.

Farewell--John Bush--Farewell

Farewells are hard to say, especially when one who has earned the respect of all has left. But, there is no alternative, so in behalf of the Bucknell students, who have come to admire him for his traits as well as his unlimited journalistic talents, I bid farewell to Johnny Bush, and wish him the best of everything. John has just departed for New York, where he will start his training to become an ensign in the United States Navy. For two years, Bush's brilliant journalistic technique has been found in the press releases that have left the Bucknell Publicity Office, where he held the position of Sports Editor of the Bucknell News Service. He has contributed much to the pages of the "Bucknellian" and various campus publications. I personally would like to thank John for his suggestions, advice and the help he has given me in the better interests of the sports page--Bucknell's loss is Uncle Sam's gain.

EUGENE MATTHEWS

Pictured above is Gene Matthews, one of the Bison ends who will receive the call for a starting assignment against Lafayette this Saturday. Gene, a junior, saw a minimum of action in the '41 grid wars, but battled his way up the line to gain a starting berth on this season's eleven. His outstanding play has spotted him as the most improved gridder on the squad. Against Boston U., he tallied the Herd's winning score and undermined numerous Terrier threats.

Booters Face Owls Gridsters Resume Tomorrow At 3:30 Lafayette Series

Soccermen Gain First Win Of Season 2-0 Against Elizabethtown Foes

Bucknell's annual Homecoming tilt program will get under way tomorrow afternoon when the Bison booters kick kicks with Temple's soccermen on the varsity field near Davis Gym at 3:30 p. m. The Lewisburg crew will be striving to avenge the defeat handed to them by the Owls last year as well as gain their second victory of the season. Temple has engaged in three contests thus far and sports a record of two wins against one loss.

Bison Record Poor The Elizabethtown dropped two contests to date, both of them to outstanding aggregations. They fell before Penn State 3-1 and Army 2-0. The booters played a 0-0 tie with Western Maryland and gained their only win at the expense of Elizabethtown 2-0. If comparative scores mean anything, the Bisons are really in for trouble, as Temple whipped Western Maryland 4-0 recently and the best the Bucknell lads could do was gain a draw with the Green Terriers. So far (Continued on Page 7.)

Mylin, Former Mentor Of B. U. Pigskin Disciples, Now Cries "Beat Bucknell"

On Saturday afternoon, when Lafayette's disciples of the gridiron take the Memorial Stadium field, there will be one prevalent thought in the mind of the Leopards' coach, and that will be "Beat Bucknell". It wasn't but six years ago, when the brilliant gridiron mind of Hooks Mylin was being strained to the nth degree figuring out ways to keep Bucknell from being beaten. But now, the situation is reversed completely and with his allegiance resting with the Eastern institute, Mylin's ingenious brand of football will be the Bison's main problem of the day.

The Lafayette mentor is no newcomer to the Lewisburg campus, having been at the helm of the Bucknell football crews during the 1934, 1935, and 1936 seasons. His record here is one that will always stand out in the history of the "Bucknellian" and various campus publications. I personally would like to thank John for his suggestions, advice and the help he has given me in the better interests of the sports page--Bucknell's loss is Uncle Sam's gain.

Bucknell's Thundering Herd will make their second home appearance this Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p. m., when they play host to their eastern Pennsylvania rivals, Lafayette, in their annual Homecoming encounter at the Memorial Stadium turf. The Bisons will be seeking their fifth victory in the fifty-nine year old series as well as their third win of the year. Lafayette will also be in quest of their third win of the year. The battle marks the twenty-first meeting of the two institutions on the striped turf and the fourth time that the Leopards are playing the opponent role in Bucknell Homecoming tilt.

Bucknell Gridders Topple Boston U. In 'Beantown' 9-7

Johnson And Matthews Shine As Humphreys Rein In Old Spirit and Power

By Jack Denholtz

The Bucknell Bisons once more looked like the great team that they are promised to be as they beat back a stubborn Boston U. team 9-7 at Nickerson Field in Boston last Saturday. The Bisons dominated the play of the game and the returned spirit and added power that they finally regained spelled disaster for the Terriers.

The Bisons spelled the opening kickoff and after an exchange of punts opened up their long drive with power and got within the Terrier five yard line four times, before pushing the ball over. Johnson and Matthews started the ball rolling and advanced the pigskin to the 32. Seizegas then travelled to the 15 before he was halted. Johnson made four through the middle and Maganza swept right and first down. After a five-yard penalty for having backfield in motion, Paar threw a pass which was intercepted. The Terriers then kicked out to their own 30. Twice more the Bisons got within the five-yard line and twice they were halted, but the fourth time Paar's beautiful running and Johnson's line bucking proved too much for the Beantowners and the score finally came on the back by Johnson who then kicked the extra point.

Both Teams Possess Veterans From a technical view, the meeting of the two outfits should present a very interesting sight. Coach Humphrey's charges opened with a T formation with the man in motion leading a great deal to the attack's deception, as well as the single wingback, whereas Hooks Mylin has advanced a modified Warner system to his gridsters. In addition, the battle will be a tangle of veterans. The Leopards will answer the opening kickoff with an eleven made up of seven lettermen, but they fail to outdo the Leopards who's starting outfit sports nine veterans.

Al Humphrey, the Bison mentor, will probably have his squad at full strength for the contest and will start the same team that opened the other Herd games. The end assignments will go to Len Miller and Gene Matthews with Tom Rodgers and Walt Scot filling the tackle stations. Captain Bill Anderson and Dent Brown are slated to start at the guard slots and Bob Merrill will hold down the (Continued on page 7.)

Phi Psi Cindermen Capture I-M Track and Field Crown

Winners Tally 44 Points As SAE's Place Second Scoring 33 Markers

Phi Kappa Psi's trackmen blazed a glorious path to annex the 1942 Intramural Track and Field Championship last Friday in Memorial Stadium. The newly crowned champs marked up 44 points, garnering 11 more tallies than their closest rivals, Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Kappa Sigma placed third in the meet with 23 points, followed closely by Lambda Chi Alpha who chalked up 19 tallies.

The Hittoppers entered a well-balanced crew in the final runnings, taking three firsts, seven seconds and three thirds. Individual honors for first place in the events rested with the SAE's whose lads broke the tape in the lead on five occasions. The Hittoppers entered a well-balanced crew in the final runnings, taking three firsts, seven seconds and three thirds. Individual honors for first place in the events rested with the SAE's whose lads broke the tape in the lead on five occasions.

Victory in eight of the 14 events in the meet were divided among four trackmen, each annexing two individual championships. Bud Northrup, SAE, took soul possession of the hurdling crowns, taking first place in both the 120-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard low hurdles. Honors in the 100-yard dash and the running broad jump were wrested by SAE's Bud Bullock. Frank Burns, PKP, and Roger Whitford, KS, walked off with four of the six field events between them. Burns took both the high jump and javelin laurels, while Whitford excelled in the discus throw and the pole vault.

The other cinder crowns went to Paul Leuchuk, SAE, in the mile run; Kenny Finger, SAE, in the two mile run; Dick White, KS, in the 800; Jesse Syme, SCC, in the 440 and Jake Baker, PKP, in the 220. Charley Meiseneyer, PKP, took the only field event, the shotput.

piant Herd. The backfield fourmen will have Chet Pold at the signal-calling post, Al Maganza and Felix Siega at the wingback and tailback positions, respectively, and Red Johnson at fullback. It is expected that Johnny Paar and Tay Tyler will see quite a bit of reserve action in the backfield.

Lafayette Has Potent Attack Lafayette appears strong both on the ground and in the air. Their ground attack is sparked by their fullback, captain, Charley Nagle who plays as well as he passes and kicks, the latter two being his most highly publicized talents. Veterans Bill McKnight and Sam Alexander rate as top-notch runners as well as sophomores Hank Clemmick and Bob Smith. Nagle is on the hurling end of the Leopard aerial attack with McEright and ends Walter Sergy and John Syme handling the glue-fingered receiving. The Lafayette force will lay outweights the Bisons about ten pounds per man and appear to be fairly effective both offensively and defensively. Sergy and Syme will open at the flank; Joe Brando and Dick Mooradian at the tackle posts; Bill Kdoose and Ramsey Hackett at the guard berths, and Horace Saylor at center. Saylor is the only starter in the front row who is not a letterman, but nevertheless he has proven his talents in Lafayette's games thus far.

Coach of the Year in '37 Bucknell respected the efforts and ability of Hooks Mylin and offered him a renewal of his contract. Frank Pold's safety play and Temple 7-6. His final year at Bucknell was probably his worst as far as statistics were concerned as the Bisons won four, lost four and tied one.

The only outfit that holds an edge over the Herd in Homecoming battles is Washington and Jefferson who whipped the Bisons 27 and 20, but fell victim by a 10-0 tie in 1931, in the midst of Bucknell's great Homecoming winning streak of six games over such outfits as Penn State, Virginia, Temple and Lafayette. Despite State's great edge in the win and loss percentages, the Nittany Lions have failed to eke out a Homecoming win at Lewisburg in their two appearances, losing 19-7 in 1930 and just being nose-d into 2-0 in '35 by a decidedly underdog Bucknell team.

Temple's Owls have carved a "triple-T" record in their three Homecoming performances, losing 20-7 in side, Dick Conrad and Dath, a freshman ace.

Booters Gain First Win Scotty Whyte's penalty kick, which hooked into the corner of the net in the second quarter was margin enough for the Bucknell booters to whip Elizabethtown last Saturday, on our home grounds. But, in the third stanza, Ace Quillen headed the ball into the goal on a kick centered by Miles Foster to put the game on ice and give the Elizabethtown their first win of the season by the tune of 2-0.

It pays to advertise.

Bison Homecoming Tilt Record Shows 11 Victories, 3 Ties, 5 Defeats Since 1922 Opening

On any college campus, one of the outstanding events of the year is the annual Homecoming celebration. All the former disciples of dear old alma mater stream onto the campus from the "big game" and topped them twice 13-0 and 6-0. There were smiles in 1938 and 1941 when the Herd ran over George Washington 16-0 and crept to a 6-0 win over Boston University. Probably the most unusual Homecoming game that Bucknell has played was back in 1925 when the Haskell University Indians traveled east from Kansas to play a 0-0 tie with the Bisons.

It's hats off to the Bucknell gridsters, who played their toughest upsets on Homecoming day and still came out with an enviable record.

three other encounters ending in a standoff. But, with the coming of the new era of football, the picture took on the colors of Orange and Blue, for in the last three-fifths between the two teams in 1929, 1932 and 1933, Bucknell held the winning edge.

In 20 annual Homecoming tilts, Bucknell's gridsters have managed to bring smiles on 11 occasions, while they've only sent the fans home with long faces five times. There have been losses of indifference as a result of tie only four times. As for losing the rule of the Bison's first Homecoming loss in 1922, but the thankless Lewisburg boys bounced them around for a 14-0 win. However, Lehigh came back the following year to draw 7-7 with the Herd. Lafayette made its first appearance as a Homecoming opponent in 1924 by being awfully rude guests and downing Bucknell 21-3. In their next appearance in the same role, the game ended 0-0, and the Bisons evened the record by toppling the Leopards 14-0 in '32.

ALL FUTURE GRIDIRON FOES ACTIVE LAST WEEK

Case Sports Unblemished Record With Four Wins

While Coach Al Humphrey's Herd was busy outbasking Boston University's Terriers last week by a 13 to 7 tune, the Bison's future opponents, namely Gettysburg, Case and Franklin & Marshall were also quite taken up on the gridiron. Ben Bream's Gettysburg Bullets took up a few hours Saturday afternoon administering a 20-0 lacying to F. & M.'s Diplomats, and the Roughriders of Case protected their unblemished record with a win over John Carroll University out of Cleveland, Ohio.

The Gettysburg crew, who will be visitors on Saturday, November 7, really took the starch out of their Lancaster foe, who meet the Bison on Thanksgiving Day in the climax of the season. Ben Bream's boys unceremoniously tossed a passing attack which featured Jim Hardy on the pitching end and Tony Yovislin doing the receiving. This combination, which caused Bucknell's 1941 loss to Gettysburg, clicked for two touchdowns, scoring 75 yards. Joe Cervino, a sophomore also did some great punting for the Bullets. Franklin & Marshall's Bullets swamped Western Maryland 20-0, in their opener and hold the recent win over F. & M. Their two losses came at the hands of Muhlenberg's Moles 20-14 and Delaware's Mudhens, who have been undefeated in their last 18 starts, 13-0. After beating Fort Hamilton 39-0 in the initial tilt of the season, the Bisons have failed to chalk up another win succumbing to Albright and Gettysburg and tying Ursinus.

Case's Roughriders loom up as the big, dark cloud on the road. The Cleveland team has gone through their four games without a setback, downing an Iowa service team 6-0, trouncing Carnegie Tech and Wooster College 24-6 and 15-0, respectively, and recently whipping John Carroll.

This committee conducts hearings at which the organizations in September report their needs for the coming year. The committee then votes and arrives at the annual budget, and the budget is then taken to Student Faculty Congress where it is accepted, revised or rejected.

War Dept. Letter . . .

ing the Enlisted Reserve Corps program for college students.

At the very initiation of the Enlisted Reserve Corps program for college students, it was specifically pointed out that those enlisting would be subject to call to active duty at any time that the Secretary of War deemed the exigencies of the war to require it.

Students enlisting in the Reserve have not been called to active duty, notice merely has been given that the exigencies of the war have in the opinion of the Secretary of War become such that it is expected that early in 1943 those who are members of the Enlisted Reserve Corps, who have then reached the age at which other young men are being called by Selective Service, will all, or for the most part, be called to active duty.

College students who have enlisted have the satisfaction of having committed themselves to the armed service of their country, placing themselves on call for service when needed and for such further training as may best fit them to render maximum service. Until called they can and should proceed with their studies.

Yours very truly,
J. A. Ulio, Major General,
The Adjutant General.

Will Hold Dance Nov. 14

Sigma Alpha Kappa, the honorary kitchen fraternity, will hold its second annual Kitchen Brawl in Tustin Gymnasium on Saturday, Nov. 14, from 8:30 to 12 p. m. The entire school is invited.

Using the kitchen and its atmosphere as the theme, several committees already are working out an entertainment program, decorations, and the crowning of a kitchen queen. Music will be furnished by recordings. Complete plans for the dance were made at a special meeting of S. A. K. held yesterday in the Men's Dining Hall.

CANDIDATES TO TAKE
YEAR-ROUND COURSES

In an effort to utilize American colleges and universities more extensively as centers for training highly qualified young men as prospective specialists and officers in the armed forces, a plan has been proposed by the American Council on Education for the immediate consideration by the War and Navy Departments for the establishment of an Enlisted Training Corps on the campuses of almost every college in the United States.

This Enlisted Training Corps will be open to only enlisted men who are high school graduates and other males of equivalent education over 17 years of age, and who meet competitive standards up to quotas to be established by the respective armed forces. Selection of candidates for enlistment in the corps and for any retention for further training shall be made by the appropriate military authorities in cooperation with the institutions.

The Enlisted Training Corps will be established in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard.

Four Semester Course
Enlisted candidates shall pursue year-round curricula, extending four semesters or the equivalent in length.
Upon completion of this basic training, they may be assigned for further professional or specialized training on passing suitable tests. Also members of the armed forces may be transferred to Enlisted Training Corps on passing similar tests. (See editorial

Enlisted candidates shall receive pay and subsistence while attending colleges and universities as members of the Corps.

These men who are chosen for the Enlisted Training Corps will wear their regular army, naval, marine, or coast guard uniforms while attending these colleges and will be subject to all phases of military law, the same as would occur in any military camp.

In the last war a set-up somewhat similar to the proposed plan was adopted by the colleges and universities of America for the training of enlisted men. The one important difference between the present plan and that of the last war period is that under the present proposal, there would be no military drilling on the campus.

Z-634 VOLUME XLVI.

LEWISBURG, PA. THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1942.

NUMBER 7.

N.W.L.B. Appoints
Biscoe As Official

To Serve As Administrative Mediation Officer; Will Supervise Disputes

Dr. Alvin B. Biscoe, popular Economics professor of Bucknell, who was granted a leave of absence by the University at the beginning of this semester to take a position on the National War Labor Board in Washington, D. C., has recently been appointed to the position of Administrative Mediation Officer of this vital Board.

Dr. Biscoe was originally employed by the N. W. L. B. as Mediation Officer to travel throughout the nation to referee wage disputes that the labor unions and the companies could not settle by agreement. However, before the date of his arrival, this Board was in need of someone to perform these duties, and he received the appointment to this position.

Every labor-industry dispute is put in which wages are the main (or only) issue and which has not yet reached the strike stage but is in his office working with him one assistant, two stenographers and a typist. In addition, on the road he has ten full-time men and several hundred men who are working with him on a part-time basis of their own territory. He also has at his disposal a full coverage of the country by telephone and telegraph.

Mid-Year Graduation
To Be First In History
The first mid-year commencement in the history of Bucknell University will be held Saturday, January 20, 1943. The January Commencement held last Spring. But because Wayne Blessing, the president-elect of this class did not return to school another election was necessitated between these two persons.

William will serve as vice president of the class.
The Elections Committee of the Student Faculty Congress in holding this election announced that hereafter in the event of a tie for a class officer, the person with the highest scholastic average shall be deemed the winner.

FEDERAL UNION
There will be a meeting of all persons interested in the aspects of a World Federal Union following the war. The meeting will be held in the President's house at 7:30 on Wednesday evening.

FRESH MEN
All men who at any time this sesson have been required to wear signs by the Senior Tribunal are to wear these signs to the Gettysburg game this Saturday. All other fresh men must wear signs 2x3 1/2 with the words "Best Gettysburg" on them.

Living Qualities of Anne Brown's Singing Stir Bucknell Audience

in a different light. Thus Miss Brown's mother who instilled in her the love for truly fine music, has been her greatest teacher.

Stepping directly from her graduating class of the Institute of Musical Art at the Juillard School in New York to a position behind the footlights in the leading role in Gersh-win's "Porgy and Bess" has been the most outstanding and thrilling happening in Miss Brown's career to date.
Writing a note asking for an audition and hoping only to obtain a minor part, Miss Brown, after singing for Mr. Gershwin, was chosen for the leading role.

Hopes to Return to Operas
Miss Brown began her current concert season in October by appearing with the Toronto Symphony. She hopes to return to operas eventually, but at the moment, however, is concentrating on concert activity. In one respect, Miss Brown prefers the concert stage as she believes it to be representative of a finer art.

With the last haunting strains of her songs and making others live with her, Anne Brown displayed the inborn feeling, love, and interpretation of music with which only Negroes

The Thanksgiving Weekend

Bucknell men and women who had intended to take themselves an extended Thanksgiving vacation and thereby "cut" two or three days classes had best make up their minds immediately not to follow through with these plans, for if they do they are faced with very serious penalties from the University's administrative offices.

It actually seems a shame that in these critical days, when every minute that goes by means so much in our nation's war effort, that something in the form of a threat has to be presented to a body of supposedly mature college students in order to have them remain at their studies and not take for themselves a three day vacation at the expense of these studies.

It is a well-known fact on the campus that in past years when a vacation period rolled around the great majority of students here would think nothing of "cutting" classes a day or two every semester. The administration up until now had never deemed it necessary to impose any penalties on a student for "cutting" a class. The idea about the "cut system" up here seemed to be that a student was expected to have enough common sense to know not to "cut" any class in normal conditions, in days of peace, when every man and woman's time and work was not one fraction as vitally important as it is today.

Herd Set For Final Memorial Stadium Battle Of '42 Season Against Gettysburg Saturday

After finally gaining an advantage in the win column with regard to their season's record, Al Humphreys' Thundering Herd will play host to Gettysburg's Bullets this Saturday with an eye on hanging up their fourth victory token of the year in their final home game of the '42 gridiron wars. The opening kickoff will fall on the field at 2:00 p. m. on the Memorial Stadium terrain.

Bisons Probable Favorites
Judging from the superb showing the Bison made in baffling Lafayette 13-7 on their own stamping grounds, the Humphreysmen will probably enter the tussle favored to hand the Gettysburg eleven their third setback of the season. But, the Battlefields are not to be taken lightly as Bucknell fans well remember the 1941 defeat of Ron Brown's outfit, which shunned the theory of pre-game favorite's handling. Tono-vino's is the outstanding receiver on the Bullets squad and bears watching.
Against Franklin & Marshall he snarled two of Hardy's tosses in pay-dirt and last week, he was on the receiving end of a spectacular 60-yard pitch, which Hardy hurled from his own 40-yard stripe into the end zone.

The idea of the University ordering these invitations and distributing them to seniors free of all charges was adopted because for the duration of the war emergency the University will hold three formal commencement exercises each year and this plan will do away with the confusion and inefficiency of last-minute orders.

A contract for these engraved invitations has been made by the University for a three year period, and all those persons graduating within that time will each receive twelve of them.

Will Be Notified Immediately
These officers will give the Bucknell from the exact same examination, physical and mental, which is given to any civilian desiring to enter a reserve corps. The entire examination period will require almost a complete day's time, and students will be notified immediately as to whether or not they have passed the rigid examinations which are set up by these various branches of the reserve corps.

Those students who do pass the physical and mental examinations will be sworn into the military service of the United States on the same day that they pass these exams.

Complete information on the necessary qualifications and papers necessary for enlistment in all five of these reserve corps was supplied last week when officers representing each one of the five reserve corps addressed a large assembly of Bucknell men in the Literature building. Those students desiring further information on any phase of these programs may obtain this material from Dean Page's office.

Phi Kappa Psi Wins House Decoration Certificate

Phi Kappa Psi fraternity was awarded first prize for its best decorated home over the Homecoming weekend. Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity was voted the second best decorated house.

Announcement of the awards was made by George Jenkins, president of Torch and Scroll, at the Homecoming Dance last Saturday evening. The prize awarded to the Phi Kaps was a handsome engraved certificate.

Shaw's "Pygmalion"

Colorful Production Has 1910 Setting

With the entire cast and crew working to the tune of "fall steam ahead,"
"Pygmalion," Cap and Dagger's initial production of the season, starting
Jinx Greening, '43, and Bob Schermann,
'43, is already well under way, and by the time the curtain goes up on the nights of November 20 and 21, Bucknellians should have before them one of the most colorful dramatic presentations offered on this campus in recent years.

While the Hollywood filming of
"Pygmalion" featured modern settings and costumes, the Bucknell production will follow the time and era
as created by its author, George Bernard Shaw. Thus past the age of lustrous, but nevertheless, still a la-coursed, starched petticoats, and fantastic, high-crowned millinery, the play will strictly conform to its original 1910 setting. Costuming is being done on an elaborate scale, and

Jinx Greening's ball dress, which in the final scene completes the transformation of Eliza, the Cockney guttersnipe, into a grand duchess, will no doubt be the most distinctive costume of all.

Property, scenery, and special effect committees are rapidly putting things in progress. The first set will be a street scene, the second in the drawing room, the third in the playhouse, and the fourth in the drawing room.

Mrs. Cornelia, who is designing the sets for the production, announced that Lewisburg parlors themselves will be a source for much of the furniture to be used in the play and mentioned that it would be impossible to find more appropriate furnishings anywhere than those which will literally step from the drawing rooms
of Market Street to a position behind
the Bucknell footlights.

Each student graduating from Bucknell will receive at no cost whatsoever, twelve handsome engraved invitations to enlist in the Reserve Corps of the Army, Navy or Marines.

The exact date of the arrival of this joint examining board is not as yet known, because before arriving here they will visit a number of other colleges and if enlistments are particularly heavy at any one of these other schools there is a possibility of their being detained. But they will definitely be here sometime this coming week, and announcements of the exact date of their arrival will be sent out from Dean Page's office as soon as the date is known.

The examining board will consist of medical and general examining officers of each one of the five branches of the military services which offer reserve statuses to college men. The five branches are the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps, the Army Air Corps, the V-7 class of the Navy (Ensigns), Navy Air Corps and Marine Corps.

Shaw's "Pygmalion"

Colorful Production Has 1910 Setting

With the entire cast and crew working to the tune of "fall steam ahead,"
"Pygmalion," Cap and Dagger's initial production of the season, starting
Jinx Greening, '43, and Bob Schermann,
'43, is already well under way, and by the time the curtain goes up on the nights of November 20 and 21, Bucknellians should have before them one of the most colorful dramatic presentations offered on this campus in recent years.

While the Hollywood filming of
"Pygmalion" featured modern settings and costumes, the Bucknell production will follow the time and era
as created by its author, George Bernard Shaw. Thus past the age of lustrous, but nevertheless, still a la-coursed, starched petticoats, and fantastic, high-crowned millinery, the
play will strictly conform to its original 1910 setting. Costuming is being done on an elaborate scale, and

Jinx Greening's ball dress, which in the final scene completes the transformation of Eliza, the Cockney guttersnipe, into a grand duchess, will no doubt be the most distinctive costume of all.

Property, scenery, and special effect committees are rapidly putting
be a street scene, the second in the drawing room, the third in the playhouse, and the fourth in the drawing room.

Mrs. Cornelia, who is designing
the sets for the production, announced
that Lewisburg parlors themselves
will be a source for much of the furniture to be used in the play and mentioned that it would be impossible to find more appropriate furnishings
anywhere than those which will literally step from the drawing rooms
of Market Street to a position behind
the Bucknell footlights.

The Government Plans to Utilize Its Educated Youth

A proposal of tremendous and far-reaching importance which may affect the future of practically every college man in the nation has been made by the American Council on Education for immediate consideration by the War Department and Navy Department.

The proposed plan calls for the establishment of an Enlisted Training Corps.

Here, in brief, is the set-up of the plan: First of all, as we see it, the proposal presupposes the fact that by the end of this school year the greatest percentage of men in college now will have been called out of college into the armed forces and there is excellent reason to believe this to be true. Under this situation there will exist large vacancies in University class rooms, laboratories, and dormitories, with a subsequent large loss in the utilization of specialized instruction and facilities which would be available.

In order to fully utilize the great resources of plant, personnel and equipment which the American institutions of higher education have to offer, this proposal would provide for the placing of qualified enlisted men in the then-existing vacancies of our universities and colleges.

The Corps will be open to all male graduates of high school and other males of equivalent education over 17 years of age. A large percentage of this Enlisted Training Corps will be comprised of men who will have just graduated from high school and who will have passed examinations prescribed by a Joint Army-Navy-Civilian National Board.

But, and here is the angle of the proposal which makes it so vital to the future of most college men—it is stated in the proposal that, "Also members of the armed forces may be transferred to Enlisted Training Corps on passing similar tests."

This means that men who will be drafted from college before the completion of their college work, in the army, navy, marine corps or coast guard, and then, after they have been in the service for a certain length of time, they will be permitted to take these qualifying exams for the E. T. C. and, upon passing them, they will be sent to some college or university for specialized training in whatever line the military believes them to be best suited.

For most college men who are to be called out of school the passage of this proposal will mean an opportunity for them to return for another four semesters of college training. However, this must not be looked upon by college youths as a "loophole" for them, for they shall not be coming back to work for the degree which they failed to get, and they shall actually be uniformed members of the armed forces subject to military laws and procedures. The sole advantage which this plan holds for them is the opportunity which they will be given to utilize whatever intelligence and education they may possess along specialized lines of training which the military will dictate.

Aside from the benefits to be derived by the military authorities of the nation and by the educated young men of the country from the establishment of this Enlisted Training Corps, there is also a great psychological advantage which the university itself will attain from this plan. We believe that by being able to see these uniformed young men on the college campuses throughout the country, it will tend to make those men who will still be left in college feel that the war is much closer to them than what they had believed it to be and thereby spur them on to more intensified and more serious concentration on their vital studies.

According to present reports this proposal for an Enlisted Training Corps will go into effect sometime around the first of the year. We certainly hope that this far-reaching proposal is not ruined or delayed by customary Washington "red-tape," for we believe its passage not only to be in the best interests of the nation, but also a brilliant solution as to how to make the most of the educated young men which we have in our country.

3 Fraternities Hold Dances Saturday

Kappa Sigs, Demies And S. A. E.'s Will Launch Greek Social Year

Three fraternities will begin the Greeks' social year with pledge dances this weekend. The two extremes will be hit with one dance being "back to the farm" style and the other semi-formal.

Kappa Sigma will give its annual Farmers' Frolic for its pledges Saturday night. The house will be decorated with cornstalks and pumpkins in harvest style. Dressed very informally in jeans or slacks and plaid flannel shirts, strictly farm style, the Kappa Sigs and their dates will dance from eight till twelve to the music of Bill Shouder's orchestra. Chaperoning will be Mr. and Mrs. LeMon and their friend Mr. E. B. Mann.

The Demies will give their pledge dance also Saturday night, the first to be given in their new house. Donors, Pennsylvanians will play from nine till twelve for the semi-formal affair. Professor and Mrs. M. E. Mueser and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Streeter will chaperon.

The S. A. E.'s will dance to the music of Bruce Bell and his orchestra. Decorations for their semi-formal dance will be simple with plaiding as the theme. The chaperons will be Professor and Mrs. William Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm A. Clinger, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Shwalter.

Gundy House, Roberts Hall Residents Plan Hayride

Hayrides seem to be in order for this Friday night; the girls in Van Gundy House and the boys in Roberts Hall both plan to "get themselves a horse" and a haywagon and go out for an evening's fun.

The "Sadies" at Van Gundy will each take their "Lil Abners" to go out to Farmer Brown's to roast marshmallows and doggies. If it should rain, the party will take shelter in Van Gundy for dancing.

The Freshman boys in Roberts Hall chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer plan to take their dates to haywagon to roast marshmallows down at Red Rock and sing around the bonfire.

By the time you read this perhaps you may be able to prompt us on some of the points, but here's the way the picture looks now:

Most twentysix college students won't be called into military service until the end of this school year. This is particularly true of consistent students, especially those taking scientific and technical courses.

After this year, when intrads on college two-agers are likely to be relatively heavy, the question of who shall remain in school will be a stickler. The draft bill itself isn't likely to lay down strict stipulations on this matter—it will be left to administrative decision.

Broadly, administrative officials will base their decisions on two major considerations: the course a student is taking and his scholastic record.

England's policies are a key to what may happen to students here. Although there has been about a 25 percent drop in overall enrollment in Britain, scientific and technical departments of the colleges are crammed full of students. Obviously, the drop has occurred in liberal arts courses.

And obviously, these same courses will suffer in America. Officials in the Office of Education here believe that American arts colleges haven't done all they should to cope with that inevitable situation.

These officials feel that some educators are slow to recognize the inevitability of the drop-off in enrollment and, consequently, are slow to prepare for it.

First, say the officials, these educators should expand their curricula, and quickly, to include additional science courses, courses in physical education and the like. In short,

GIRL'S RUSHING WILL BEGIN NOVEMBER 30

The difference of this war-year at Bucknell from preceding years will again be felt when formal sorority rushing, deferred until late in the semester, begins on November 30.

The Sororities have cut down on the number of parties to be given, reduced their budgets, and, with Dean Dyer's permission, plan to make the Pan-Hellenic Tea, which opens Rushing Week, less formal.

There will be an Invitation Tea on December 1, a party on December 2, and the Preferential Tea on December 3.

These officials feel that some educators are slow to recognize the inevitability of the drop-off in enrollment and, consequently, are slow to prepare for it.

SOCIETY NEWS

By Connie Campbell

Homecoming weekend brought many alumni back to the campus. Several societies greeted their old friends and cozies in their suites after the game on Saturday.

Alpha Chi Omega for one gave a tea for their alumnae. The alumnae that returned were Dottie Derr, '41, Kitty Bastian, '40, Mary Gebhardt, '41, Lee Reigner, '42, Carol Laurin, '43, Sally Bayles, '43, June Ireland, '44, Jean Pearce, '42, Nancy Burnham, '43, and Cort Roser, '42.

Viewing the line of cars at Memorial Stadium last Saturday, you would surmise that the only things returned were 50-yard line seats. The Bisons came through to thrill the returning alumni with a win over their "purple" opponents. The fraternities were "all-out" on house decorations. Coupling their fleet money with the decoration costs, they turned out some spectacular work. The Sigma Chi's deserve more credit than they were given, and while on the subject, so does their bespeckled Sig, the "Leopard."

Probably at no other time was there so many uniforms coloring the campus as last week. Ensigns, lieutenants, air-cadets, and privates returned to the scene of their pre-war activities.

Then, to climax the already perfect weekend, the dance was perhaps the best Homecoming dance on record. Jack Kenney really wowed the dancers on an unexpected scale. Coming from the ranks of the unknown (to Bucknellians, at least), Kenney proved to have an outfit that fitted into the college swing of things. Sweet swing, mixed with a bit of novelty, suited the tastes of all. Kenney's jokes, however, were on par with this writer's. All this and blue skies too.

So you oracles of pessimism, it seems that you had better prepare for "I told you so's," and justified criticism. And next year, it will be bigger, and better.

BREATHES EASY OR EASIER? Quite a few of the boys' round here are taking deeper breaths and seeing things a little rosier after the appearance of the reserves last week. On a whole, they seem very encouraging.

Explaining a lot of interesting side-lights of the various programs, they gave the students a new outlook on them. With an urgent plea from them, with a plea from the President's House.

Phi Mu treated their alumnae with cookies and hot chocolate after the game. At the boys were Henry Belmont, ex-'44, Ruth Howells, ex-'43, Gene Vollmer, ex-'44, Neil Dean, '42, Rachel Carringer, '41, Kay Ashman, '40, and Eleanor Tully Craig, '42. Hope Wolms, '41, entertained a friend from home.

Freshman came away for the weekend and Verna Boege and Helen Clair Belmont who spent the weekend at Lehigh and Betty Hadfield who went to Bard School in upper New York State.

Worship services will be held at 7:30 a. m. next Tuesday in the President's House.

"I TOLD YOU SO!" Homecoming will be a flop this year! Everyone will be in the army or won't have the gas to get back to school! Bisons Wallop Lafayette In Homecoming Thriller 13-7

Drexler Catches Podd's Pass For First Touchdown

Murray Bucks Over From 1 Foot Mark For Winning Score In Third Canto

By Jack W. Denholtz

Bucknell's Thundering Herd once again looked like the promising gridiron crew of early season play as they beat back a tough Lafayette team in Memorial Stadium last week to the tune of 13-7. Probably the most outstanding single player of the game was Chet Podd whose spectacular punting constantly kept the Leopards deep in their own territory.

The Humphreysmen, however, did not gain their stride until midway in the second quarter when they started a drive from their own 42 and in three plays chalked up a score. Podd faded back and threw a beautiful pass to Mickey McConnell who made what was probably the most spectacular catch made in the stadium in a long time, which was good for 39 yards. Podd then pitched a strike to Murray for 12 more. On the third play it was Podd once more on the passing end as he hurled the pigskin to Fred Drexler in the end zone for a touchdown. Johnson's attempted conversion was blocked, but alert Gene Matthews grabbed the ball and pinged over for the point.

Murray Scores Second Touchdown In the third stanza it was Podd's beautiful coffin corner punt that started the Bisons again. Lafayette kicked to their own 33 and Johnny Paar, playing safety raced down to the 18. Paar then picked up nine off tackle and Podd made it first down on the six. Carroll Murray ploughed over from the 1-foot mark on fourth down to give the Bisons their second touchdown. John's kick for the extra point was wide.

Lafayette's only score came early in the first quarter when Charlie Nagle passed to Bill McKnight in the end zone. McKnight converted with a place-kick.

It's interesting to note that this really was the first game in which the gridiron kept up its level of play throughout the entire game instead of only the first half. This is evidenced by the fact that Lafayette wasn't in Bison territory once the whole fourth period.

Handball Session Starts Next Week

The first individual intramural tournament will get under way next week when Bucknell's handball team will match their talents in the annual handball session, headed by John Plant, has also announced the dates of the cross-country meet, and the boxing tournament. The former will be run November 16, and every entrant must complete eight trial runs over the course in order to be eligible for the meet. The leather-swingers will battle from December 7 to December 11. It is advised that the regular participants start their training now. The usual eligibility requirements will be enforced for the boxing tournament.

Bison Brain Trust

Coach Al Humphreys—Has Blum—John Stitsky
The Bison Board of Strategy worked wonders last week in supplying the theory for the Herd's conquest of Lafayette. Now, they're deep in thought figuring out a way to stop Gettysburg's Hardy from passing the Bucknell Bisons dizzy. They'll succeed too.

By Sy Berger
Onward Conquering Heroes

I don't very much if it was merely the Homecoming spirit that spurred Al Humphreys' Herd on to a thrilling 13-7 win over Lafayette, but rather the realization of our gridsters' potentialities, which finally came to the fore. For the first time this season, the Bisons looked like the team they promised to be. From the opening whistle, the gridiron representatives of Bucknell battled like demons to come through with the victory gauntlet over a team, which was supposedly Master of the Bisons previous to the affair on the Memorial Stadium turf. They showed everything from a well-oiled offense and a solid attack to an unassailable spirit as they outmaneuvered their foes for FOUR QUARTERS.

Except for the first five minutes, when they sadly allowed Charley Nagle, Lafayette's captain, to click on a touchdown pass to Bill McKnight, the Bisons had the situation well in hand. The line ripped the Leopard forward wall apart as the Herd backs went scampering through for meaningful yards. Every blocking assignment was carried out as prescribed by Mentor Al Humphreys. Chet Podd continually sent the spots, the Herd field general looked like a carbon copy of Slinging Sammy Baugh with his passing. Defensively, the lads looked great. They battled up the running attempts of Nagle, McKnight, Ciomnicki and Conklin, Inc. and kept the fans wondering about the great passing of Nagle as they continually battered down his aerial attempts as well as intercepting four of them.

From end to end on the front line, and from snout to snout in the backfield, the Humphreysmen looked like the Orange and Blue devils that the fans wanted to see. All in all, they were the picture of perfection and deserve every bit of praise that the student body of Bucknell can offer. So, let's have a rousing round of applause for our Conquering Heroes and get behind them with all the support we possibly can.

Loosen Up Those Vocal Chords

Maybe we do have a right to mourn and look glum when our team loses. Maybe as spectators we can gripe about their play. But, nevertheless, they are our team and it's up to us to stick with them through thick and thin. But, there wasn't any reason in this wide world, why the students of Bucknell walked out of Memorial Stadium last Saturday as

Herd Tackles Bullets In Final Home Appearance Of 1942 Grid Season Saturday

Polished Temple Crew Too Much For Edwardsmen; Face Syracuse Next

Displaying a brand of soccer which brought forth both gasps and applause from spectators, the Temple squad soundly trounced the Bucknell Booters 7-0, in a Homecoming battle last Friday. When the visitors' scoring spree was ended by the final horn, seven goals had been chalked up for the Cherry and White while the Orange and Blue had been held scoreless.

Owl Offense Brilliant The Temple offense combined accurate passing with deadly shots. The most spectacular tally of the afternoon was the fourth goal which was scored by Captain Berick. The Owl right wing worked the ball down the sidelines and then sent it into the center of the field where the Temple inside skillfully headed the ball past Dan Reinhardt, Bison goal-tender. The other Owl goals were all cleanly made and well earned in spite of the hard defensive play of John Treacran, Lou Ruttkay, and Andy Rico.

The Bison forward line seldom threatened. However, on the few occasions when "Scotty" Whyte or "Ace" Quillen did manage to outmaneuver the stubborn Temple backs, their shots were cleanly handled by the Owl goalies.

Bisons To Face Syracuse The Bucknell squad, still in quest of its second victory, invades the Syracuse campus Saturday afternoon. The battle between the two Orange and Blue teams promises to be another hard fought dual similar to last year's 3-3 deadlock. As an indicator of their comparative strength, both teams have won one second half in the battles with Penn State by almost identical scores.

Women's Glee Club Plans
Five Events For Year

The Women's Glee Club has evolved a five-fold program for the current year. The five major events which they have included in this year's repertoire of their work are as follows:

1. In presenting the annual performance of the "Messiah," December 20, they will combine with the mixed chorus, a select group from both the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs.
2. They are also working on the "Blessed Damsels," December 27.
3. The Sacred Chorus will sing during the Baptist Church's morning service once a month.
4. The Club will perform a five p.m. on Sundays beginning next semester.
5. They are planning for the traditional March concert.

Bucknell Enrolls Melvyn
Corner For 1960 Fresh Class

Melvyn Chester Corner, the infant son of Attorney and Mrs. Edward S. Corner, Port Jervis, N. Y., may not realize it yet, but Bucknell University is already looking forward to his enrollment as a freshman in September, 1960.

On behalf of Melvyn, who was born August 3, his father has filed primary application for his admission in 1960. Mr. L. F. Lybarger, Jr., director of admissions, has reported that Melvyn is undoubtedly the youngest person ever to apply for enrollment at Bucknell, since his letter of application was written the day of his birth.

At Bucknell, Melvyn will find himself carrying on a family tradition. His father was graduated from the university in 1902, while his father's father, Miss Harriet Corner of Wilkes-Barre, is now a senior at Bucknell, and is scheduled to graduate in January, 1943.

Northeastern University recently dedicated its $6,750,000 technological institute.

Football Victory, Good Dance
And "Blue Skies" Highlight War-Time Homecoming

By Nancy E. Patterson

For two consecutive days King Solomon shined—on the football field and on the dance floor. The football game was a homecoming celebration, and the dance was a war-time homecoming celebration.

A gigantic bonfire, flames leaping to the sky, the shouts and cheers of hundreds of Bison fans out for blood (or leopard meat), snappy cheer leaders whipping up enthusiasm for vocal action, fighting words from Bucknell's fighting men of the gridiron—all this was in the Bison pep rally, and its results were intense, charged with dynamic.

If there were any doubts as to the original and prolific imagination of the Bucknell males, those doubts would be at once dispelled at sight of the campus by Saturday, but who in the mammoth Sig had a part, all though he didn't look too proud of his spots.

Grads Take Over On Saturday

The grads had definitely taken over the campus by Saturday, but who in the mammoth Sig had a part, all though he didn't look too proud of his spots.

Tri Delt, Kappa Delta

Tri Delt and Kappa Delta were the victors of last Monday's games in the intercollegiate hockey series. Dotty Davis scored four of the five points that Tri Delt scored against Alpha Chi defeating them 5-1.

The unopposed freshmen played very good games considering it was their first. They made two points which were not counted, one being made by bouncing off a players foot, and a hockey stick of the defender being broken at the time the shot was made. They were defeated by Kappa Delta 2-1.

This gives Tri Delt and Pi Phi three wins and Kappa Delta two. However, Pi Phi remains undefeated while Tri Delt and Kappa Delta have both lost a game.

Fresh-Soph Soccer To Be Waged Thanksgiving

This year's annual Fresh-Soph soccer will be held on either Thanksgiving Thursday, November 26 or on Wednesday, November 25.

Should the Fresh class win the greatest pole vault and the tug-of-war contest they shall no longer be required to wear their black socks, black ties and black shoes, black socks and black ties. However, should the '43 men win they will have to continue wearing their fresh apparel until Christmas.

Six 25c stamps will pay for one HAND-GRAND. Thanks to hand-made, American soldiers know how to make good use of hand-grandes. Help send them plenty.

Editorial
Thanksgiving . . .

We are at war now, a war for our very existence, and the sooner we learn to acclimate ourselves to it, the better it will be for us. We shall get about it ending this rotten mess.

The faculty and administration of the University are now asking that every Bucknell man and woman judge themselves not to "ruin" classes the Wednesday preceding Thanksgiving Thursday, or the Friday and Saturday following it, as so many of them had already planned on doing.

Yes, they realize that many of the students are anxious to get home to see their families and spend the Thanksgiving holidays with them, and that there will be a certain amount of disappointment if they are not able to do this. But they also realize that there are hundreds of thousands of American men, no different than us, who will be spending their Thanksgiving in army camps in Ireland, Iceland, Australia, Africa, and who will be risking their lives at Guadalcanal and other battlefronts, while we selfishly clamor for an extra day or two of fun and enjoyment at the expense of better preparing ourselves for the tremendous job that confronts us all.

Bucknell men and women must realize that the administrative body of the University, when they threaten to impose severe penalties upon us for taking extended vacations, are not doing this because they want to be mean about the whole affair. They threaten to do this, because they realize that under the accelerated war curriculum at which we are working, the loss of these two or three days of class and laboratory work will mean so much more to us than it would to a student at a normal college.

And let it be remembered by us that these same faculty members who are now determined to put through a severe penalty for vacation "cuts" are the same men who this past summer gave up their well-earned vacations to devote their time and knowledge to the teaching of the six hundred students who attended this year's summer session. They did all this voluntarily without asking any financial compensation whatsoever.

Surely in view of all this, it isn't asking too much of any one of us to stick to our books and attend classes as usual over this year's Thanksgiving weekend. And looking at it strictly from the student's viewpoint, unless we show our willingness to cooperate with the administration now, we shall have much reason to regret it later, and we feel that a word to the wise should be sufficient.

If nothing had happened, The Bisons did a wonderful job Saturday afternoon, and provided one of the most thrilling games that Bucknell has seen in a long, long time. Yet, the self-centered student body just walked away thankful to the team that they provided an afternoon's entertainment and let it go at that. It's a time like that, when the Bisons beat a highly favored team on an occasion like Homecoming, there should have been an unprecedented display of spirit.

I assure you that every one of the lads out there appreciate your yells and chants of support more than anything else, while they're in action. So, let's start yelling, and yell loud, too, and let the weary graders know that they are out there fighting for something. That something being us, BUCKNELL.

"We Hate To See You Go"

This Saturday, when the Bisons tussled with Gettysburg, three stalwart graders will be playing their last game of their college careers on the Memorial Stadium terrain, before their own fellow students. I refer specifically to Captain Bill Anderson, Chad Pold and Eric Quenne. All three of them have their contribution to Bucknell on the gridiron and they are deserving of all that Bucknell has offered them. So, when these lads go out there in their farewell battle, let's have the stadium rafters shake with a lusty cheer and make it a fitting farewell for three boys who Bucknell can well be proud of.

campuses as there was in the last year. These enlisted men attending the various universities would be in attendance strictly in an educational capacity.

The proposal is expected to be presented to Congress sometime before the first of the year and will go into effect as soon after its passage as is possible to set up the machinery necessary for its operation.

CAMPUS ORCHESTRA TO BE REORGANIZED

Reorganization of the Bucknellians, student dance band, with Jack Kimmel, '45, at its head will probably be completed tonight when rehearsals with several new men will be held in the land room.

The band will be much smaller this year, and will be limited to an outfit of about six men, many of whom will be new. The trumpet will be played by Jack Kimmel, a sophomore member in orchestra work. In high school he and his brother Bob, ex-'44, organized a dance band. Since then Jack has played with several bands near Bloomsburg, his home town, and now plays with Bruce Bell when conditions permit.

Let's Do The Job NOW

November 7, 1942, may well go down in the annals of history as the day that marked the turning point of the Second World War, for it was on this date that the long-dreaded, long-claimed-for "second front" of the allied nations was opened.

Because it has been less than a week since the allied forces, under the command of an American general, started the great push which has as its ultimate goal, the city of Berlin, and because events are still occurring with such lightning-like rapidity on the African continent, it is very difficult for us to appreciate or grasp the full significance of our invasion of Northern and Western Africa. But we feel sure that a few months from now when all of us will have been able to obtain a clearer perspective of the allied strategy in this military movement, we shall all comprehend the true greatness of the events of the past week.

It is impossible for any of us to imagine the extreme preparations and the careful, methodical planning which has preceded this military action. History will reveal all of this to us in the years to come, but what we can comprehend quite clearly now is that the leaders of America, Britain, Russia, China, and of the other allied nations, have not been asleep on the job as they have been accused of being by numerous "parlor-chair and typewriter strategists".

For the first time since the first gun of this war was fired upon Poland in September, 1939, the allied forces have beaten the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis to the punch, and for the first time in any theatre of war operations, we've got our enemies on the run.

We have at last taken the initiative in this conflict, and whether we are to maintain this initiative and keep our enemies on the run until we have sent them to their knees in pleas of surrender, is a matter which can be determined not only by the boys who are doing the fighting "over there", but also by everyone of us who are waging the battle "over here".

Here, at last we hope, has come the "shot in the arm" which has been so lacking in making us realize that the winning of this war is the job of you, and I, and every Russian, and every Chinese, and every person who believes in maintaining the freedoms without which life is not living, but merely an existence.

We, on the home front, can show willingness to do our part in attaining a complete victory as soon as possible by "knocking down" to our jobs 100%, immediately. Whether we are students, laborers, skilled mechanics, teachers, or business men, everyone of us now has a real job to do, and the time to do it is NOW, to buy war bonds NOW, to conserve gasoline and rubber NOW, to collect waste and scrap NOW, to cooperate with the government's every request NOW, to do the job NOW, while we can still get out of it, for if we put off the job until we can do today what we can do tomorrow, our hopes of grasping victory shortly will have slipped away possibly not to return until after many more war-ridden years of suffering and anguish. Let's do the job NOW!

Let's Start Acting Like Real College Men And Women

There certainly must be something terribly lacking in the way of a "war consciousness" and the maturity of the college men and women of today if the present group of Bucknell students are a true criteria of the average American college student.

The fact that a college student, under present day conditions, has to sign a pledge in order to guarantee that he will not "cut" three or four days of classwork around Thanksgiving time is certainly proof of a shameful exhibition of the lack of understanding and feeling which the American college youth has for our present perilous situation in this war.

Bucknell should realize, without having to sign their names to pledges, that by going home over the Thanksgiving weekend, not only will they be retarding the curricula of many of their classes and also taking up vitally-needed space in trains and buses, but they shall also be doing something which is so morally wrong that it may almost be termed un-patriotic.

We cannot possibly understand why persons who are supposedly being groomed to fill the roles of the "leaders of tomorrow" should not have a high enough sense of values to appreciate the seriousness and the wrongness involved in their having to be almost coerced to remain at their studies.

If in any student's mind there is any question at all as to whether or not it would be justifiable for him to "cut" these classes, then he does not belong in college, but rather belongs in the military service where he will not be required to sign pledges to assure his not "cutting" drills and classes. It is about time that not only Bucknell men and women, but college students throughout the entire nation, awake to the realization of the fact that they do have a real job to do, a job which cannot be done right if they are required to sign pledges to keep them at their work.

We really feel that it is too bad that it was necessary to bring a pledge of this sort in front of the student body but at the same time we feel that possibly there may be some definite value to be derived from it. For if this pledge will awaken the student body to the realization that there are more important things for us to do here than to clamor for a few extra days in which to frolic and to make merry, then this measure will have been well worth the time and effort which has been put into it.

News Of B. U. Men In The Service

November 2, 1942

Dear Bucknellians:
This, you, will find as you read on, is a letter from four former Bucknellians, now serving in the Air Forces of the United States Army. We are: namely, John Kieker, Ray Farrell, Ed Glass, and Bill Byrnes.

We are all sitting on our bunks co-operating in the writing of this letter. The reason for it is that we were talking, and when four former Bucknellians talk, the topic of conversation naturally shifts eventually to Bucknell, former friends, activities, etc.

Having read letters from service men printed in the Bucknellian while we were in school, we felt that perhaps you would be interested in hearing where we are and what we are doing.

At this point in our respective careers we are in an Air Force Classification center here in Nashville where we are being given series of physical and psychological tests in an attempt to determine the job for which we are best fitted—Pilot, Bombardier, and Navigator. Upon classification we will be moved to a point specializing in our particular aptitudes for further training.

The camp here is the classification center for aviation cadets from all over the United States and covers an area of about five square miles and housing and training some 15,000 men. Despite what you may have heard about the lack of the so-called K. I. E. we are here to tell you that there is plenty of it along with work the men do in groups called "details". Work on the lumber pile, clearing barracks, building, etc., comprises this division. Along with this we drill, have athletic training, designed to harden us for the task ahead, and various other duties too numerous to mention.

The food, contrary to popular belief, is not bad because of poor food but because of bad cooking and handling.

The climate, also contrary to popular belief, is damp and rainy, but not constantly. In fact, since we've been here, it has rained some part of every day causing only quantities of mud, practically knee deep.

The boys, on the whole, are of a high type including college graduates, former service men, and just plain good fellows.

Saturday as we sat in the Post Exchange, we thought of Bucknell and Homecoming, and needless to say, these thoughts caused pausing in all of us.

We would appreciate hearing from you and we will be here for about six more weeks, and maybe longer. May I ask that you be kind enough to send us "The Bucknellian" for use by all, and to let us hear about Bucknell and Bucknellians both at school and in the service.

Very sincerely yours,

Phi Gam, Phi Psi To Hold Pledge Dances

Two more pledge dances will be held on campus this weekend, but at the same time we feel that possibly there may be some definite value to be derived from it. For if this pledge will awaken the student body to the realization that there are more important things for us to do here than to clamor for a few extra days in which to frolic and to make merry, then this measure will have been well worth the time and effort which has been put into it.

Phi Gamma Delta will present their pledges at a formal dance to be given Saturday night from 8 to 12. Bruce Bell's Orchestra will provide the music for the affair. Chaperoning will be Prof. and Mrs. Burgee, Prof. and Mrs. Parker, and Dr. and Mrs. LeMon.

Phi Kappa Psi is also giving its annual pledge dance this Saturday night from 8 to 12. Their orchestra will be the "Musical Yankees" from Shamokin. The semi-formal dance will be chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. Johnson, Prof. and Mrs. Page, and Prof. and Mrs. Gathings.

Cheerleading tryouts will be held at 11 a. m. in Bucknell Hall.

Kappa Sig. S. A. E., and Delta Sigma held the spotlight last weekend with their pledge dances Saturday night. An odd conglomeration was seen when dates departed from the Sem, some garbed in slacks, others in evening dresses, for two of the dances were semi-formal while the other was a formal style. Enlarging the class of farmers were the Phi Psi dates who were taken on a hayride.

Another dance last weekend was the S. C. E. open house after the pep rally on Friday night in Hunt "Ree" Room. A juke box provided the music, and refreshments were served.

Phi Mu entertained their district president, Mrs. Hazelhurst, last weekend. She was guest of honor at a tea given for the alumnae of the chapter in their suite last Sunday afternoon. Earlier that day Janice Fennell, '45 and Marian Turner, '45 were initiated. The pledge group of '45 has presented the chapter with a set of glass punch bowls, cups, and ladles. Lucille Rasmussen, '41 was recently married to Lt. Frank Masler, and Laine Keyser, ex-'43 will marry Robert Huse, November 21. Wessie Waldenford, ex-'43 has announced her engagement. Helen Grusskurth, ex-'45 and Marilyn Fiedler also ex-'45 visited the chapter recently. Away last weekend were Marilyn Eppley, '45, who went to the Junior Prom at Penn U. and Mimi Puschel, '45, who spent the weekend at Dickinson. Hope Woburn, '44 entertained Cade Charles McCoy of Chapel Hill pre-flight school this past week.

Alpha Chi held initiation last week for Allegra Willis. Allegra spent last weekend at Princeton, and Mary Hamlin went to Penn. Janet House, '42, visited the chapter recently.

Kappa Delta gave a tea in their suite for their patronesses last Sunday afternoon. Betty Baush, '44 entertained two friends from State last weekend. Meredith Jones from Mary Baldwin College, who was here for summer school, visited the K. D.'s on Sunday. Marie Fennell entertained a friend from Gettysburg.

Delta Zeta held a cozy in the suite last Friday night. Rita Shinnick and Arlene Downs attended the Winter Formal Ball at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia last Saturday night. Olga Zernow spent the weekend with LaVerne Eries at her home in Newton, Pa.

Tri Delta held a cozy in the suite last Saturday night after the dances. Several of the members living in houses downspent the night in Hunt.

Phi Louise Snyder, '45 spent the weekend in New York visiting Edna Barclay. Mary Foley, '44 was in Madison, N. J. last weekend to be bridesmaid at a friend's wedding. Kitty Windsor, ex-'44 spent last Sunday night at Hunt visiting the chapter.

RAMBLING!

WITH FINKERNAGEL

R. P. P.
(Tribunal Please Note)

Light the funeral torch! Send out the call for pall-bearers! Cry in your honor, worthy Bucknellians! for the class of '46 is DEAD. Dead not only in body, but from the neck up as well.

This challenge is hurled at every incoming class at old B. U., but this year's worth? ('?) Freshmen have been the last to spurn it and cast it aside unheeded. The upperclassmen, faculty and administrators have, until the Gettysburg game, thought that perhaps they were wrong, and that the fresh would "come around", but after last Saturday's performance, even this was discarded. For last Saturday these same freshmen, freshmen in COLLEGE, acted on par with spoiled babies and infants. The freshmen, I say it again, are dead.

From the beginning of freshman week, these men have taken upon themselves the power to decide what, and when they should do things, or if they should do them at all. Lack of cheering, enthusiasm for collegiate events, and many more gross neglects have been the record of the younger members of this campus. Tradition, the things that have made this school so rich in the past, have been ignored. Perhaps it is the fault of the upperclassmen that these things have been overlooked, but I think it is a sorry case when high school graduates have to be told just when and how they should act toward their alma mater. This article is written not only for the freshmen to think about, but the

INTRAMURAL
Just a word in behalf of the coming intramural engagements. Little more need be added to John Plant's talk to the men on intramural participation. Little more SHOULD be added. However, it is well to keep in mind the coming boxing bouts. BEFORE the meet, certain things MUST be done. A number of supervised training periods need be completed, and participation is directly influenced by whether these periods are attended or not. Let's not repeat the sin committed in the cross-country trail runs. GET OUT THERE AND TRAIN!

That Great Bucknell Spirit

Following last Saturday's triumph over Gettysburg, a host of Bison rovers swept on to the field and hoisted onto their shoulders Captain Bill Anderson, Walt Stot, and Chet Pold. All three starred in the B. U. victory. For Anderson and Pold, who are seniors, this was their last appearance on the Memorial Stadium gridiron.

Coach Merle Edwards' booters still failed to gain their desired victory of this year's soccer wars, as they bowed to the Syracuse soccer team 3-2 last Saturday at Syracuse. This marked the booter's fourth defeat in six encounters. The defeat was undoubtedly the Bison's most unusual blunder, due to Syracuse's role as the unfriendly host.

Editorial

The Administration Comes Through Again

Our hats are off to the University's Administrative Council for once again demonstrating to the Bucknell student body that they are completely alive to the exigencies and the radical changes demanded in a college curriculum in a period of war and extreme uncertainty such as the one under which all of us are at present living.

In passing the proposal for making freshmen eligible for initiation into fraternities at the completion of one semester's work instead of requiring them, as up to now, to have completed an entire year's work before they could be deemed eligible for initiation, we believe that the Administration has really done much to demonstrate to the student body that they are willing to do even more than their share in helping us to make the numerous transitions necessary for the successful conversion of Bucknell from a peace-time university to a war-time university.

We feel that as a result of the passage of this one-semester pledge plan tremendous benefits are in store not only for the University but for every freshman pledge and for every Bucknell fraternity.

By being initiated in February instead of having to wait until the end of May, the freshmen, who are pledging fraternities and who will have attained 15 quality credits or a C average, will now be able to enjoy four months of the advantages of fraternity life which they otherwise would not have known. In a normal four year college course four months did not seem like such a great length of time, but it must be remembered that these are not normal times and that practically every freshman who started his college career this semester will complete his course of study in three years if the army doesn't intervene before that time. Under this sort of a set-up it can be quite readily seen that these four months do amount to a lot more than what they normally would.

The fraternities will benefit from this new measure in that they shall now be able to initiate new members in February to fill the breaches which will be left by the seniors who are graduating this January, and who will be graduating in subsequent Januarys for the duration.

And finally, the University itself stands to benefit from the measure which they have adopted in that this new system will serve as a definite incentive for the freshmen to keep "on the ball" with their studies more than they have been doing, because the scholastic requirement of 15 quality credits or a C average still stands there and their being made eligible by the University for initiation.

Though we do take some pride in the fact that the proposal for this measure was initiated from this column of "The Bucknellian," we should, however, like to make clear the fact that in presenting this proposal to the administration, "The Bucknellian" was merely carrying out an expected duty, to interpret that which was uppermost in the minds of many of the students here and to present this interpretation for the consideration of the Administration.

Let's Get Rid Of Students' Cars

Though we are aware that this editorial is going to make us somewhat unpopular with a certain small group of students on the campus, we nevertheless feel that it is necessary for us to express the request that the University refuse to permit any students, except in rare cases, to keep cars at school for the duration of the war.

There has been some drop in the number of student-owned cars at school this year, but the amount has been unbelievably slight, and there are still nearly a hundred Bucknell students cruising about the campus in their cars, seemingly oblivious of the fact that we are at war and that the gas and rubber which they are wasting, yes, wasting, is the gas and rubber which is so vitally needed by the government today.

The students wasting this gas and rubber apparently do not realize what kind of a war we are in and against whom we are fighting. Certain it is that any colleges open in Germany today do not permit students to waste gas and rubber in driving for pleasure, nor for that matter would colleges in England, Finland, Australia, or in any other country at war permit any waste of this sort.

We say to the Administration that if the students won't take it upon themselves to sacrifice these peace-time pleasures which they are still indulging in, then the University itself must step in and set an example of real "war consciousness." Let's get rid of student cars on campus!

Letters

As a result of his last week's "Rambling" column in which he severely criticized the class of '46 for their "lack of spirit," "The Bucknellian's" free-speaking, hard-hitting columnist, Bob Finkernagel, has brought forth the wrath and ire of almost the entire freshman class. Letters condemning Finkernagel's words have literally flooded "The Bucknellian" office this week, and to give you an idea of the type of letters we've been receiving here are some choice examples.

For an answer to some of these letters, read Finkernagel's "Rambling" on this page.

The Editor:
The first letter received was in the form of a petition, which contained the signatures of 71 freshmen women. This petition stated, "In the name of the women of the class of '46, we the undersigned would like to express our disapproval of 'The Bucknellian' columnist, Finkernagel, and ask either that he prove his statements or make a public apology to the class of '46'."

Here is a letter from a female member of the class of '46 who really tells in no uncertain terms what she thought of "Rambling's" sensationalism:

To the Editor of the Bucknellian:
As a member of the class of '46, I should like to show just what my reaction and the reaction of a number of other freshmen is to the accusation in "Rambling" that "our class is dead."

To begin with, why do the upper classmen disagree so violently as to whether or not the Freshman Class has school spirit, and why don't they pick on the sophomores, (the male element in particular), who have even less spirit than we have?

We do agree that Mr. Finkernagel was wrong when he stated that the upperclassmen had more spirit than the underclassmen, because we heard the underclassmen at the game, and they did show spirit. But we did expect the Freshmen boys to show more spirit than they did. Most of these sophomores and freshmen were out on the field, the sophomores were obviously at the mercy of the freshmen. But did they do anything about it? No, they simply went meekly on their ways. (Did anyone notice that the freshmen were minus their dinks?)

So we are not speaking on behalf of the freshmen, we are speaking for the freshmen who are not as stupid as the freshmen who are. When the sophomores and freshmen were out on the field, the sophomores were obviously at the mercy of the freshmen. But did they do anything about it? No, they simply went meekly on their ways. (Did anyone notice that the freshmen were minus their dinks?)

(Did anyone notice that the freshmen were minus their dinks?)

As far as we are concerned, Mr. Finkernagel is entitled to his own opinion, and may write whatever he pleases. But in the same respect we are entitled to our opinion, and (we think he is all right).

A. Gerhard, Larison Hall.
And finally we reprint an anonymous letter which we received with its own original slant on the question as to whether or not the class of '46 is dead:

So the freshman class is dead? Well, Finkernagel, you think you'd better clean the mist off your glasses and the wax out of your ears, and listen to the Freshman class. Did you hear him fill in space when you wrote your noble column "Rambling"? Your rambling sounds like something an inmate of Danville would think up in his spare time. We seem to remember, but of course we could be wrong, that the cheer leaders had to turn around to squelch the exuberant shouts of the freshmen during the game, so that the team would be able to hear the signals.

And speaking of signals, you seem to have gotten yours crossed. Who dares doubt a junior's word, a sophomore? In case our reporter hasn't rambled over to the third page, let him step into the "Sidelines" and note. "Especially brilliant was the spirit shown by the class of '46. And the carrying of our grid heroes after the game was definitely characteristic of the Bucknell spirit. It was something we won't and can't forget for a long time,"—and the freshmen won't forget it either!

For do corpses rise up and carry heroes on their brawny shoulders, or shout themselves hoarse? Three cheers to that wonderful football squad, who isn't afraid to lead the freshman class a pat on the back.

Now is the time for us to raise our "cokes," what our whistles, and give a "hoopla!" to the class of '46!

It seems that last weekend had three major social items, the Sig's tea dance-buffet supper, the Phi Gam and Phi Psi pledge dances, and the S. A. K. dance.

The Phi Psi dance was uniquely decorated Saturday night for their pledge dance with balloons and red and green streamers on the walls. The Phi Psi had over five hundred guests.

At the Phi Psi dance the names of all the pledges were written on the walls.

RAMBLING!

WITH FINKERNAGEL

STILL RAMBLING.....
Last week this column stated, to the chagrin of many freshmen, that the class of '46 is dead. Since then, this columnist has been threatened with balloons and red and green streamers on the walls. The Phi Psi had over five hundred guests.

I have been told to prove my statement.....and I have been told to apologize for it. I have been promised many things if I didn't.....However, AT THIS TIME, my column of Thursday last still holds true.

After the last few days, I thought that nothing on this world could surprise me. But I feel safe in saying that this next bit really floored me for the minute. It came to me on Tuesday that the freshmen girls had passed around a petition among themselves to the effect that this column and myself were blights on humanity.

Herd Points For Sixth Win In '42 Finale Against F. & M.

Humphreysmen Preparing For Turkey Day Battle To Be Played At Lancaster; Enter Tussle With Four Game Victory Streak; Diplomat Record Poor

Coach Al Humphreys' stalwart gridsters will be pointing for their fifth consecutive victory and their sixth of the season, when they pit their football wares against F. & M.'s Diplomats next Thursday in their 1942 Turkey Day football festival. The battle on the Lancaster turf will close the curtain on the current Bison grid season, and will mark the initial meeting of the central Pennsylvania aggregations in 43 years, the two teams having met last in 1898.

Bisons Have Four Straight Wins
Since they were upset by Rutgers on a muddy New Brunswick terrain, the Herd has failed to taste defeat, bowing over Boston U., Lafayette, Gettysburg and Case. Whereas the Humphreysmen are riding the crest of a victory wave, Coach Barker's lads are experiencing a futile grid session being unable to ring the victory bell since their 50-0 rout of Fort Hamilton in their opening scrimmage. In their five tussles since, the Lancaster lads have bowed to Albright, Gettysburg, and Muhlenberg, while deadlocking Ursinus and Western Maryland.

Bisons Overwhelm Case Eleven 21-6 In Cleveland Fray
Johnson Plunges Over For Two Touchdowns; Magagna Scores On 60-Yard Run

Denting the end zone on three occasions in the first half, Al Humphreys' Thundering Herd stamped to a 21-6 victory over Case's Roughriders last Friday evening in Cleveland's wind-swept Shaw Stadium in their only inter-sectional fray of the season. The win over the Midwestern foe gave the Bisons their fifth win this year as well as their fourth consecutive victory.

Paar and Johnson Shine
Sparked by the swiftest running of Johnny Paar and the line-smashing plunging of Red Johnson, the Bucknell gridsters overwhelmed their hosts in the first two stanzas and coasted through the final half, subduing the best efforts of the out-classed Case crew. Al Magagna also provided some classy sprinting, tallying one of the Herd six-pointers with a 60-yard broken-field run. The Bison forward wall ripped the opposing front line to shreds and broke through on four occasions to recover several fumbles. Walt Scott and Bob Merrill loomed as gargantuan granite blocks throughout the fracas, spilling the Roughriders backs and thwarting their ground attempts.

Magagna Sprints 60 Yards
The Humphreysmen didn't waste much time in taking the lead, pushing across a score eight minutes after the opening whistle. Taking the skin on their own 41, Paar and Johnson toted the burden as the Bisons chalked up four first downs on the 45, 35, 18 and 3, from where the Herd fullback backed over for the touchdown as Coach Barker took over the reins of the team. But, in their last few engagements, they have shown a great deal of improvement, and Coach Herd beams of Gettysburg's warriors that the Lancaster lads are potentially good and should show their talents in their final games.

Magagna Invaluable
At Humphreys is well aware that the F. & M. boys are pointing for the Bucknell fracas and started preparations yesterday to smother the Bison's performance against Case, the Herd member will probably use his regular starting forward wall, and will alternate Johnny Paar, Polly Siega and the talented Al Magagna in the running slots. Magagna above all, proved invaluable being familiar with both the fullback and lineback assignments.

Monro and Trees Shine For F. & M.
The Lancaster crew is sparked by their left halfback Monro who runs from the short-cut formation, and Trees, who handles the Diplomat punting and passing duties. The Herd has quite a job cut out for them in trying to move F. & M.'s four ace linemen, Anderson, a 193-pound end, Doty, a center, Hersh, a guard and 200-lb. tackle, Miller.

I-M Ring Entries Due December 5

Intramural Council Plans Rigid Training Schedule; B Club To Aid Program

Plans are being made to make this year's intramural boxing tournament the best that Bucknell has ever seen. Information blanks have been sent to the various fraternities containing all the rules, as have entry blanks that must be returned by noon of Dec. 5.

The Intramural Council will strictly enforce all the rules which they have deemed necessary. All those participating must begin training on or about Nov. 23 and continue until Dec. 5. These training periods will be carefully checked.

The B Club is joining the I-M Council in handling the bouts, and they will provide some extra entertainment other than the regularly scheduled exhibitions. The Council is trying to obtain the same judges as last year who were members of the State Constabulary. These gentlemen conducted their end of the bouts very well, and their return to the campus would be greatly appreciated.

Varsity Basketball Practices in Session
Haines, Keegan and Culbertson Only Holdovers From Last Year's Starting Five

With an eye on their opening court tilt in Davis Gym, December 3, Bucknell's varsity dribblers have been going through their paces for three weeks now. Former varsity mentor, Mal Musser has been conducting the basketball practices stressing a new defense, with Capt. George Haines back, the courtiers are counting on Haines, Keegan and Culbertson to furnish the nucleus of the five. Let-terman Kenny Baserman, Morty Shibles, Stan Schindler, Morris Clark and Bob Edmunds, all have some varsity experience and will be ready for the tape. Hank Fornwald, Don Hamme, Frank Buehler and Ralph Dierckx are newcomers to the team. The newcomers are expected to pull the team out of the fire.

News Of B.U. Men In The Service

Sunday, Nov. 15, 1942.

Having received the latest "Bucknellian", I notice my cohorts Byrnes, Glass, and Riefler put their two cents together and wrote a letter to you telling of the life of a few typical aviation cadets. I am extremely sorry to say that I couldn't add my name to the letter simply because I had the unexpected privilege of being "asked" to do a little R. P. However, I shall try to give you a little more news about things in general down here in the deep South.

To begin with—there is no place like Bucknell, so do anything—even get your father on your local draft board, to stay at school, because once you're in the army, you're "in," and after a few days of saluting sergeants and staring at officers, you think you have been in the army for about 67 years at least.

Today I had some venous and typhoid "shots," and for awhile I thought of how one feels the Monday morning after Houseguest weekend—however, they eventually wear off plus part of your arm.

As things stand, Glass, Byrnes, Riefler, and yours truly have been classified as Pilots so we expect to be shipped either to Maxwell Field, Texas, or Santa Ana, Cal., within two or three weeks—too bad they haven't got an Air Corps base at Nashville.

I have a very nasty sergeant in charge of the squadron I am in, but I found out he likes Art—so my detail at present is painting cartoons for our squadron recreation room—however, he should know what I really like to paint.

I'm sure glad that we came through in the Housecoming game, naturally, wish I could have been there, but there is a larger game to be played today all over the world.

"The Bucknellian" and er—well, a friend are the only mediums whereby I hear about school life and campus activities, so you can imagine how pleased I am to receive it. To tell you the truth, even our small school paper is more widely read down here than all the "Rebel" papers combined.

I think I hear that sergeant coming as I'll and this little note here, to ensure would appreciate letters from any of the readers of "The Bucknellian," especially any prospective Aviation Cadet, who is interested in learning some of the finer points of "Goldbricking."

Sincerely,
Aviation Cadet Arthur J. Denney,
A. A. F. C. C.

SPECIAL NOTICE

By vote of the Faculty the time allowed for change of classes will be increased from five minutes to eight minutes, beginning Monday, November 23.

There will be no warning bell. The dismissal bell for classes will ring eight minutes before the close of the hour. The bell to begin classes will ring on the hour. For example, the dismissal bell for the first period will ring at 8:52. The bell to begin the second period will ring at 9:00.

The Faculty has voted to allow eight minutes for the change of classes in order that every student may have ample time to be present when the bell to begin classes rings. Students who are not in their places on the hour will be marked late, or not admitted, at the discretion of the professor.

93.7 Per Cent Sign No-"Cut" Pledge

Held Warns Of Excessive Weekend Class Cutting; Action May Be Taken

A tabulation of the number of names of those persons who signed the pledge to "cut" classes over the Thanksgiving holiday reveals that 93.7 percent of the Bucknell student body have affixed their signatures to this pledge.

The pledge, which was initiated through the Student-Faculty Congress was held to the fact that the system at Bucknell if the students were absent from their classes over the Thanksgiving weekend, contained the signatures of 1987 Bucknell men and women.

Wat Held, president of S. F. C., presented these signed pledges to President Marts this week.

Held wishes to make it known that the faculty were very pleased with the results obtained on these pledges, but he wished to make it known to the student body that the faculty is at present quite disturbed over the seriousness of the weekend "cutting" of classes, which seems to have been increasing.

He would like to urge the students to take cognizance of this feeling and try to keep their weekend "cutting" of classes to the barest minimum, for there is a strong possibility of faculty action on this matter if it is not remedied.

The signed resolution was then presented to the Administrative Council for their approval at their meeting of last Thursday. Having approved the resolution with the reservations mentioned, the plan will go into effect immediately.

B. U. DEFENSE COUNCIL OUTLINES YEAR'S PLANS

Appoints Committees For Sale Of Bonds, Student Interest, and Aid of Servicemen

At their meeting last Monday night, the Bucknell Defense Council, one of the most active groups on the campus at present, outlined its plans for the coming year and various committees were appointed to carry out their program.

One of the busiest committees of the Council will probably be the Sale of War Bonds Committee, chairman of which is George Jenkins. The American Unity and Democracy Committee, headed by Walter Held, will attempt, through the use of posters and other means to keep the entire Bucknell population in a "war-conscious" frame of mind.

The Men In The Armed Services Committee, with Marla Herzog as chairman, will once again sponsor a for box again for the Bucknell men in the service, but this year they shall be New Year boxes, instead of Christmas boxes. They shall send letters and Christmas cards to B. U. men in uniform, and they also intend to mount on a gigantic frame the snapshots and shoulder badges of all the school's men in the service.

The chairman of the other Defense Council committees were also announced at this meeting, and are as follows:

Medical Service and Health, Dr. John W. Rice; Salvage Committee, Dr. Norman Stewart; Protective Services, Nancy Patterson; Publicity, Miss Tremend; Elderly; Information Center, Mr. Harold Hayden; and Role of the Colleges In War Time, Dr. Meyer Sinkoff.

The War Production Board has gone on a work schedule of eight hours a day, six days a week for the duration.

Peddle School, Hightstown, N. J. He has been a member of the Bucknell faculty since 1934.

BUDGET CUT, L'AGENDA TO BE WITHOUT INDEX

The L'Agenda Staff, considering the cut in their budget which permits the yearbook to be but one-third the size of previous years, has decided to omit the index. It was felt that the student body would prefer to have more pages of informal snapshots rather than a lengthy index.

Work on the yearbook is well under way. Senior activity cards are being filled out and pictures taken. Work on activity groups, fraternities and sororities has begun. The yearbook's senior section will be divided into three sections—January, May, and August. The cover as not yet been decided upon.

prominent Rochesterians formed the Rochester Civic Music Association whose express purpose was to maintain this fine symphonic body.

With funds quickly raised, the forty-five top flight men in the orchestra were organized into the Civic Orchestra. This group later became the nucleus of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra of ninety men.

Mr. Harrison, a conductor of international renown, has been the Civic conductor since 1929. Under his baton, the orchestra plays weekly programs over the NBC network in addition to playing a series of 22 concerts in the Eastman Theatre and another series of educational concerts in the public schools of Rochester.

News Of B.U. Men In The Service

Sunday, Nov. 15, 1942.

Dear Editor:

Having received the latest "Bucknellian", I notice my cohorts Byrnes, Glass, and Rieffer put their two cents together and wrote a letter to you telling of the life of a few typical aviation cadets. I am extremely sorry to say that I couldn't add my name to the letter simply because I had the unexpected privilege of being "asked" to do a little K. P. However, I shall try to give you a little more news about things in general down here in the deep South.

To begin with—there is no place like Bucknell, so do anything—even get your father on your local draft board, to stay at school, because once you're in the army, you're "in", and after a few days of saluting sergeants and staring at officers, you think you have been in the army for about 67 years at least.

Today I had some tetanus and typhoid "shots", and for awhile I thought of how one feels the Monday morning after Houseparty weekend—however, they eventually wear off, plus part of your arm.

As things stand, Glass, Byrnes, Rieffer, and yours truly have been classified as Pilots so we expect to be shipped either to Maxwell Field, Texas, or Santa Ana, Cal., within two or three weeks—too bad they haven't got an Air Corps base at Nashville.

I have a very nasty sergeant in charge of the squadron I am in, but I found out he likes Art—so my detail at present is painting cartoons for our squadron recreation room—however, he should know what I really like to paint.

I'm sure glad that we came through in the Housecoming game, naturally I wish I could have been there, but there is a larger game to be played today all over the world.

"The Bucknellian" and er—well, a friend are the only mediums whereby I hear about school life and campus activities, so you can imagine how pleased I am to receive it. To tell you the truth, even our small school paper is more widely read down here than all the "Rebel" papers combined. I think I hear that sergeant coming in I'll and this little note here, sure would appreciate letters from any of the readers of "The Bucknellian", especially any prospective Aviation Cadet, who is interested in learning some of the finer points of "Goldbricking".

Sincerely,
Aviation Cadet Arthur J. Denney,
A. A. E. C. C.

SPECIAL NOTICE
By vote of the Faculty the time allowed for change of classes will be increased from five minutes to eight minutes, beginning Monday, November 23.

There will be no warning bell. The dismissal bell for classes will ring eight minutes before the close of the hour. The bell to begin classes will ring on the hour. For example, the dismissal bell for the first period will ring at 8:02. The bell to begin the second period will ring at 8:00.

The Faculty has voted to allow eight minutes for the change of classes in order that every student may have ample time to be present when the bell to begin classes rings. Students who are not in their places on the hour will be marked late, or not admitted, at the discretion of the professor.

93.7 Per Cent Sign No—"Cut" Pledge

Held Warns Of Excessive Weekend Class Cutting; Action May Be Taken

A tabulation of the number of names of those persons who signed the pledge not to "cut" classes over the Thanksgiving holidays reveals that 93.7 percent of the Bucknell student body have affixed their signatures to this pledge.

The pledge, which was initiated through the Student-Faculty Congress when it was learned that the faculty had intended to "institute a formal" "cut" system at Bucknell if the students were absent from their classes over the Thanksgiving weekend, contained the signatures of 1067 Bucknell men and women.

Wat Held, president of S. F. C., presented these signed pledges to President Martin this week.

Held wishes to make it known that the faculty were very pleased with the results obtained on these pledges, but he wished to make it known to the student body that the faculty is at present quite disturbed over the seriousness of the weekend "cutting" of classes, which seems to have been greater this semester than it has ever been before.

He would like to urge the students to take cognizance of this feeling and try to keep their weekend "cutting" of classes to the barest minimum, for there is a strong possibility of faculty action on this matter if it is not remedied.

majority of the members of every fraternity, a special meeting of the Interfraternity Council was held last Wednesday evening at which time the representative of each fraternity affixed his signature to the resolution.

The signed resolution was then presented to the Administrative Council for their approval at their meeting of last Thursday. Having approved the resolution with the reservations mentioned, the plan will go into effect immediately.

Broadway College made first aid a required freshman course and certified more than 2400 students in the subject the first year.

Next week's Workshop program will feature a program of songs by the Bucknell Men's Glee Club.

B. U. DEFENSE COUNCIL OUTLINES YEAR'S PLANS

Appoints Committees For Sale Of Bonds, Student Interest, and Aid of Servicemen

At their meeting last Monday night the Bucknell Defense Council, one of the most active groups on the campus at present, outlined its plans for the coming year and various committees were appointed to carry out their program.

One of the busiest committees of the Council will probably be the Sale of War Bonds Committee, chairman of which is George Jenkins. The American Unity and Democracy Committee, headed by Walter Held, will attempt, through the use of posters and other means to keep the entire Bucknell population in a "war-conscious" frame of mind.

The Men In The Armed Services Committee, with Marcia Hergosell as chairman, will once again sponsor a box again for the Bucknell men in the service, but this year they shall be New Year boxes, instead of Christmas boxes. They shall send letters and Christmas cards to B. U. men in uniform, and they also intend to mount on a gigantic frame the snapshots and shoulder badges of all the school's men in the service.

The chairman of the other Defense Council committees were also announced at this meeting, and are as follows:

DR. STILLMAN RECEIVES HIS PH. D. DEGREE

Donald G. Stillman, assistant professor of English at Bucknell University, has just been awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Michigan. During his graduate study at Michigan, Dr. Stillman specialized in literature. As his dissertation he prepared a critical textual study of Beaumont and Fletcher's play, "The Maid's Tragedy". His work throws light on the much-disputed text of Shakespeare.

A graduate of Lafayette College, Dr. Stillman received his Master's degree from Michigan in 1932. Before coming to Bucknell he taught at the Peddie School, Hightstown, N. J. He has been a member of the Bucknell faculty since 1934.

BUDGET CUT, L'AGENDA TO BE WITHOUT INDEX

The L'Agenda Staff, considering the cut in their budget which permits the yearbook to be but one-third the size of previous years, has decided to omit the index. It was felt that the student body would prefer to have more pages of informal snapshots rather than a lengthy index.

Work on the yearbook is well under way. Senior activity cards are being filled out and pictures taken. Work on activity groups, fraternities, and sororities has begun. The yearbook's senior section will be divided into three sections—January, May, and August. The cover as not yet been decided upon.

One of the busiest committees of the Council will probably be the Sale of War Bonds Committee, chairman of which is George Jenkins. The American Unity and Democracy Committee, headed by Walter Held, will attempt, through the use of posters and other means to keep the entire Bucknell population in a "war-conscious" frame of mind.

Students May Still Be Immunized Any Weekday

Bucknell students who desire to receive free of charge immunization treatments against diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid, and scarlet fever, may still do so by going to the infirmary any weekday from 10-11:30 and 2-4.

The Student Board of Health's immunization program is now in its second week of operation and has but one more week before its completion. Students wishing to get these valuable immunizations are urged to make their appointments immediately.

This is the second year that the immunization program has been in effect. Last year approximately one-third of the student body received these treatments, and indications thus far this year point to an even higher percentage of Bucknell men and women being immunized against these four diseases, which seem to show an increase in rate of incidence during and after a war period.

The War Production Board has gone on a strict schedule of eight hours a day, six days a week for the duration.

Gifts — Christmas gift boxes for all alumni abroad with the armed forces were sent by Hendrix College (Ark.) Booster Club members, using funds normally spent on the homecoming celebration.

"Cookies for Rookies" is the newest project on the DePauw University campus. Home economics students are baking hundreds of cookies every month for the huge cookie jar at the canteen in the Union Station at Indianapolis, Ind. And how the soldiers go for 'em!

Scrap Collecting — A few weeks ago through Collegiate Digest North Carolina State College issued a challenge for other schools to beat their record of 72 pounds of scrap metal per student. In their homecoming scrap drive University of Nebraska students accepted the challenge, amassed a total of 166 pounds per capita. The feat drew a congratulatory telegram from Donald M. Nelson. Above a judge estimates the weight of Kappa Kappa Gamma's collection.

Did you ever take an afternoon off to visit the circus, see the animals, talk with clowns, munch peanuts and dicker with the hawkers? Well Virginia Elliott and Ralph Webster, Glendale Junior College freshmen, did—and experienced just about every thrill the circus has to offer. Student photographer Harry Bourne followed them around on a journalism class assignment, that this series of unusual photos.

Dyed-in-the-wool circus fans can't stroll the grounds without a cane or pennant so the stop is made for these "musts."

"Two," says Ralph, as he "pops" for admission tickets for the big tent. Where else can you get all of the assorted thrills, smells and sights for a buck?

The monkey cage is always good for a laugh so the couple head for it once inside the animal tent. Ralph would like to play with the little fellow but heeds the sign.

These Fish Flap Their Fins—When they want some real noise at pep rallies at San Houston (Texas) State College they smear the froth with "fish" labels and set them to yelling. And what a racket they raise when really warmed up!

A clown pulls Virginia to one side, tells her a few gags about her "collegiate boy-friend."

How Not to Get Thin—Members of Drake University's Poly Poly club reach for a second helping instead of a diet. The chubby group have installed chopsticks on several campuses, use as their motto, "keep 'em frying."

B.U. Presented With Service Flags In Chapel

Defense Council Gives Gift At Impressive Morning Chapel Exercises

FLAGS TO STAND IN ROBERTS HALL

Two service flags bearing seven hundred fifty-two white stars and four gold stars were presented to the University at this morning's chapel program as a gift from the Bucknell Defense Council. The presentation was made by President Marks.

The flags were presented in a very impressive ceremony which saw representatives of each fraternity and other living groups on the campus come to the front of the auditorium and announce the number of their men in the service, and then place a flower at the base of the flags and remain there until the flags had been unveiled.

As part of the ceremony, President Marks explained the source of the flags, disclosed the number of Bucknell men now in active service, the number of Bucknell men on campus who had already enlisted in the reserve corps, and the names of the four Bucknell men represented by the gold stars on the flags.

These flags will be placed in the lobby of Roberts Hall for the duration of the war and will be added to as more Bucknell men enter the service.

Previous to the unveiling of the service flags excerpts of messages received from Bucknell service men and from Ed Miller (killed in action) were read aloud. Excerpts were also read from some of the most important public statements made by representatives of the United Nations since the start of the war. Some of these included readings from the Atlantic Charter, from Sumner Welles' Memorial Day speech, from vice president Wallace's speech, from Jan Smuts' speech before the House of Parliament, and from recent talks of Winston Churchill and Chiang Kai-Shek, among others.

One Will Be Queen Of The Ball

B. U.'s Gift To Pro-Football To Interview Students For The U. S. Coast Guard

Clark Hinkle, "The Luckawanna Express", Bucknell's most famous gift to the professional football world, will return to the campus a week from this Monday, December 14, to interview any students interested in the U. S. Coast Guard.

Hinkle, who is undoubtedly one of the all-time football greats, graduated from Bucknell in 1932 in which year he had been named to numerous All-American football teams. After leaving Bucknell he entered the professional football ranks, and until this year he had been a star back for the Green Bay Packers for ten years, having been selected for the all-professional team a number of times.

He gave up professional football this past year to accept a commission in the United States Coast Guard Service, and at present he holds a lieutenant's rank in the service.

On his visit here next Monday, Hinkle will address students interested in the Coast Guard in the Literature Auditorium. He will also bring with him motion pictures illustrating some of the services being performed by the Coast Guard today. The exact time of his appearance next Monday is not as yet known, but will appear in next week's "Bucknellian".

S. F. C. MEETING

All students are invited to attend an open meeting of Student Faculty Congress to be held in the Literature Auditorium next Wednesday evening, Dec. 9, at 7:15 o'clock. Important topics of interest to the entire student body will be discussed at this meeting.

Frosh Coeds Treated Royally Sorority Rushing Reaches Climax

By Nancy E. Patterson

The excitement and whirl of Bucknell's sorority rushing this week reaches its climax as respective sororities out-do themselves to provide entertainment for prospective members. New girls see Bucknell coeds at their best and get a chance to preview sorority life.

Deferred rushing this year has allowed free association between upperclass women and freshmen girls from September 28 to November 27. The extended period has made it easier for freshmen to become better acquainted with upperclass girls and has given them a better opportunity to decide upon the sorority with which they might decide to affiliate themselves.

The new girls were divided into six groups to attend rotating teas, each group going to one suite a week. At the end of the six weeks the Pan Hellenic Tea was given in Hunt Hall living room.

Upperclass girls might seem to be weakening under the strain of observing traditional rushing rules. No distinguishing group fraternity features other than sorority pins might be worn; no male dates for new girls might be arranged by upperclass girls, and no double-dating of upperclass

ROCHESTER CIVIC ORCHESTRA IN RECITAL

Men's Glee Club To Appear In Joint Concert Next Saturday; Harrison To Conduct

"Ichabod Crane", Washington Irving's famous hero of the story "The Headless Horseman", will be the subject of one of the works to be presented by the Rochester Civic Orchestra when it appears in a joint recital with the Bucknell Men's Glee Club next Saturday evening, December 12, in the Davis Gymnasium.

The program, which has just been selected, will contain, along with the selections of the Glee Club, several familiar symphonic works, known not only to music lovers, but also to the layman.

The first number will be the Orchestra, under the baton of Guy Fraser Harrison, playing Beethoven's "Leonore Overture No. 3", one of the best known of Beethoven's works. This will be followed by the Glee Club, who will sing, "Alleluia: Amen" by Borntiansky and "Lol a Voice to Heaven" by Samuel Richard Gaines.

These selections will be followed by the Orchestra playing Cesar Franck's "Symphony in D Minor", one of the most popular symphonies in the orchestra's repertoire. An intermission will then follow.

The second part of the program will begin with Carl Anton Wirth's "Episodes from the Life of Ichabod Crane". This work is a set of variations on the life of the famous character. At the present time Hall is connected with some phase of the training of members of the R. A. F.

Though all Bucknell men interested in aviation are invited to attend this talk, there will be many persons outside the school who will also be present. Among these other persons will be the Naval Air Cadets from Sunbury, the Naval Air Cadets here at Bucknell, and the Civilian Pilot Trainees from Milton.

War Spirit Will Prevail At Tomorrow Night's Senior Ball; Teagarden Will Select One Of Fourteen Coeds As Queen

Each Sorority Will Have Two Seniors Vieing For Crown; Procession At 11 O'clock

The "Queen of the Senior Ball" will be selected tomorrow evening by orchestra maestro Jack Teagarden. Fourteen charming coeds have been nominated by various sororities and the Student Campus Club as representatives of these organizations to vie for this highly coveted title.

The selection will take place when at 11 o'clock these fourteen beauties will file down the center of the Davis Gym floor with their male escorts. Teagarden, who will be on the bandstand, after critically scrutinizing this bevy of exotic feminine pulchritude, will single out the girl whom he believes to top all the rest. The actual crowning of this year's Senior Ball Queen will be done by George Haines, president of the Senior Class.

The girls who will comprise the Queen line tomorrow evening and the groups they will represent are as follows: Joanne Greenig and Nancy Sherrer, Delta Delta Delta; Frankie Reeder and Ding Clark, Kappa Delta; Ruth Howley and Virginia McCage, Alpha Chi Omega; Charlotte Griffin and Dorian Smith, Pi Beta Phi; Marilyn Eppley and Lynn Stevens, Phi Mu; Peggy Bachman and LaVerne Fries, Delta Zeta; and Shirley Higgins and Carolyn Foust, Student Campus Club.

Christmas Vacation Marine Reserve Will Begin Dec. 23 Here Today; Army Reserve Next Week

Contrary to many rumors which have been spread about the campus in the past few weeks concerning the possibility of an extended Christmas vacation because of transportation difficulties, the Christmas vacation for Bucknell students will be, as stated in the catalogue, from 12 o'clock noon Wednesday, December 23, to 8 o'clock Tuesday, January 5.

It is true that plans for extending the vacation so as not to conflict with the expected heavy railroad travel from December 15 to January 15 were discussed between Dean Rivenburg and Dean Page and representatives of the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroad Companies.

However, after viewing the facts, it was felt by those persons that Bucknell would cause the least amount of congestion in the railroad transportation facilities by keeping its vacation period as originally scheduled.

In traveling to and from their homes over the Christmas vacation period Bucknell students are being asked to cooperate with the railroads by taking as little luggage as possible, and by accepting graciously any available accommodations.

Bucknell Night To Be Held At Meadowbrook Dec. 28

Bucknell undergraduates will once again hold their annual Christmas reunion at the Meadowbrook on December 28th.

Club Calhoun's orchestra will supply the entertainment for all Bucknell students who turn out for this affair which was staged with great success last year at this time. There will be a minimum charge $1 per person.

Reservations are being held by "Perks" Perkins of the Lambda Chi House and Bob Baker, Sigma Chi. More details will be given in the very near future.

STUDENT DIRECTORIES

The 1942 Bucknell Student Directory will be on sale this week at the Registrar's office, the C. A. office and Larison Hall. Copies are twenty-five cents each and the edition is limited.

JACK TEAGARDEN

Victory Corsages, Simple Decorations And Air Cadets Will Be In Evidence

TEAGARDEN IS VERY POPULAR AT COLLEGES

With a definite war time spirit pervading the affair, Bucknell men and women will dance to the strains of Jack Teagarden's "Blue" at the Senior Ball in Davis Gym tomorrow night from 9-2 o'clock.

Victory corsages, unelaborate decorations, the presence of 20 Naval Air Cadets as guests of the class, in addition to many other war time features, will be quite in evidence when the dancers step out on the Gym floor tomorrow evening at nine o'clock for the first downtown of Jackson Teagarden's noted band.

Has Played at Many Colleges

Teagarden, having recently appeared in the motion picture "Birth of the Blues", has the distinction of having played more college and university dances since he organized his own orchestra than any other bandleader in the country. Some of his most recent engagements have been at Lehigh, F. and M. Delaware, Michigan State, Notre Dame, Minnesota, Georgia Tech, and he is booked for Temple's Senior Ball next weekend.

Mr. "T" brings with him to Davis Gym tomorrow night a very fine array of vivacious talent, the type of talent that always seems to make a big hit at college social affairs. Featured entertainers in Teagarden's organization are that charming song stylist, Esther Todd, "That Awesmy Sub's Singer", Clint Garvin, drummer Paul Collins, who holds the spotlight with his "dramatic", the Teagarden Trombone Choir, and Jackson himself rendering some classic vocals.

A highlight of the dance tomorrow evening will be the annual selection of the Senior Ball Queen. Teagarden, himself, will choose the girl whom he thinks to be the prettiest of the fourteen senior coeds who will parade down the Gym floor at 11 o'clock. George Haines, president of the class of '43, will crown "The Big Gate's" selection.

Chaperones of the affair will be Prof. and Mrs. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Al Humphreys, Prof. and Mrs. Kewell, Prof. and Mrs. Plimack, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Herrell.

College Men Face Military Call; Reserve Corps Offer Students Only Alternative

Because the status of college men in regard to military service is probably the most pertinent subject for discussion on the campus today, this article is written for the purpose of clarifying for Bucknell men any problems which they may have concerning the choice of a reserve corps or the possibility of their remaining in school.

Here are the straight facts: Under the new draft law, every student in college stands a good chance of being drafted and sent into the army as a private within the next 30 or 40 days if he is 18 years of age. There is, as far as anyone knows at present, only one alternative.

The only way now open for a college student to get a minimum of two and a maximum of four years of college training is to join some branch of the armed forces in the Reserves and be placed on inactive duty until such time as that particular branch of the service sees fit to call him into active duty.

Early Call Unlikely in Navy

The chances of staying in college until graduation seems to be best in the Navy Reserves. Because the Navy cannot expand indefinitely as the Army can, the Navy's expansion is definitely limited by the number of fighting ships that come off the ways, meteorological classifications. In both they in all probability will be needed.

In the case of the Ground crew of the Army Air Corps, for students not meeting the eye requirements for flying, only two branches are now open for Reserves—the engineering and meteorological classifications. In both they in all probability will be needed.

Editorial

'Victory Corsages' Don't Look As Pretty As Regular Corsages

Of all the hypocritical and immature deeds that have ever been perpetrated by the present group of Bucknell men and women, their most recent decision not to support the Senior Ball Committee's recommendation for the wearing of victory corsages at tomorrow night's dance, is by far the most atrocious and the worst.

It is only because of the sheer selfishness and sheer vanity of a certain few individuals that this plan to have every girl at the dance wear a war stamp corsage has fallen through.

When, we wonder, are these persons who refused to buy victory corsages going to open their eyes to the fact that this country is at war, real honest to goodness war, and that if we are to win this war it is going to be necessary that every single one of us sacrifice many of the niceties and luxuries which we had grown accustomed to in the years preceding the war.

If these persons, who are criticizing the Ball Committee for having decided to have only war stamp corsages, would only stop to think a moment, they would realize that it would have been very much easier and would have entailed much less trouble for this committee to have decided to have corsages as usual. But just because these few students who made up this committee were aware that the college student has a definite responsibility and a definite part to play in the war effort, and because they felt that by having war stamp corsages they would be giving the students an opportunity to contribute a little something to the effort, this committee is now being looked upon with almost disdain by a certain narrow-minded group of students here.

We realize, as well as anybody else, that because Bucknell students, just as college students throughout the country, are tied down to their studies, and because in most cases college campuses are located off the busy paths of the everyday world, it is not very often that the American college student of today gets the opportunity to demonstrate any sort of real "war consciousness." However, we feel that when such a chance does present itself it is a disgraceful shame if the college student does not take advantage of it. Here the Bucknell man was presented with this opportunity to contribute something to the war effort, trivial as it may seem, and he has, in most cases, absolutely refused to accept this offer.

By refusing to support the committee's plans to have every girl at the dance wear a victory corsage, these students have actually cheated the government of about three hundred dollars, every penny of which is vitally needed. In addition, they have cheated themselves of the opportunity to feel that they had contributed even a little something toward helping to win this war.

As most of you know, this paper is sent to more than 500 Bucknell men in the Service. We almost feel ashamed on behalf

Thanksgiving on campus, while not like the good old times at home in other years, was brightened by the informal dance that evening in Davis Gym sponsored by the counselors of the freshmen dorms. WORDS FROM B. U. MEN IN THE SERVICE

November 24, 1942.
Howdy Bucknellians!
Over five months have passed since I stood in Davis Gym on a certain day on May 28th, 1942. Now all I have are fond memories of four swell years and believe me, there are plenty of them to keep my thoughts pleasantly occupied during my "leisure" (?) time. As you were, folks, as you were (Marine Corps expression meaning I take back what I said)—there is something else that has kept me "right up to snuff" on Bucknell life—none other than those regular, weekly editions of the "Bucknellian". It's my weekly source of enjoyment, and not once have I been disappointed. You have heard what I am going to say now many times before, but I'm so proud of Bucknell and that "super duper" Service Column, that here it is in plain facts. There isn't a fellow down here at Quantico who can actually and honestly say that he is still a part of his "Alma Mater" as loudly and proudly as we "Bucknell" men. When we speak of Bucknell as our "Alma Mater" we know that we speak of the "real thing". Thanks a million for your co-operation.

After a rather "rough" ten weeks as a Pfc. I was commissioned a "2nd Lieut.". Ten more weeks of instruction as to how an officer should act under various situations, and most of us were ready to depart to places unknown. Many of us, A. E. '42, and Harry Reynolds, S. A. K. '42, both were sent to New River, N. C. (By the way Harry is in complete charge of an entire company). I have been placed in the Artillery section, and will remain here, learning how to handle the "big guns" until Xmas day. Can I do a little advertising?—The Marine Corps is tops, and it isn't because we have a swell time, but because we have a swell time. Good fortune finally enabled me to visit Bucknell twice in the past month, and believe me it was a treat. Some folks told me that the school has changed but I couldn't see it—despite this "new" situation which has succeeded in affecting everyone, there is one thing that never will change, and that's the Bucknell hospitality and friendliness—it's as strong as ever. I know I had a taste of it a month ago.

From the way things are looking I believe the class of '42 reunion will be better than expected—here's hoping. Sincerely, Gil Ulrich, '42,
2nd Lieut., U. S. M. C.,
Box 142, M. C. S., Quantico, Va.

NOTE TO SERVICE MEN
The Service Council has announced that hereafter "The Bucknellian" will only be sent to these men in the service from the class of 1940 on. The Council, however, will be glad to continue sending it to the earlier graduates upon their request.

Dear Editor:
As the work today is somewhat slow, due to the so-called "Holiday", I'm going to take a few minutes off to let you know how much the weekly copy of "The Bucknellian" is appreciated. Incidentally, please note the change in address. Having finished a three-year internship and residency on July 1, 1942, I entered the Army Air Forces shortly thereafter and went to a Basic Flying School at Bainbridge, Ga. After two months' schooling there I was reassigned to my present post at a Civilian Primary School in Ocala, Fla.

divisions, however, the educational requirements for enlistment have been dropped from three to two years of engineering training.

E. R. C. May Go At Draft Age

Since Secretary Stimson publicly announced that those in the Reserves of the Army would "all or the most" be called to active duty as soon as they become of draft age, and since the draft age has now been lowered to 18, there is no positive advantage for a freshman or sophomore to enlist in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps. There is very little reason to believe he would stay in college any longer than if he were subject to the regular draft regulations.

In all of these Reserve corps plans two features should be emphasized. As soon as the student enlists and is sworn in, he is then a member of the armed forces of the United States of America. Two consequences follow.

First, he is no longer subject to the draft laws. Second, if he leaves college for any reason whatever or if he gets on scholastic probation or fails behind his class in his progress toward his degree, he then must report at once for active duty to that branch of the service in which he enlisted.

The Reserve corps student must realize that he is being furnished only for the purpose of continuing his education, and if he is not continuing his education in a satisfactory manner or if he discontinues it, he then forfeits all rights for further furlough and must report for active duty.

Very truly yours,

What's The Best Class? Frosh Triumph In Turkey Day Brawl

By Eugene Gaier, '46

What's the best class? Right—the class of '46. A fine spirit and grand showing, so definitely Bucknellian in tradition, was displayed last Thursday by the freshmen class in the annual Frosh-Soph scrap. The removal of the sophomore colors from the grassed pole and the winning of the tug of war brought out the real valor of the men. However, this victory meant more than just the discarding of disks, black ties, and socks. It personified the real spirit of the class of 1946.

The plan of action for the scrap was formulated at a special meeting of the men of '46, and it worked as follows. At the whistle, a group of 125 frosh plunged into the fight and broke the sophomore guard about the pole. Several minutes later, a fresh reserve group of 25 frosh entered the fray and soon hoisted Bob Hunter to the top of the pole and the fight was won.

The tug-of-war proved a simple feat for the zealous freshmen, and was also a very wet task for the sophs, judging from the power of the fire-hose.

What's the best class?—'46!

A few weeks ago in "The Bucknellian", there appeared an article by a sophomore charging that the freshmen were dead, definitely "not on the ball". The victory of a week ago has proven this statement to be false.

"Mid shouts and cheers, the men of '46 gained victory last Thursday after several weeks of preparation and activity."

First, he is no longer subject to the draft laws. Second, if he leaves college for any reason whatever or if he gets on scholastic probation or fails behind his class in his progress toward his degree, he then must report at once for active duty to that branch of the service in which he enlisted.

The Reserve corps student must realize that he is being furnished only for the purpose of continuing his education, and if he is not continuing his education in a satisfactory manner or if he discontinues it, he then forfeits all rights for further furlough and must report for active duty.

"Equal Opportunity For All—"

In the very near future an announcement will emanate from Washington of a definite plan providing for the utilization during the war of the facilities of the nation's colleges and universities for the training of a limited number of men of the armed forces for specialized duties. The men to be sent to these colleges shall be selected solely on the basis of their ability, as proven by competitive examinations.

For the first time in the history of higher education in this country men are to be admitted to colleges on but one basis, their ability. For the first time men will be admitted to college with no regard as to their financial status. We fervently hope that this proposed plan is adopted immediately for we feel that this plan represents the most significant move made since the advent of this war to prove that the real thing for which we, the allied nations are fighting for, is the establishment of a pure democratic equality for all men.

Until now, though most of us were aware of it, but few of us liked to admit it, the blunt fact was that the whole system of higher education in this country was built upon the basis of class privilege—for the colleges now, as in the past, continued to draw their students primarily from those able to afford an education.

In times of peace, a system of college education based on privilege hardly coincides with sacred American principles of "equal opportunity for all." In wartime, its undemocratic character is accentuated both because it leads to serious waste of effective manpower and because it inevitably hardens the class distinction in the armed forces.

By now most colleges have forgotten that the original Selective Service law, which only permitted temporary deferment for students, was specifically designed to prevent the rise of a privileged group from service. The various reserve plans, however, by drawing officer material from students after they had been admitted to college, became a convenient means for circumventing the clear intention of the law. No one will deny that deferment is necessary to enable a student to receive adequate training; but deferment and eventual commissions belong to those who deserve them on the basis of ability, not to those who were able to pay for the opportunity to receive them.

Since the army and navy depend on the colleges for most of their officer material, the effect of perpetuating the traditional basis for admission can only be to strengthen the degree of privilege which pervades the armed forces. A democratic army is one whose officers are drawn from all elements in the population and not limited to the sons of the comparatively well-to-do.

The changes which must be made are simple, yet clearly revolutionary in nature. In principle, they are contained in the plans which have already been formulated in Washington and which will be announced in the not so very distant future. Whatever the form is to be adopted in these plans, it must be clear that there can be no compromise with the basic principle that higher education is not the possession of a particular class, but the right of all people.

It is now up to the colleges, their faculties, and their students—those most affected by this new plan—to rally behind it, for if we are not fighting for this sort of a thing—equal rights and opportunities for all persons—then what in Heaven's name are we fighting this war for?

Topic of his talk was education during the war.

Robert Kriz, '44, has resumed the position which he held last year, as news editor of "The Bucknellian". He replaces Robert McKernan, who has assumed the position of feature editor of the university's weekly publication.

One other change at the staff is that of Everett Hehn, '45, replacing William Thomas, '43, as staff photographer. Thomas had held this position for three years.

Ten students from the departments of philosophy, political science, psychology, economics, and religion are enrolled at present. They will receive from one to three hours credit for their work.

Miss Martica George, who directs the seminar, announces that department heads will be invited to recommend for admission students whom they consider qualified for the course.

Nancy McCullough, '42, Weds Ensign David Griggs

In a simple ceremony Miss Nancy E. McCullough, '42, was wedded to Ensign David G. Griggs, '42, last Saturday. The ceremony was performed in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark M. McCullough.

After a brief honeymoon Mrs. Griggs will resume her duties as secretary to Dean R. H. Ringburg, while Ensign Griggs will report for active duty with the U. S. Navy.

RAMBLING!

WITH FINKERNAGEL

Just two days before the first anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor, President Roosevelt announced that all enlistments for the armed service would be denied and that all men would be taken via Selective Service.

However, the reserves will be open till the fifteenth for those students that registered and made application before the fifth of December. So, brighten up and be of good cheer—if one can be of good anything these days—for Secretary of War Stimson has announced the following statements in a recent address.

Candidate School for virtually all of us may need in the future. A majority of these officers already selected so far were from the ranks and were inducted through the selective service. To be exact—about 60% of the graduated officers were "selectees". These men had completed their three month basic training course and were recommended for O. C. S.

In light of these statements it does not look too bad for those collegians who will get the draft board's call in the near future. The Bucknellian stated last week that it would be of little use for fresh and soph to enlist in the Army Reserve. And if we are called, you may be sure that ALL THE EDUCATION WE CAN GET will stand us in good stead when we have completed that basic training and are looking around for some bar to our shoulders.

ODDITIES—Remember zoot suits? Remember ordinary pants with cuffs? Well it won't be long till we will have a shirt talk as a thing of the past. The War Production Board announced last week that the tails on men's shirts would be three or four inches shorter next year. They figure they can make about ten million additional shirts this way. That's a lot of tails, eh. While on the subject of those "zoot suits with the war" items, we can send a longing glance at whipped cream. It's on the way out too. The W. P. B. have also visioned the saving of two BILLION pounds of milk by prohibiting heavy cream. Who ever heard of chocolate pie without whipped cream?

This next bit comes as a bit of a flash back on the Ball's dance band. Heard a lot of talk about Tea's band. Goeds and collegians tell how the "Big Gate's" band has slipped since they heard it in Paducah, Rattlesnake Gulch or somewhere. Well, Jackson's just so many of his old boys, he has a hard time keeping up with his new fill-ins. When he was playing at the Shangri-la in Philly, he was asked the name of one of his sax players. Mr. T. said that heck, he didn't know the guy's name. "Only with me a week."

This Should Live On!—The Heavyweight fight this Tuesday, "Bink" and Bob Richter really threw punches high and wide and sometimes handsome. Richter really didn't telegraph his right—...he sent it pony express. Hard To Believe—The way American boys are exchanging shoulders on a bar for bars on their shoulders.

L'Agenda Beauty Section Features Campus Queen

Queen of the Campus will be the feature of the beauty section of the L'Agenda. Nominations for the outstanding beauty of this senior class will be made by members of the class beginning this Monday. The queen and a court of six will then be selected from the 12 nominees by a well-known beauty authority.

The Hall of Fame of the L'Agenda will run along the same lines as last year. Seniors who are outstanding for their activities on campus will be chosen by the class to be pictured in the Hall of Fame.

Intramural Council, Take Notice!

I don't know whether or not the unsatisfactory system of point scoring in the individual representative intramural tournaments has been brought to the minds of the Intramural Council, but I do think that now is as good a time as any to bring up the subject. I refer specifically to the points awarded to the All-Year trophy contestants in such sports as track, cross-country, boxing and wrestling. In these tournaments, every group that enters is rewarded with a certain amount of points, and the groups that attain the first four places are given special bonuses. But, there are about twelve groups entering every sport, with four of them being rewarded for their efforts slightly, and the other eight all receiving the same value, regardless of their showings in the competition.

This present method of scoring, I believe is absolutely unfair to all parties involved as well as failing to reward the better groups sufficiently. Let us take a glance at the present set-up. The scoring rules may be applied as such:

1. Every group entering a certain minimum of men in the competition who meet all the training requirements, and take part in the tournament is automatically awarded 20 points.

2. A system of scoring shall be kept, and in the final tally, the teams which score the greatest number of points shall be duly rewarded. This only applies to the highest four teams.

3. The rewards shall be made accordingly. The team that amasses the best total shall receive 35 points (20 plus 15); the second place outfit shall receive 30; the third and the fourth 25. All the rest regardless of their comparative scores shall still get their 20.

This system definitely lacks fairness to all involved. It does not do justice to the group, which is definitely outstanding in the competition. It fails to reward the teams according to their merits, and it can and on occasions does give a group which is inefficient and lazy an opportunity to get their 20 points, as much as most of the others, with the least amount of work.

I'd like to call attention to the track and field meet held late in October as a specific instance of the unfair workings of this system. The Phi Kappa Psi team tallied eleven more points than their closest foe, yet in the scoring for the All-Year cup only was given five points more. The SAE's, who placed second were ten points ahead of the third place group, but got 30 points for their efforts, whereas the third outfit got 25. To jump down a bit lower, Lambda Chi Alpha marked up five more points than the fifth place group, but only got 21 points to the latter's 20. It seems to go on this way throughout, but the most serious problem is in the lower brackets. All the rest of the teams received their usual 20, but that was all. It didn't make any difference that the Phi Gam's gained 14 points in the meet, while Kappa and ASX got only 1. For, they all got 20 in the final and telling tally.

This meet wasn't much different from others. Comparative scores in track and field, cross-country, boxing and wrestling, will always be in a similar ratio, and the same unfairness will always arise. There isn't any doubt in my mind that it is definitely a poor system and if it does anything at all, it only encourages an individual to win for his own glory rather than for his respective group. And, in our present crisis the latent spirit is so necessary. I firmly believe that the Phi Gam's gain, and should remedy this situation immediately, for the betterment of our extensive program.

I have a suggestion in mind, which is quite simple and I believe is quite fair. It involves just two simple rules:

1. Every group which has entered at least the minimum number of contestants, who have met the requirements of the Intramural rules and have competed fairly in the tournaments, shall automatically be given 10 points.

2. The present system of scoring points to determine the comparative positions of the teams in the meet should be retained, but the total amassed by each group in the meet shall be added on to the original 10 to determine the final tally toward the All-Year trophy.

This, to me seems quite fair, as it will certainly reward the groups that have displayed enough effort to put a team in, and will provide the lines of demarcation between the competing groups, instead of showing most of them equal as the present method does.

I-M COURT TOURNAMENT STARTS DECEMBER 14

Two leagues Already Drawn Up As Teams Practice Daily For Opening Whistle

The annual intramural basketball tournament, an outstanding feature of Bucknell's non-varsity sports program, will start next Monday afternoon on the courts of the Davis Gymnasium. Further taken of their esteem these teams have been set up, and the winners will battle for the championship trophy.

Sigma Alpha Mu, the 1941 titleholder, has lost the nucleus of last year's top-ranking quintet, thus making this year's race a wide open affair. Sigma Chi, the Phi Gam, and Kappa Sigma will probably battle right down to the wire in League Two, while the Sammies, Phi Psi, and S. A. E.'s will wage a close contest for leadership in League One.

All games will begin promptly at 4:40 in the afternoon.

Szat And Anderson Make All-State Grid Squad

With the regular gridiron season a thing for the record books now, and All-State teams in the vogue, the B. U. Bison squad is now taking in the rewards for their fine play this past season. Walt Szat, the Bison's immovable tackle was selected on the All-Pennsylvania second team, and Bill Anderson earned a berth on the mythical third eleven. Chet Pudd, Red Johnson, Felix Siegen, and Johnny Paar, all backfield stars, were named as honorable mentions as was Gene Matthews.

Bison Start Slowly

The Bison got off to a slow start and were behind 1-0 for the first few minutes, but once Haines scored on a beautiful one-handed push shot, the courtmen started to roll on their own, and played such good defensive ball that their opponents best efforts during the entire first half netted them only one field goal and four points from foul shots.

Sitarsky Floors Fine Club

This is the first game in which Johnny Sitarsky has been at the helm, and he floored a well-drilled machine, easily employed his streamlined fast break against the state defense. His system seemed to work well and if the Bisons continue to play this same brand of ball, they may be headed for what might prove to be their best season in years.

Fort Bragg, N. C.

Another week — herring mishap — and I shall have finished Center School here. Then probably a week of K. P. and guard duty again and off to Fort Sill and O. C. S. on the 20th. I shall undoubtedly arrive there just in time for Christmas. And I shall really be "dreaming of a white Christmas".

Roscoe Brownell leaves for Ft. Sill tomorrow, but of course I take a little longer to get around to the "Z" — so shall have to wait.

Center School is a real grind. It's really not too difficult — but so much is crammed into the month that it makes it tough. One doesn't realize just how complicated modern war is, until he bumps full into artillery. We must learn the basic elements of survey, ballistics, gunnery, army administration, military law, map reading, and of course a hundred other subjects that are inseparable from the war in civilian terminology. But when I'm finished I should be able to run a simple survey, figure my data and then drop a 33-lb. shell into a bunker at 7 miles.

Did you notice the comment "Life" had on artillery in the African campaign. It credited artillery with the greatest amount of enemy casualties there. The airplane may be the newest weapon, without which we could not succeed. But the old infantry still has to move into enemy territory and hold it. And artillery has to support the infantry and mechanized units if they are to succeed. So I may have a real tough time in this struggle before I'm through.

The army has a new series of orientation movies it is showing to all troops. It's a very excellent job. It goes into the background of the war and attempts to show the reasons and causes for it. It pulls no punches. While it naturally biases Hitler, Mussolini, and the militaristic Japanese, it points an accusing finger at the objectors who blasted Wilson on his hopes at the end of the last war. And it's very critical of everyone of us who say we came for slavery when Manchuria was invaded, when Mussolini went into Egypt, and when Spain was in arms.

One scene is a replay of an interview done by Pathé News in 1939 in which the average American was isolationist. The commentary is spoken by Walter Huston and the whole is an excellent job of moving picture photography.

The conclusions are that this war in its present intensity is the result of our failure to protect our sister nations in the years gone by, and that no nation and no people can be safe in peace and democracy unless all nations and peoples are protected in their rights to peace and democracy.

As yet we have seen only the first of the series which covered the period from the last war through the atrocities of Italy and Japan. The second in the series covers the rise of Fascism in Germany and the beginning of Hitler and Munich. I am anxious to see how the remaining five films of the series will be developed. And I'm particularly anxious to see what conclusions they have incorporated in the final reel.

Church services here continue to be well attended. I wish some of the B. U. fraternities would see the example their brothers in the service are setting. And this despite the fact that services are far worse than any I have ever heard in our Lewisburg churches.

The Chaplain who was here when I first came was quite good. The new man, unfortunately, doesn't have much to offer. But since only a few of us go to church to hear the Chaplain, none of us let it bother us too much.

The news has just come over the radio that President Roosevelt has finally taken action on the manpower situation. I am particularly pleased that Selective Service is to actually be selective service. Up until now it has been pretty much of a farce. Why the navy had to have a volunteer system, I shall not be able to understand. And why men about to be drafted have been permitted to "volunteer" and get a preferential status, is another one of the mysteries. I hope the new system has some teeth in it.

How is the manpower situation at Bucknell? I hear that Lafayette is to become an Artillery School. It would be nice if Bucknell could get something like that to tide over.

Hinkle May Forego Scheduled Visit

Law Prohibiting Further Enlisting Complicates Interview Program

Because of the recent law prohibiting further enlistments in the armed forces of the United States, there is a possibility that Lieutenant Clark Hinkle, who was scheduled to be on the campus this Monday to interview students interested in the U. S. Coast Guard, may forego this visit.

Hinkle, graduate from Bucknell in the class of 1932, is one of the all-time greats of the football gridiron. Having made the All-American grid team while at Bucknell, Hinkle further blazoned his name across the sports pages of the nation as one of professional football's greatest buckedlars. He is now in the United States Coast Guard.

On his visit to the campus this Monday Hinkle was expected to show movies of the Coast Guard in action and explain the whole organization of this branch of the service and interview any students interested in becoming coast guardsmen.

The recent change of events may result in his not appearing here as scheduled. However, as yet Dean Dunning has not been notified of his coming, so unless an announcement is made from the Dean's office to the contrary it is forthcoming in the next day or so, it may be presumed that Clark Hinkle will return to the campus this Monday.

FORMER BUCKNELLIAN EDITOR WRITES BOOK

Reynolds Packard, '26, With Aid of Wife, Completes First Work, "Balcony Empire"

By Mimi Fueschel

Another famous first may now be added to the annals of Bucknell University. Reynolds Packard, '26, former editor of "The Bucknellian", has written his first book, entitled "Balcony Empire", in collaboration with his wife, Eleanor Packard.

The Packards write of their experiences and their views concerning Italy, a topic on which they are extremely well informed by virtue of having been United Press Correspondents in Italy. The theme of "Balcony Empire" is that Italy is the logical place to open the attack against Hitler on the continent of Europe.

Packard and his wife are fortunate in that they have been on hand to gain the majority of their facts when five years they have been in the public eye as having reported the highlights of the revolution in Spain, the invasion of Ethiopia, and in 1940 Packard was awarded recognition for his reporting of the Czech-Slovakian crisis when he received the Annual Achievement Award of the Headliner Club.

Mr. Packard has led a strange and interesting career from the shores of the Susquehanna in Lewisburg to the shores of China and the South Seas and then to Europe. At one time he was supposed to have met his fate in a fire in Niterburg in 1928, but he again popped up where news was in the making.

Dribblers Trounce Pen Quintet 55-22

Johnny Sitarsky's varsity cagers chalked up their second win of the season last night when they overcame an aggressive Northeastern Penitentiary quintet, 55-22. Hank Formwald and Captain George Haines sparked the Bison offense by ringing up 37 points between them. Formwald tallied 22 markers and Haines added 15 more to his total.

It didn't take the Orange and Blue five long to warm up, and they grabbed an early lead, which was never challenged. At halftime, they led their foes 25-8. With Haines, Formwald, and Stan Schilder ringing the scoring bell, the Bisons ran up 23 points the second half. Schilder, who copped third place scoring honors, broke through the Red outfit for three baskets in the waning minutes of the final stanza.

Four $18.75 Bonds will pay for one GARAND RIFLE. With the modern self-loading Garand, an infantryman can fire 40 shots a minute up to an effective range of 3,500 yards.

Packard and his wife are fortunate in that they have been on hand to gain the majority of their facts when five years they have been in the public eye as having reported the highlights of the revolution in Spain, the invasion of Ethiopia, and in 1940 Packard was awarded recognition for his reporting of the Czech-Slovakian crisis when he received the Annual Achievement Award of the Headliner Club.

Mr. Packard has led a strange and interesting career from the shores of the Susquehanna in Lewisburg to the shores of China and the South Seas and then to Europe. At one time he was supposed to have met his fate in a fire in Niterburg in 1928, but he again popped up where news was in the making.

Church services here continue to be well attended. I wish some of the B. U. fraternities would see the example their brothers in the service are setting. And this despite the fact that services are far worse than any I have ever heard in our Lewisburg churches.

The Chaplain who was here when I first came was quite good. The new man, unfortunately, doesn't have much to offer. But since only a few of us go to church to hear the Chaplain, none of us let it bother us too much.

The news has just come over the radio that President Roosevelt has finally taken action on the manpower situation. I am particularly pleased that Selective Service is to actually be selective service. Up until now it has been pretty much of a farce. Why the navy had to have a volunteer system, I shall not be able to understand. And why men about to be drafted have been permitted to "volunteer" and get a preferential status, is another one of the mysteries. I hope the new system has some teeth in it.

How is the manpower situation at Bucknell? I hear that Lafayette is to become an Artillery School. It would be nice if Bucknell could get something like that to tide over.

Bucknellians At I. R. C. Conference

Four students represented Bucknell at the International Relations Club's Middle Atlantic Conference held at Princeton University last weekend.

"Anglo-American Relations" and post-war problems were the main topics of discussion during the week-end convalescence which was featured by addresses by Prof. D. Earle of Princeton and Prof. Clyde Eagleton of New York University.

Representing Bucknell at this meeting were Warren Dunning, Penna. Kohler, Anne Stevenson, and Ralph Mavrogian. Thirty-five colleges and universities had delegates in attendance.

The date of the Governor's presence here will be all the more interesting and significant because this will probably be one of his final public appearances as chief executive of the state, for five days later, on January 19, he will be officially vacating his office, which is to be occupied by Governor-elect Martin.

Governor James To Appear At January Chapel

Visit Will Be First Of Its Kind On Bucknell Campus

Pennsylvania's Governor, Arthur H. James, and his wife will appear at the University's weekly chapel service on Thursday, January 14.

President Marts, who through his work as executive director of the State Council of Defense, comes in constant contact with the Governor, has extended this invitation to Mr. and Mrs. James, which was accepted this past week.

GOV. ARTHUR H. JAMES

This will mark the first time in the ninety-seven year history of the University that a governor of the State of Pennsylvania has visited Bucknell, and an interesting and fitting program is being arranged to commemorate this occasion.

The date of the Governor's presence here will be all the more interesting and significant because this will probably be one of his final public appearances as chief executive of the state, for five days later, on January 19, he will be officially vacating his office, which is to be occupied by Governor-elect Martin.

LEWISBURG, PA. THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1942.

NUMBER 11.

DR. TOLLEY TO ADDRESS MID-YEAR GRADUATES

Commencement Exercises To Be Held In Methodist Church On January 30

Dr. William Pearson Tolley, chancellor of Syracuse University and president of the Association of American Colleges, will be the principal speaker at the University's first mid-year formal commencement exercises Saturday morning, January 30.

The announcement of the appearance of Dr. Tolley on the commencement program was made last Thursday by President Marts at the University's monthly faculty meeting.

It was also announced that because a very large crowd was not expected for the exercises, they would be held in the Methodist Church and not in the University's chapel as originally planned.

Was President at Allegheny College Dr. Tolley is a noted leader in the college educational field, having served as president of Allegheny College for 11 years before accepting his present position at Syracuse University. As president of the Association of American Colleges, he holds what is probably one of the most important positions in the nation regarding the role that the American college is going to play in the war effort.

He was born in Homestead, Pa., and graduated from Syracuse University and Drew Theological Seminary. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa. The topic of Dr. Tolley's talk has not as yet been announced.

THESPIANS GIVE SHOW AT INDIANTOWN GAP

Old-fashioned campfire with an all student cast will be presented to the patients at the American Red Cross Hospital and to the U. S. O. branch at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation by Theta Alpha Pi, dramatic fraternity, December 10. The show includes four acts of about fifteen minutes each.

Comic ballet, soft shoe and boogie wogie dancing by Nancy Byck, Evelyn Groszklaus and Bob Kimmel, who arranged the dance routines for "Star Bright" last year, is now building tanks by day and working on this show at night.

Sleight of hand will be performed by a student magician. Next on the program will be a barbershop quartet, while the fourth act will be the singing of a large group.

Asked by President Marts to keep down the number in the cast because of the transportation situation, the fraternity has simplified the show, according to Stan Marshall, who is in charge of the performance.

The Office of Naval Procurement in Philadelphia will be open all day Sunday, starting at 9:30 A. M. Those who have already made applications may take the examination, but must obtain certification from Dean Page.

The Marine corps contains the names of 16 Bucknell men. One is a lieutenant colonel, another is a major, a third is a captain, five are lieutenants, and eight are non-commissioned.

Air Corps has most B. U. Men The occupation distribution of Bucknell men in the Army shows the greatest number of former B. U. men to be in the Army Air Corps, either ground crew or flying duty. There are 110 Bucknell men in this branch of the service. Second in the occupational line is the medical corps which contains 32 Bucknellians. The Artillery has 22 B. U. men bearing its insignia, general headquarters and the infantry 26 each, the signal corps 25, the ordnance department 18, the quartermaster 18, and the transportation 18.

"Equal Opportunity For All..."

In the very near future an announcement will emanate from Washington of a definite plan providing for the utilization during the war of the facilities of the nation's colleges and universities for the training of a limited number of men of the armed forces for specialized duties. The men to be sent to these colleges shall be selected solely on the basis of their ability, as proven by competitive examinations.

For the first time in the history of higher education in this country men are to be admitted to colleges on but one basis, their ability. For the first time men will be admitted to college with no regard as to their financial status. We fervently hope that this proposed plan is adopted immediately for we feel that this plan represents the most significant move made since the advent of this war to prove that the real thing for which we, the allied nations are fighting for, is the establishment of a pure democratic equality for all men.

Until now, though most of us were aware of it, but few of us liked to admit it, the blunt fact was that the whole system of higher education in this country was built upon the basis of class privilege—for the colleges now, as in the past, continued to draw their students primarily from those able to afford an education.

In times of peace, a system of college education based on privilege hardly coincides with sacred American principles of "equal opportunity for all". In wartime, its undemocratic character is accentuated both because it leads to serious waste of effective manpower and because it inevitably hardens the class distinction in the armed forces.

By now most colleges have forgotten that the original Selective Service law, which only permitted temporary deferment for students, was specifically designed to prevent the rise of a privileged group from service. The various reserve plans, however, by drawing officer material from students after they had been admitted to college, became a convenient means for circumventing the clear intention of the law. No one will deny that deferment is necessary to enable a student to receive adequate training; but deferment and eventual commissions belong to those who deserve them on the basis of ability, not to those who were able to pay for the opportunity to receive them.

Since the army and navy depend on the colleges for most of their officer material, the effect of perpetuating the traditional basis for admission can only be to strengthen the degree of privilege which pervades the armed forces. A democratic army is one whose officers are drawn from all elements in the population and not limited to the sons of the comparatively well-to-do.

The changes which must be made are simple, yet clearly revolutionary in nature. In principle, they are contained in the plans which have already been formulated in Washington and which will be announced in the so very distant future. Whatever the form is to be adopted in these plans, it must be clear that there can be no compromise with the basic principle that higher education is not the possession of a particular class, but the right of all people.

It is now up to the colleges, their faculties, and their students—those most affected by this new plan—to rally behind it, for if we are not fighting for this sort of a thing—equal rights and opportunities for all persons—then what in Heaven's name are we fighting this war for?

RAMBLING!

WITH FINKERNAGEL

Just two days before the first anniversary of the Bombing of Pearl Harbor, President Roosevelt announced that all enlistments for the armed service would be denied and that all men would be taken via Selective Service.

"After hearing this, a good majority of Bucknellians began tearing their hair and generally beating their heads into the ground. However, the reserves will be open till the fifteenth for those students that registered and made application before the fifth of December. So, brighten up and be of good cheer—if one can be of good anything these days—for Secretary of War Stimson has announced the following statements in a recent address:

"The Army will rely on its Officers Candidate School for virtually all of its officers it may need in the future. A majority of these officers already selected so far were from the ranks and were inducted through the selective service. To be exact—about 60% of the graduated officers were 'selectees'. These men had completed their three month basic training course and were recommended for O. C. S.

In light of these statements it does not look too bad for those collegians who will get the draft board's call in the near future. The Bucknellian started last week that it would be of little use for fresh and sophie to enlist in the Army Reserve. And if we are called, you may be sure that ALL THE EDUCATION WE CAN GET will stand us in good stead when we have completed that basic training and are looking around for some bars for our shoulders.

ODDITIES. Remember zoot suits? Remember ordinary pants with cuffs? Well it won't be long till we will look on shirt tails as a thing of the past. The War Production Board announced last week that they will stand us in good stead when we have completed that basic training and are looking around for some bars for our shoulders.

It costs Uncle Sam about $30,000 to train, equip, feed and pay his Army combat pilot before he gets his wings.

Foes To Floor Giant Five; Sitarismy Point For Third Win Of Season

By Jack W. Denholtz
On Saturday night our cagers will take on what will probably be their toughest assignment of the season when they travel to State College to meet a tall, rangy State quintet composed of four veterans. So far this year State has met two opponents and both back. In the opening game they beat a tough Washington & Jefferson five, 34-29 and last night they had an easy win over a weak Susquehanna team.

State Dribblers Tall
Coach John Lowther expects a good season but doesn't think his team will reach their best form until very late in the year. He has a relatively easy job this year because four of his last year varsity men are back. At center he has Dave Horstman in a 6 foot 5 inch lad who played good ball last year. His guards are also giants as Herky Baltimore is 6 feet 4 inches and John Egli is 6 feet 3 inches. Larry Gent, the "bridge" of the team, is just a little under the 6 foot mark, and his running-mate at the forward slot is Whitey Von Nisla, the only sophomore on the team at an even 6 feet.

The Bisons will enter the game also with two games under their belt. In their first encounter they completely baffled a very weak and unorganized Elizabethtown quintet, and in their second game they downed a rugged and fighting Northeastern Pentet. In their third game they defeated the starting five. Capt. George Haines, of course, will be the number one man as he always is and Bibby Keegan is almost sure to start. From the line comes Dave Keegan, who has been playing since his freshman year. Capt. George Haines, Frank Burns, Morty Silberman, Ralph Downes, and Hank Formwald have given Coach Sitarismy with choice his other three starters, with the others almost sure of seeing a good deal of action.

Bisons Beat State In 1940
It's been two years now since the Bucknell courtiers have downed Penn State, and before that they hadn't won since 1912, but this year it won't be surprising if that long-awaited and previous victory comes to the B. U. stalwarts. However, whether it does or it doesn't the game Saturday night will be a good one to watch because we as well as they will have some 'big boys' out there. Forward:

THE FINALISTS
120: Abner, SAM vs. Kling, LCA.
127: Droot, KDR vs. winner of Clump, DS, vs. Kelly, KS.
135: Shields, DS, vs. winner of Chase, SAM vs. Warner, PKP.
145: Keenan, KS vs. winner of Noonan, LCA vs. Glander, SCC.
155: Nesselbush, LCA vs. Wild-forester, SAE.
165: Merrill, KS vs. Burns, SAE.
175: Dawson, SX vs. Mendes, LCA.
180: Miller, PKP vs. Matthews, PGD.

Lambda Chi Alpha's mittmen are leading the pack thus far with three representatives in the finals and will possibly have a fourth depending on the outcome of the John Noonan-Harry Glander fight. The Kappa Sig and SAE's are close behind with two 'sure' boxes. The former might have a third, if Joe Kelly can take Kappa Sig, this time, The Sigma, Phi by this time have a good idea of the potentialities of his team and from past performances shouldn't have a great deal of trouble in choosing his starting five.

Capt. George Haines, of course, will be the number one man as he always is and Bibby Keegan is almost sure to start. From the line comes Dave Keegan, who has been playing since his freshman year. Capt. George Haines, Frank Burns, Morty Silberman, Ralph Downes, and Hank Formwald have given Coach Sitarismy with choice his other three starters, with the others almost sure of seeing a good deal of action.

Bisons Beat State In 1940
It's been two years now since the Bucknell courtiers have downed Penn State, and before that they hadn't won since 1912, but this year it won't be surprising if that long-awaited and previous victory comes to the B. U. stalwarts. However, whether it does or it doesn't the game Saturday night will be a good one to watch because we as well as they will have some 'big boys' out there. Forward:

THE FINALISTS
120: Abner, SAM vs. Kling, LCA.
127: Droot, KDR vs. winner of Clump, DS, vs. Kelly, KS.
135: Shields, DS, vs. winner of Chase, SAM vs. Warner, PKP.
145: Keenan, KS vs. winner of Noonan, LCA vs. Glander, SCC.
155: Nesselbush, LCA vs. Wild-forester, SAE.
165: Merrill, KS vs. Burns, SAE.
175: Dawson, SX vs. Mendes, LCA.
180: Miller, PKP vs. Matthews, PGD.

Lambda Chi Alpha's mittmen are leading the pack thus far with three representatives in the finals and will possibly have a fourth depending on the outcome of the John Noonan-Harry Glander fight. The Kappa Sig and SAE's are close behind with two 'sure' boxes. The former might have a third, if Joe Kelly can take Kappa Sig, this time, The Sigma, Phi by this time have a good idea of the potentialities of his team and from past performances shouldn't have a great deal of trouble in choosing his starting five.

Capt. George Haines, of course, will be the number one man as he always is and Bibby Keegan is almost sure to start. From the line comes Dave Keegan, who has been playing since his freshman year. Capt. George Haines, Frank Burns, Morty Silberman, Ralph Downes, and Hank Formwald have given Coach Sitarismy with choice his other three starters, with the others almost sure of seeing a good deal of action.

News Of B.U. Men In The Service

Fort Bragg, N. C.

Another week — barring mishap — I shall have finished Center School here. Then probably a few days of guard duty again and off to Fort Sill and O. C. S. on the 20th. I shall undoubtedly arrive there just in time for Christmas. And I shall really be "dreaming of a white Christmas".

Roscoe Brownell leaves for Ft. Sill tomorrow, but of course it takes a little longer to get around to the "Z's" — so shall have to wait.

Center School is a real grind. It's really not too difficult — but so very much is crammed into the month that it makes it tough. One doesn't really just have complicated modern war, until he bumps full into artillery. We must learn the basic elements to survey, ballistics, gunnery, army administration, military law, map reading, and of course a hundred other subjects that are incapable of description in civilian terminology. But when I finished I should be able to run a single survey, figure my data, and then drop a 33-lb. shell into a bucket at 7 miles.

Did you notice the comment "Life" had on artillery in the African campaign. It credited artillery with the greatest amount of enemy casualties there. The airplane may be the new weapon, without which we could not succeed. But the old infantry still has to move into captured territory and hold it. And artillery has to support the infantry and mechanized units if they are to succeed. So I may have a real and vital part in this struggle before I'm through.

The army has a very excellent orientation movie it is showing to all troops. It is a very excellent job. It goes into the background of this war and attempts to show the reasons and causes for it. It is a masterpiece. While it naturally blames Hitler, Mussolini, and the militarist Japanese faction, it points an accusing finger at the destruction of the world which will come at the end of the last war. And it's very critical of everyone of us who saw no cause for alarm when Manchuria was invaded, when Mussolini went into Ethiopia, and when Spain was in arms.

One scene is a replay of an interview done by Pathe News in 1939 in which the average American was asked: "What do you think of Hitler?" The commentator is spoken by Walter Huston and the whole is an excellent job of moving picture photography.

The conclusions are that this war in its present intensity is the result of our failure to protect our weaker sister nations in the years gone by, and that no nation and no people can be safe in peace and democracy unless all nations and peoples are protected in their rights to peace and democracy.

As yet we have seen only the first of the series which covered the period from the last war through the attack of Hitler on Russia. The second in the series covers the rise of Fascism in Germany and the beginnings of Hitler's march. I am anxious to see the remaining few films of the series will be developed. And I'm particularly anxious to see what conclusions they have incorporated in the final reel.

Church services here continue to be well attended. I wish some of the B. U. fraternity men could see the example their brothers in the service are setting. And this despite the fact that sermons are far worse than any I have ever heard in our Lewisburg churches.

The Chaplain who was here when I first came was quite good. The new man, unfortunately, does not have too much to offer. But since only a few of us go to church to hear the Chaplain, none of us let it bother us too much.

The news has just come over the radio that President Roosevelt has finally taken action on the manpower situation. I am particularly pleased that Selective Service is to actually be selective service. Up until now it has been pretty much of a farce. Why the navy had to have a volunteer system, I shall not be able to understand. And why men about to be drafted, have been permitted to "volunteer" and get a preferential status, is another one of the mysteries. I hope the new system has some teeth in it.

How is the manpower situation at Bucknell? I hear that Lafayette is to become an Artillery School. It would be nice if Bucknell could get something like that to tide over.

Yours, John Zeller.

Hinkle May Forego Scheduled Visit

Law Prohibiting Further Enlisting Complicates Interview Program

Because of the recent law prohibiting further enlistments in the armed forces of the United States, there is a possibility that Lieutenant Clark Hinkle, who was scheduled to be on the campus this Monday to interview students interested in the U. S. Coast Guard, may forego this visit.

Hinkle, graduate from Bucknell in the class of 1932, is one of the all-time greats of the football gridiron. Having made the All-American grid team while at Bucknell, Hinkle furthered his name across the sports pages of the nation as one of professional football's greatest backfield aces of the last decade. After playing on the Green Bay Packers for ten years, Hinkle turned his grid uniform in for a lieutenant in the United States Coast Guard.

On his visit to the campus this Monday Hinkle was expected to show movies of the Coast Guard in action and explain the whole organization of this branch of the service and interview any students interested in becoming coast guardsmen.

The recent change of events may result in his not appearing here as scheduled. However, as yet Dean Page has not been notified of his not coming, so unless an announcement from the Dean's office to the contrary is forthcoming in the next day or so, it may be presumed that Clark Hinkle will return to the campus this Monday.

FORMER BUCKNELLIAN EDITOR WRITES BOOK

Reynolds Packard, '26, First of Wife, Completes 'Wild Work, 'Balcony Empire'

Another famous first name now has been added to the annals of Bucknell University. Reynolds Packard, '26, former editor of "The Bucknellian", has written his first book, entitled "Balcony Empire," in collaboration with his wife Eleanor Packard.

The Packards write of their experiences, and their views concerning Italy, a topic on which they are extremely well informed by virtue of having been United Press Correspondents in Italy. The theme of "Balcony Empire" is that Italy is the logical place to open the attack against Hitler on the continent of Europe.

Packard and his wife are fortunate in that they have been on hand to gain the majority of their facts when the story "breaks". During the past five years they have been in the public eye as having reported the highlights of the revolution in Spain, the invasion of Ethiopia, and in 1940 Packard was awarded recognition for his reporting of the Czech-Slovakian crisis when he received the Annual Achievement Award of the Headline Club.

Mr. Packard has led a strange and interesting career from the shores of the Susquehanna in Lewisburg to the shores of China and the South Seas and then to Europe. At one time he was supposed to have met his fate in a fire in Nicaragua in 1928, but Dame Fortune was with him and he again popped up where news was in the making.

The Chaplain who was here when I first came was quite good. The new man, unfortunately, does not have too much to offer. But since only a few of us go to church to hear the Chaplain, none of us let it bother us too much.

The news has just come over the radio that President Roosevelt has finally taken action on the manpower situation. Bucknellians At I. R. C. Conference

Four students represented Bucknell at the International Relations Club's Middle Atlantic Conference held at Princeton University last weekend.

"Anglo-American Relations" and post-war problems were the main topics of discussion during the week-end convales which was featured by addresses by Prof. D. Earle of Princeton and Prof. Clyde Eagleton of New York University.

Representing Bucknell at this meeting were Warren Dunning, Perma Kohler, Anne Stevenson, and Ralph Mavrogianous. Thirty-five colleges and universities had delegates in attendance.

Four $18.75 bonds will pay for one GARAND RIFLE. With the modern self-loading Garand, an infantryman can fire 60 shots a minute, up to an effective range of 3,500 yards.

Editorial

We Must Not Let President Marts Down

Those persons who were in Chapel last week heard President Marts in what was undoubtedly the most disappointed frame of mind that he has ever been in concerning the Bucknell student body since the outbreak of the war.

Few of us here at Bucknell realize the tremendous job that our President is doing in our nation's war effort. Few of us realize that in President Marts, we at Bucknell undoubtedly have one of the most highly respected, one of the most conscientious, and one of the hardest working college presidents in the entire country. We sincerely doubt whether there is any college president in the nation who is devoting more time to our country's war effort and is doing more for it than our own President Marts.

Because we are so fortunate in having so fine a man to serve as our leader in this period of extreme crisis and uncertainty, it seems so terribly wrong and ironical to us that here at Bucknell there still exist certain students who, because of pure selfishness or outright ignorance, are still unwilling to make the certain small sacrifices that are being asked of them now.

Although there have been numerous instances of this childishness by certain Bucknell men and women concerning the college student's role in the war, the most recent and one of the worst, the one to which President Marts referred in Chapel last week, is this "gripping" of some persons here about the length of this year's Christmas vacation.

The Christmas vacation for Bucknell students, as was stated in the University catalogue at the beginning of the year, is scheduled to start on December 23. Every student returning to school this year was aware of this. It wasn't something just "sprung" upon them. The faculty and the administration had arranged their calendar to conform with this date.

Until about two weeks ago nobody at school seemed to be particularly concerned with the fact that this date was a few days later than it had been in past years. But then when word came to the ears of certain persons here that because of the expected difficulties in railroad transportation during the holiday season, a number of colleges were disbursing a week earlier for their Christmas vacation, an immediate demand was voiced by these persons to have Bucknell do the same thing.

But unknown to these persons clamoring for an earlier vacation, whom we believe were not motivated by any sincere desire to relieve the rail transportation difficulties, but primarily were concerned in trying to gain a few days of funmaking and loafing at the expense of their studies, the University authorities had already thoroughly looked into the matter. After discussing the problem with the railroad officials who had visited the campus last month, it was shown, without a doubt, that Bucknell could best cooperate in helping to minimize these expected difficulties by dismissing its student body as they had planned, on the 23rd. It was pointed out by these railroad men that starting the vacation on the 22nd, the 21st, or on any other day after the 17th of the month would not in any way alleviate the situation. To end classes on the 17th or thereabouts was entirely out of the question, especially considering the fact, which so many Bucknell students have already forgotten, that we started this semester about two full weeks after most other colleges in the East. This was necessitated by the fact that the engineering students who were here this summer needed these extra two weeks to complete their courses under the present accelerated program.

Knowing all these facts, some small group of unthinking and immature students, nevertheless, intended to go so far as to draw up a petition to have our vacation start earlier. Is it small wonder that our hard-working, conscientious President appeared to be disappointed and peeved with this minority of the student body when he forcefully stated in Chapel last week that the Christmas vacation could not and would not be changed?

We know that President Marts did not relish the idea of having to appear to be so forceful with the Bucknell students. In our four years here we have never seen him so disillusioned or so disappointed in us as he seemed last week.

It must have been so much more difficult for him to be so firm than it would have been for any ordinary college president, for just a few days before that, at the American Association for College and University Officers' dinner in New York City, he emphatically declared: "There are no more patriotic appeals in America than the campuses of our colleges and universities and we are eager to get into this war."

We know that not one person in this world who knows Dr. Marts doubts his sincerity of his belief, and students here at Bucknell we owe it to him, as well as to ourselves, to live up to his expectations of us and the standards which he has set for us. Let us all vow now to let our great President or ourselves down in this period of crisis and demanding sacrifice.

SOCIETY NEWS

by Connie Campbell

Sororities have been occupied this past week with pledging ceremonies, pledge banquets, and otherwise celebrating that at long last rushing is over.

Alpha Chi gave its pledge banquet at the Hotel Lewisburg last Tuesday night. Alpha Chi's who were away last weekend were Allegra Willis who visited Princeton, Dottie Lee Grounds who spent the weekend in Harrisburg, and Bertie Bumpus who visited Cy Treacart, '42, in Philadelphia and then returned to the campus with him.

Pi Phi held its pledge banquet at the Hotel Lewisburg Tuesday, December 8, following their formal pledging ceremony. The pledge class has selected the following officers: Pat Whitman, president; Martha Fisher, vice president; Scotty Groves, secretary; and Virginia Capers, treasurer. June Chapman spent last weekend in Philadelphia visiting her former "big sister," Doris Green, '42.

The Tri Deltas had a cozy in their suite last Saturday night for their new pledges. Many of the members and pledges from other dorms came over and spent the night in Hunt. Marty Nickelson went to the Hunt. Phi Mu honored its seniors graduating in February at a banquet in the Orange and Blue Room of the Hotel Lewisburg last Thursday night. Recognition pins were given at the banquet to all members of Phi Mu having maintained a B average last semester. Louise Stead was awarded a bracelet for having the highest average in the sorority. A dessert quiz was given in the suite after supper last Sunday. Hope Woods visited Cadet Charles McCoy in Philadelphia last weekend.

Kappa Delta's pledges have elected the following officers: Jean Gannell, president; Eutha Richter, vice president; Alice Nix, secretary; Pat Macdonald, treasurer; and Jean Adams, social chairman. The engagement of Marguerite Bartholomew to Donald Farer, graduate of Franklin and Marshall, has recently been announced. Marie Frounald attended the Winter Formal at Gettysburg last weekend. Omitted from the list of Kappa Delta's pledges in last week's Bucknellian was Rosemary Ford.

Delta Zeta "big sisters" entertained their pledges in the suite Wednesday, December 9, after formal pledging. Mrs. Bruce Miller spoke to the pledge group at a Standards Program last Thursday evening. The annual pledge banquet was held at the Hotel Lewisburg last Friday.

Three life Stamps will pay for two PAIRS OF SOCKS. In action, every man, must be completely re-equipped from the skin out every seven days.

RAMBLING!

WITH FINKERNAGEL

CHRISTMAS AS USUAL. As the end of December rolls around once more, it is only natural that we write a short bit about Christmas and all its good things in it. Christmas, holly wreaths, Santa Claus—all these come to mind and we can't help reminiscing about them.

There is, this year, a prevailing feeling and sentiment in this country that we shouldn't celebrate this holiday in the usual manner. War, boys in the service, shortage of this and that, they say, should hold us in check and keep our sentiments from running rampant. Being a firm believer in the Golden Mean, and wanting to keep away from the extremes, this columnist feels, however, that this policy of subdued celebration is wrong—definitely wrong.

This Xmas should NOT be a dreary and drab one. On the contrary, it should be a merry and happy Christmas to be remembered. For it is things like Christmas that we are fighting for. The night before Xmas, when we're all decorating the tree, The trouble finding enough string for that last package. The look on the kid brother's face when he sees his parents in the morning. Even the gripping about getting up to show them to him. These are the things we're protecting in Africa, Stalingrad, and at the Solomons. Sure we have to save our interests and defend our allies, but you can bet your last two bits the Commandos and the Marines on Wake were thinking about such things as juke-boxes, the Dodgers, and Christmas at home. For Christmas is Democracy—democracy is America.

THIS 'N THAT. It isn't very often that a brother and sister after graduating from the same school get in the same service. But two Bucknellians did just that. James Frith, S. A. E. and Eleanor Frith, both graduated from here a few years ago and are now in there fighting for Uncle Sam. Jim is stationed on a carrier in the Atlantic while Eleanor, not to be outdone by her big brother, joined the WAVES. Eleanor was one of the students who published The Antic two years ago while Jim mixed his scholastic ability, which by the way was very high, with a bit of I-M Boxing.

Muhlenberg College had a very impressive ceremony in memory of the Attack on Pearl Harbor. The student body president asked each student to read aloud a pledge. This pledge is so timely that I have reprinted it in this column. Change the name of the colleges and read this pledge. Undoubtedly it will make you stop and its only a dashing uniform on a tall, handsome man—not $5,000 American men dead, wounded, missing, not the men, women and children of Greece dying for lack of food, not boys being tortured in German and Japanese concentration camps, not millions of boys training day and night only to kill or be killed, not millions of red-blooded patriots working 70 and 80 hours a week turning out munitions. Write your editorials, Morty, spread it on—thick, or they'll never have their blessed corsages of flowers—or their dances either, if we don't win this war.

Sincerely,
Peg Wright

Clark Hinkle Gives Up Grid Chores To Serve Uncle Sam

The Bison gave us the best gridsters of the nation come and go in his ten years of pro-football and winningly selects four of his former teammates at Green Bay as the best gridsters he has played with. Above all, he raises the passing combination of Cecil Isbell and Don Hutson as unsurpassable. Guard Cal Hubbard, now a major league baseball umpire and George Svenson, who played center of the Iowa Pre-Flight Team this year, are also included on his list.

Joined Coast Guard in May. Realizing the seriousness of the world situation and anxious to serve his country, Hinkle gave up his great love, football, for a more important job, and on May 21, 1942, accepted a commission in the United States Coast Guard. He estimates his training at Bucknell as invaluable in the service, for "it taught me fellowship and how to take my bumps, which is of vital importance in the service."

He is all out in favor of intercollegiate and intramural athletic competition and commented, "Athletics teach a man alertness and self-discipline. It develops the mind to make important split-second decisions, and bridges the gap between the coordination of mind and muscle. Athletes in College are better equipped to meet the best fighting men, for they are well prepared to take care of themselves and are fully aware of the meaning of fighting for victory."

"Proud To Be A Bucknellian" Now, 33 years old and happily married, Clark Hinkle looks back at his days at Bucknell with a yearning. He enjoyed his stay on the campus immensely, and will try to come back more often after we achieve our victory over the reds of this year. He has stayed away. Bucknell is proud of Clark Hinkle as he represents an "All-American man," and Clark is proud of Bucknell, as is shown by his statement: "I'll never forget the campus life, and I'll always be thankful to know that I'm considered a part of Bucknell."

Snot And Matthews To Lead Bisons In 1943 Grid Tussles

New Co-Captains Chosen At Annual Football Dinner: 19 Letters Awarded

Walt Snot and Gene Matthews, both juniors, were elected as co-captains of the Bison's 1943 gridiron squad. The elections were held at the gridster's annual football dinner at the Coffee House last Thursday evening.

Both Outstanding Linemen. The newly elected co-captains have served brilliantly as bulwarks of the Bison forward wall. Snot has experienced first string action at a tackle berth, both in his junior and sophomore campaigns and has been one of the Herd's most outstanding mainstays on the front line. Matthews holds the distinction of being the most improved player on the squad. A first-stringer in his sophomore year, Gene's capabilities earned him a starting assignment during the past season. His fine play this year has earned him numerous honors on All-Opponent and All-Star crews.

Twenty Letter Winners. Twenty varsity B's were also awarded at the dinner. The letter-winners included

WORDS FROM B. U. MEN IN THE SERVICE

Box 54, Columbus Army Flying School, Advanced Twin Engine School, Columbus, Miss.

The Service Council:

Want to thank you for the "Bucknellian" which is very thoughtfully sent to me by your department. It's like a letter from home. I enjoyed the "Alumni Monthly" too. As other letters from graduates testify, we appreciate getting the school paper while so far away in the service.

The Columbus Army Flying School is one of the outstanding Advanced Twin Engine Flying Schools in America. We are very proud of our students. In the present class, five of my students are from United States Military Academy. However, their flying is not generally any better than the other students I have taught. The ordinary college man who, before the war never thought of the army, does pretty well in a twin-engine airplane.

If you print this in the column "News from the Men in Service," I'm hoping a few of the boys I've lost track of will drop me a line.

Sincerely,
Joe Dillin,
2nd Lt., U. S. A. A. F.

CARPENTER, '27, NAMED AIR FORCE CHAPLAIN

Word has just reached the campus of the appointment of Major Charles T. Carpenter, well-known Bucknell graduate, to the post of Air Chaplain for the Army Air Forces, with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

In his new capacity, Major Carpenter will supervise all chaplains serving with the Army Air Forces. In a letter to Dr. Charles M. Bond, professor of religion and one of his former teachers, Major Carpenter reports that he has already encountered numerous Bucknellians serving as Army chaplains.

After graduating from Bucknell in 1927, Major Carpenter attended Drew University, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in 1931. He later held pastorates at Rehoboth, N. J., and Federburg, Md.

Several years ago he received a Lieutenant's Commission to serve as an Army chaplain, and was stationed for a time in the Panama Canal Zone and later at Langley Field in Virginia.

Radio Workshop Will Broadcast On Campus

Bill Ross, '43, head of the Bucknell radio workshop, has completed the work on a transmitter which will be used in bringing recordings and campus news to the University dormitories every day from 4:30-6 o'clock every afternoon starting in January.

A trial broadcast from Bucknell Hall last Monday was quite successful. The news and music was picked up in the women's dormitories and along fraternity row, but because of some slight technical difficulty it was not heard in the men's dormitories. This is expected to be rectified shortly, in time for the first broadcast following the Christmas vacation.

The Radio Workshop program for this week, which will be heard over WKOK on Sunday from 3:30 to 4:00, will feature the rendition of some Christmas carols by certain members of the Men's Glee Club assisted by two women from each sorority. A reading of a Christmas story by Betty Miles will also be included in the program.

Elizabeth Dyer Will Wed Bud Winters, '44

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dyer of Winfield announced the engagement this week of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth T. Dyer, to Bud Winters, son of Mrs. C. T. Winters of Shippensburg.

Miss Dyer, who is assistant in the office of the Recorder, was graduated from Bucknell in the class of 1941, while her fiancé is a member of the junior class at the University.

Before attending college, where she was a member of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity, Miss Dyer was graduated from Lewisburg High School.

Mr. Winters, who is a graduate of Dornout High School, was elected in his freshman year to membership in Phi Eta Sigma, a national honorary fraternity for men of outstanding scholarship.

No date has been set for the wedding.

The University of Pittsburgh has adopted a physical education program to prepare students for service in the WAACS and the WAVES.

Please accept my best wishes for each of you as you soon finish your college work and go forth to strive valiantly for the right, as the only hope of bringing order out of the present chaos and establishing a world on some other principles than those of the jungle.

A. S. C. E. To Elect New Officers This Evening
